

Foreword

The content of this book is all related to a happy life, some of the questions are very important but also ordinary common sense. I will try to talk about these issues and put forward some relevant opinions and suggestions. I hope it will heighten everybody's attention, and hope it will be beneficial to world peace. Please listen to my opinions, suggestions and knowledge. If there are anything inappropriate or wrong, please criticize and correct my mistakes.

I hope that teachers, readers and experts will publish specialized and easy to understand reference books convenient for the public to study, to attract everyone's attention on important issues and improve people's knowledge level.

I hope that leaders, scholars, experts, and the broad masses of kind-hearted people all over the world can use today's high-tech, open face-to-face communication with each other over the internet, to exchange opinions and discuss issues in good faith. Let's focus on the happiness of all mankind. Give up all hatred and donate some of our rights. Use fraternity and wisdom to transform the enemy into friends. Work together to build a harmonious and beautiful world for all mankind. Cultivate love and wisdom, develop science and technology to solve problems, to discover and create many beneficial, useful and interesting things.

The first edition of this book was published in March 2006. After some revisions, some content was added, in April 2007.

The second edition was published under the name "Question Collection" under the pen name "Tudou". Now I added new content, used a different pen name Ho Bu meaning "Why not", and under the new book title "Happy Life". The third edition will be published in the near future.

Author Ho Bu, March 2013.

① What is happiness?

“Are you happy? I am very happy.” “This is a lyric of a song, very amusing. I am sometimes happy, sometimes unhappy. Some people say that life is more pain than happiness. Some people say that life is to pursue happiness. Some people say that when you suffer from hardship, you can become a master. From ancient times to the present, our ancestors have experienced countless natural and man-made calamities, floods, wild beasts, dry, humid, cold and hot climate, famine, plague, and war. There are also times of peace and prosperity, abundant years, idyllic lands, cool running water, fresh air, like a fairyland. But comparatively speaking, there were many people who suffered from hunger and cold, poverty and disease, and disasters. The average lifespan of the ancients was shorter than that of modern people. The material life, food, clothing, shelter, and all kinds of equipment are much better today than in the past. People today are much happier than the ancients.

Our ancestors endured pain under harsh conditions. They did not give up, they worked hard, persevered, and sought survival and development. Only then can we have the current material culture and be who we are today.

Today’s people should be grateful and remember the ancestors who relieved people’s suffering, increased people’s happiness, and improved people’s knowledge. We must inherit their abilities and use practical actions to actively seek happiness for present and future generations.

At work, enjoy the happiness of the soul in the process of doing good.

Human society must strive to make everyone happy. Everyone must strive to cultivate his own heart into a kind, loving, and curious heart. Everyone must take pleasure in helping others, take pride in contributing to mankind, and take pleasure in doing good deeds. The process of doing good is a spiritual enjoyment of life, and it is a sublime enjoyment.

What is joy? We feel joy after overcoming difficulties. Successful experiments, good grades, and progress are all causes of joy.

Joy after solving the problem. Joy for increasing material wealth for society. One feels joy to be able to stretch one’s physical stamina and develop one’s intelligence. Joy is a certain type of feeling in the mood, such as good mood. Or in terms of body and mind, joy can be mental or physical. The opposite of joy is pain. Pain also can be mental or physical. The mind and the body influence each other. Joy or pain can usually be seen from the facial expression.

In the same situation, some people are joyful, some are brooding, and some are sad. Why?

Some people say that the sensitivity of joy varies from person to person. Some people say there are many factors that influence joy. The title of this article is about happiness, but we mentioned a lot of joy before it, because joy and happiness are very related. Joy and happiness are often mentioned together. But be careful, happiness and joy are not equivalent.

What is happiness? The Chinese word happiness is composed of the characters “Xing” and “Fu”. The word “Fu” here means welfare, including material wealth, good natural environment, good social environment, including social welfare, public facilities, and so on. The word “Xing” means lucky, good luck, and good opportunity. You are fine, if you have the opportunity to enjoy your material wealth, enjoy your various spiritual, material and social welfare, you will be happy. Note! Enjoyment is not simple. Enjoyment is a complicated process that requires knowledge and ability. So physical and mental health is very important, and physical and mental health is the basis of happiness.

Generally speaking, in the process of enjoying, you will feel joy. Under normal circumstances, if you are happy, you feel joy. But there are exceptions. For example a person is living in a five-star hotel and is eating delicious food, but he is not joyful, because he is very frightened because he has committed a serious crime. Or someone is living in a nursing home with beautiful scenery and a good environment but he has no good feelings because he is seriously ill.

Someone is doing the work he really wants to do. It has a very important job that is beneficial to mankind. He has been working hard for a long time, and he is very happy.

Everyone has had happy and joyful memories in their lives. Everyone longs for happiness and joy. Everyone must have a correct understanding of happiness and joy.

Happiness and joy have principles: happiness and joy should be healthy, charitable, grateful, caring for life, not being wasteful, and being environmentally friendly.

Unhealthy, sinful, self-interested, cruel, illegal, and immoral happiness and joy must be strictly prohibited. Let's hope that many people will study happiness and joy. Studying from the aspects of social science, philosophy, psychology, physiology, medicine, and natural science. Happiness and joy are very, very important to human beings, to society, and to everyone's life.

Scholars and experts are invited to write more popular books on happiness and joy. People from children to the elderly have to learn.

Knowledge can increase the happiness and joy of people.

In a harmonious society, everyone can directly or indirectly increase happiness for the people. The birth of a newborn adds love and joy to society immediately. The elderly, the weak, the sick and the disabled have many problems about old age, weakness, illness and disability, prompting medical workers to work hard, research and solve various problems, reduce the pain, increase the happiness of patients and increase the happiness of all mankind. Some elderly, weak, sick and disabled can also directly make small or large contributions to society. Industrial and agricultural workers produce many necessities of life. Teachers raise the moral and knowledge level of people. Scientists develop new materials, ingenious machines, and invent new methods. Environmental protection workers make people's living environment better. Social science workers make the legal system more perfect to prevent people from doing bad things and make everyone wants to do good things. And to create conditions for doing good things so that everyone can do good things smoothly. The more harmonious the society, the better the interaction, the cooperation, and the development, the happier the people.

In order to increase happiness and joy, I also have some opinions, suggestions and hopes on food, clothing, shelter, transportation and other aspects. If among my views some are illogical, unrealistic, improper, and wrong, I sincerely ask you to provide your criticism and advice and hope to know where I did wrong and correct my mistakes.

② What clothes to wear to be happier

The clothes here include shirts, pants, shoes, socks, hats and so on. Good clothes should be easy to wear, easy to take off, comfortable, flexible and should not impeded in the activities of any part of the body, and should be suitable for both movement and rest. The shape and color should be beautiful and natural.

Winter clothes should keep warm, not swollen, not heavy, and not prone to static electricity. Summer clothes should be light, thin, breathable, opaque, non-sticky, and cool. All clothes should be easy to wash, easy to dry, easy to clean, easy to maintain, durable and affordable. There are many more requirements, industry leaders and users please work on improvements. Improvements to every requirement can increase people's clothing happiness.

There are many clothes on the market now, and people also have many clothes at home. There are only a few dozen pieces that I wear often, and the rest are left at home for a long time and are still very new. This is a waste of money and a waste of space. There are many unsellable clothes in the store. This is a common problem. Research must be strengthened, and communication between production, sales and consumers must be smooth. We must promptly guide production in terms of quantity and quality. It is also necessary to increase the public's knowledge on purchasing and maintaining clothes.

In the fashion shows I saw on TV, the female models were tall and thin. From the fashion modeling, the expressions and movements of the models felt unnatural and uncomfortable. I rarely see anyone wearing such clothes on the street or in public places. I am hoping for fashion shows of people of various body types, especially people of ordinary body types doing practical, beautiful, natural and comfortable fashion shows. Let them introduce and promote good clothing for people to buy and enjoy.

Traditional men's and women's Chinese clothes or suits, and casual wears have many advantages. There are also shortcomings. I hope that fashion designers will improve on the basis of the prototype. Keep improving. I really hope that there will be new, practical, comfortable, beautiful, and popular fashionable clothing.

Let's work hard, use advanced science and technology, and hope that in the near future, people will produce materials, fibers, and fabrics with ideal properties that are used to make ideal clothes.

The seamless heavenly clothing is the mythic perfect clothing of heavenly people. It is hoped that people will invent a sewing machine, using ideal materials, that can make the seams feel seamless. Nowadays tailors can tailor clothes of various styles for customers. But it takes a lot of time and effort.

Nowadays, sculptors use computers and 3D printers to quickly create three-dimensional, prototype statues for customers. I hope that in the near future, tailors can quickly and easily use special computerized garment making machines, using ideal raw materials, and using computers to create tailor-made clothes that are truly seamless. In particular let's create seamless socks and gloves that should distinguish the left and right side, that can be customized for every foot and hand. It will also be easy to buy.

To make shoes in the future, you can first scan the customer's feet with a computer to make a three-dimensional model. Then use this model to make the inner and outer molds of the shoe. The inner mold requires that the shoe fits and is comfortable. The outer mold requires the shoes to be beautiful, durable, safe and non-slip. Shoes are made by pouring ideal raw materials between the inner and outer molds, solidifying, taking out, processing, and then decorating. This ideal shoe should be light, breathable, dry, comfortable, good-looking, beautiful, waterproof, non-slip, safe, durable, easy to wash, clean and hygienic. Interested wearers and industry practitioners, please think about this and develop such products. People will dress better.

③ How to eat to be happier

Normal people have to eat every day, they want to eat when hungry, they want to eat when they smell good food, they want to eat when they talk about food, they want to eat when they see good food. Eating is the enjoyment of life. Let's imagine that we are healthy and happy, sitting in a comfortable dining chair. The dining table in front of us is filled with delicious food, and relatives and friends are sitting around us, talking, laughing and eating. This is a happy meal. We must also pay attention to the speed and amount of food, which varies from person to person, so we must control it ourselves. Only at the right speed can we feel just right. Only by limiting to the right amount can we eat healthy and savor the taste. There are many knowledge and art about eating, which are worth studying. It's not easy to eat well, you need good dishes, a good environment, and enough time. Also you need to have a good digestive system, including tongue and teeth. You need also a healthy body.

Speaking of food, dishes are the main thing. Good dishes are prepared by choosing good raw ingredients, processed by professional and experienced chefs in a good kitchen with good kitchenware. Good restaurants have such good conditions, but they are expensive and people usually cook at home.

First go to the market to buy food ingredients and bring them back, process them in the small kitchen at home, and cook them into several dishes.

Serve it on a plate or in a bowl and put it on the table for the enjoyment of the family. After the meal, the dishes and tableware should be gathered, washed and put away, to complete the meal. Three meals a day are usually prepared by the wife or husband, or both.

Cooking at home requires time and effort. With only 24 hours a day, if I have to go to work, take a break, socialize, and hope to have entertainment and hobbies, as well as sleep, to prepare three meals a day on top of that is exhausting.

Some people say that if they can live without eating, they would rather not eat, that they would rather not enjoy eating and instead enjoy other blessings. But in order to grow up, we need food. In order to stay healthy, we need to eat. In order to have the ability to think, to need to work and to eat. If we can't eat, we ask a doctor for help. Eating is a major event in life. It is enjoyment, it's a right, and an important task in life. It is not practical to prefer not to eat, we need to remain calm and accept cooking and eating.

It is only sensible to come up with ways to save time and effort to make good dishes. For example, we should buy dirt-free easy-to-wash vegetables, and fresh and easy-to-cut meat. To be good at work, you must first sharpen your tools. The knives must be useful, safe and easy to use.

Utensils, cooking utensils, kitchen utensils, and all daily utensils should be as seamless, borderless and cornerless as possible. Easy to clean and wash. Heat and fire resistant, chemical resistant, acid and alkali resistant, non-toxic, durable. I very much hope that factories produce such tools. Even if the price is expensive it is cost-effective. Convenience and durability are the most important factors. They should also be energy efficient to produce and environment friendly.

I don't want to buy organic products and free-range chickens, because they are expensive, and more importantly, it can be dangerous. Because some natural environment, soil, organic fertilizer, wild animals and plants, etc., may be contaminated by bacteria, viruses, toxic organic compounds, toxic metal salts, and toxic chemical elements. It's dangerous. Unless it comes from a large-scale, reliable organic farm. In fact, just buy ordinary large farm products, don't buy so-called organic products. Eating in a restaurant is very convenient, but it is more expensive, and there may be concerns about hygiene. In fact, eating in a restaurant may be more economical, more hygienic, safer, more delicious, and more convenient than cooking at home.

Imagine that there is a big restaurant near this community. Fresh vegetables are harvested from the farm today, processed immediately, and shipped directly to the restaurant. Fresh meat is shipped directly from meat processing plants today. The grain is fresh and processed only a few days earlier.

Raw food is delivered everyday without going through the store, which is hygienic.

The restaurant staff are all healthy and qualified. After training, they have sufficient hygiene and professional knowledge. The restaurant is large, with comfortable seating and advanced kitchen equipment. The chefs use computer programs to control various cooking machines.

The heat is uniform, the heat is appropriate, and the heating time is just right. The cooked dishes are fresh, nutritious, hygienic, and delicious, and the meal is fast and the price is low.

The operating method of this big restaurant will be good, with low loss and high efficiency. The result of the calculation is obvious. It is more economical and more convenient to eat at a restaurant than to buy vegetables and cook them at home. So almost everyone will eat at the restaurant and will stop cooking at home. As a result, the daily garbage generated at home will be greatly reduced. The floor is clean, there is no oily smoke, and the air is fresh. The environment is greatly improved.

Large restaurants can effectively collect kitchen garbage and restaurant garbage every day and turn them into treasures, making them good feed for pigs. Used oil will become chemical raw material. The living habits of residents will change. The entire community will save a lot of water, electricity and gas. Energy conservation and environmental protection are very important.

Residents do not work hard to cook three meals a day. A lot of precious free time is added every day. Life can be greatly improved.

Our diet has evolved over time, and humans hunted for food in ancient times. They picked wild fruits and vegetables for food. Later, people raised livestock, planted grains and vegetables and cooked food. Human food is rich and colorful now.

There are breakfast, lunch and dinner. There are Chinese food, French food, Italian national food, meals from various countries and nationalities, and meals from various localities.

There are also various authentic street foods. There are also a variety of snacks. There are many types, and they are all worth studying, depending on their advantages and characteristics. A World Food Expo can be held to broaden people's knowledge of food.

Everyone has his own preference, habit, experience, interest, and insight on eating. Everyone can talk about food and make suggestions. Everyone has this kind of experience about a new kind of food: after a few bites, it tastes delicious. I continue eating, it tastes less delicious. At this time, I drink some clear soup or water, or switch to another flavor of food, and then eat the first food. I think it is so delicious that it is almost as delicious as the first time. If we serve dishes according to people's taste characteristics, it may be more enjoyable to eat. Regarding eating, there are many issues worthy of attention for many experts to study.

To produce more and better food, people have created good farming methods to increase the yield per unit area. The current three-dimensional farm has high yield and no pollution. Sunlight and artificial light can be used. The three-dimensional farm is a quasi-closed system. Water and many substances can be operated in cycles. Therefore, it can be built in desert areas or on the sea. In the future, we can build more improved three-dimensional farms. You can also choose nearby locations to build residential communities. Three-dimensional farms are highly efficient and productive.

High-yield crops and safe genetically modified crops will greatly increase food production.

We can also produce artificial food: instead of plants, it uses a bionic system to absorb energy and synthesize inorganic substances such as carbon dioxide and water into intermediate compounds. It is then converted into monosaccharides, fatty acids, and amino acids. Then through ingenious biochemical process, delicious food ingredients are made. There are already many scientific research on the subject, striving to do better and more efficiently than biology, striving to be economical and practical. People will like artificial food more in the future. You don't have to eat plants and animals. There will be great changes in the food chain, which is a great progress for human civilization.

It is also a major advance in biology and natural sciences. Let's work hard, I hope it can be realized soon.

People can calculate accurately to produce the right quantity of food at the right time. Let's ensure that food is abundant and adequate, while avoiding excess or spoiling. People should keep up with the current findings about diet, develop good eating habits, and eat healthier to live happier.

4 Good housing for all

The place to sleep and rest can usually be referred to simply as a residence. In addition to sleeping and resting, the residence has added corresponding equipment, which can also be used to do corresponding things. For example, cooking, eating, washing, doing homework, etc. The residence should have enough space, too big is detrimental. It should be easy to clean, easy to manage, comfortable, quiet, warm in winter and cool in summer, and have good internal equipment. The surrounding environment should be beautiful, with good water and electricity supply, and the sewers should be unblocked and sanitary. Good security is a must. Good public cultural facilities are a must. It must be convenient to go to school. It should be convenient to accomplish tasks. Shopping should be convenient. The transportation should be convenient.

There are various types of dwellings, such as houses, sheds, apartment complexes, and skyscrapers. There are single, double, multiple, and family living. Some are self-built, some are bought, and some are rented. The shape of the house varies from place to place, from nation to nation, from ancient times to today. The construction of the dwellings is also varied: straw mud structures, wooden structures, brick and tile structures, steel and cement structures, and some are assembled with new material components. Some can resist strong earthquakes and strong winds. They are waterproof and fireproof.

People engaged in construction must have a comprehensive planning, long-term plan, a wide range of opinions and suggestions from the public, and a clever layout in line with the development of the town. They should use materials with good performance. Houses will be built faster and better and be more suitable for people to live in. People will increasingly prefer to rent houses instead of building their own house or buying houses. Renters can move freely, which is convenient and flexible. Single people live in single rooms. Rent a double room after marriage. Rent a family room when you have children. Old couples in empty nests can rent a double room specially designed for the elderly and be taken care of. Some people rent houses near the place of work. Some people rent houses in a place they like, or a place with beautiful scenery, and then find a job nearby. Some people have improved their finance and rented luxurious houses.

In the reconstruction and expansion of towns, bridges and roads, the original buildings on the construction site must be demolished. Heavy machinery hammer and excavators are used to dismantle them. High-rise buildings need to be blasted with explosives. Very good buildings will instantly turn into a large number of fragments, which is terrifying, and wasteful. A lot of capacity is also needed to remove many pieces of construction waste. If the building is a composite structure, to be demolished, it can be taken down one by one in order. Then the pieces are moved to another place for storage for reuse.

Combined building has many advantages. Each type of component is carefully designed by experts and has a certain size specification model. They will be mass produced in factories with appropriate materials. Each component is easy to install and disassemble. It can be used multiple times. They are durable, high-strength, water resistant, heat resistant and can withstand water and fire.

Assembling a bungalow or a three- or four-story building is quick and easy. It can be installed or unloaded at any time in suitable places, unused places or temporary places with well-insulated components. Low-cost housing will be very affordable.

Buildings with dozens of floors have increasingly adopted modular structures. First a strong foundation is built. Then high-quality steel components are used to build the framework of the building. Then the laminates of each layer are installed, the laminate itself should be light, and can bear heavy weight without deformation. Then the outer walls of the building are hoisted and installed. The design of the outer wall is made of good insulating material and are great support for the building.

Traditional steel-reinforced concrete buildings have a long construction time and a heavy workload. The cement wall has little support for the building, and the weight of the cement wall itself is very large, which becomes a major load on the building. There are also the concrete floors of the building and thick concrete beams. All are heavy loads to the building. And it reduces the space in the building. Damaged reinforced concrete buildings are difficult to repair. If the assembly building is damaged, the damaged components can be replaced, which is relatively easy to do. And it has little impact on the structure of the building.

There are single suites, double suites, multi-person suites, and family suites in the residential building. There are libraries, conference halls, gyms, medical clinics, nurseries, kindergartens, post offices, restaurants, canteens, shops, and supermarkets. Many daily life problems can be solved in the building, which is very convenient.

People in the building are neighbors all around. They live close together, look after each other and help each other. Only when the neighbors are harmonious can we live happily. The weather is good, the environment is good, and if there is no harmony, all this will be greatly reduced. Harmony is extremely important, and harmony must start at home. Family must be harmonious, neighbors must be harmonious.

Cleanliness is very important. The interior and doorways must first be kept clean. Public corridor should be actively kept clean and sanitary with practical actions. Keep the air fresh and free of peculiar smells. The odor is easy to spread, so clean the source of the odor.

Keep the environment quiet, doors and windows must have noise reducing mechanisms to avoid loud noises. Plastic pads should be installed under chairs, tables and furnitures. Closing doors too vigorously will affect neighbors. Stomping on the floor affects the lower level. Don't play music or speak too loudly. Everyone should be self-disciplined and have good ethics. One's residence can be a good place to cultivate one's body and mind.

The building is very safe, and the building is designed by safety experts. There are multiple safety facilities and full-time security personnel. And everyone is responsible for ensuring safety. Residents of the building must ban gas. Because gas may cause poisoning, explosion, and fire. And because the burning gas inevitably produces exhaust gas. It contains poisonous gas and toxic particles, which are very unhealthy and not environmentally friendly. You can cook with an electric stove. It is recommended to eat in the canteen or restaurant of the building. Or order take-out to eat at home. This is economical and convenient, it saves time and increases happiness. For the sake of cleanliness and a quiet environment, and to prevent dogs from hurting people, I agree that dogs and cats should not be kept or brought into the building. Those who like keeping dogs and cats can rent houses specially designed for those who like dogs and cats. By living in these buildings, you achieve energy savings, environmental protection, hygiene, comfort, convenience and safety, a very wise choice.

Houses, villas, buildings, walls and roofs can be decorated with adequate flowers, plants, fruits and vegetables, or solar panels can be installed. One place can be used for multiple purposes, and the solar energy utilization rate of the residence must be equal to or exceed that of the same area of arable land, so that the competition between residential and cultivated land gets a good compromise.

By properly planting a variety of flowers and trees around the residence and workplace, we create a beautiful environment, which makes residents happy. This is a paradise on earth.

5 How to enjoy philanthropy

People have appetite, the desire to move, and sexual desire. The desire to move is also a great desire of mankind. Appetite ranks first, desire to move ranks second, and sexual desire ranks third. After a person is born, he has an appetite soon. Then he showed his desire to move before his first birthday, and his parents taught him how to move. Walking with two feet is the basic movement. There are also broader movement. You can use walking helpers, such as wheelchairs. You can travel by means of transportation, such as car, boat or plane. Movement is very important, and people do it every day. Some people use “Xing” to describe someone’s state. It is very unlucky to say “someone cannot Xing” in Chinese.

To move well, you must have good feet. And to be healthy, strong enough and energetic enough allow one to walk easily and happily. Wear a good pair of shoes for more comfort. Wear slippers or casual shoes at home. Wear sports shoes or walking shoes when you go out. It is not recommended to wear high heels, because it is uncomfortable and easy to hurt your feet. Wearing sport shoes and casual shoes are more natural, more beautiful, they fit both active and static activities. The more you look, the more beautiful they are. Buy shoes that are comfortable and high-quality. You may feel unaccustomed to wearing new shoes, you will get used to it after a few days. People are reluctant to swap comfortable old shoes with new ones.

People take many steps unconsciously every day. If one is not allowed to walk for a day, it will be very hard to bear. If you have to walk for more than ten hours a day, it would be strenuous. Walking an appropriate distance each day is a happy routine, and it is also a form of exercise.

Let’s ponder traveling by means of transportation: if point A is far away from point B, it is too tiresome and too slow to walk with your feet, so you must take a means of transportation. On land ride a car. On water take a boat. In the air take a plane.

Vehicles: There are fuel-powered vehicles, electric vehicles, rickshaws, and animal-powered vehicles. Trolley car, rail car. Public buses, trucks, private cars. The basic requirements for a car are speed and safety, low energy consumption, and ease of maintenance.

Here are some commonly used cars.

Public buses: It can carry many passengers. You can get on and off at the bus stop on the road, which is very convenient.

Private cars: usually private, usually small.

There are many cars on the road now, which consume a lot of energy, generate a lot of heat and toxic exhaust particles, and raise a lot of dust. They seriously affect the environment and people’s health. Too many cars and traffic jams create a vicious circle. Usually on the road, the number of private cars is much larger than the number of buses. If it is not very necessary, it is not very urgent. Driving by yourself is not environmentally friendly. It is harmful to the public. Everyone must be self-disciplined. Many people already have private cars, so they don’t need to take a bus to travel. Intuitively it seems to be time-saving, give us freedom, and are convenient. In fact, driving has to bear a major public safety responsibility. It is necessary to concentrate on driving and find a parking space. There may also be other troubles. Cars need insurance, repairs, it is time consuming and requires effort.

Let’s promote bus rides, they are economical, environmentally friendly, practical, convenient, safe, and worry-free. They are a wise choice.

Two-wheeled bicycle: They are either human-powered or battery powered. You can ride a bicycle at your doorstep. It is very convenient and environmentally friendly. You can also exercise and it is worth promoting. However, two-wheeled motor vehicles are unsafe, not environmentally friendly, and noisy, and their use is not recommended.

Trains: The train is a long-distance railcar, which can be connected in series with many cars and has a large passenger or cargo capacity. In the past, coal was burnt, then diesel was used, and now electricity is used. With the development of technology, the maximum speed increases. If the speeds exceeds 300 kilometers per hour, they are called high-speed train. Fast, comfortable, and safe are the advantages of high-speed trains.

There are also subways and light trains, both of which are urban rail vehicles. Carrying more passengers can reduce the burden on buses and improve city traffic. The Metro Light Rail does not take the tortuous streets or wait for the traffic lights on the streets. It is much faster than buses.

Ancient means of transportation: horse riding, camel riding, carrier chair, rickshaw, carriage. They are rarely used nowadays.

Boat on water: We use a big boat across the ocean. The river is navigated by a medium ship or a small boat. The boat can be powered by petroleum fuel. Sometimes manpower is used. Sometimes wind or water flow can be used. The boat speed is slower than the car. Large cargo capacity and energy savings are the advantages of ships. The boat should be unsinkable and impossible to overturn, like a tumbler toy floating on water. Cruise ships or boats are required to be unsinkable and safe, and this must be done in the future.

Flying: Take a plane, fly over the ocean and mountain continent from Shanghai, it will soon arrive in New York. The plane is very fast. For those who travel a long distance and are in a hurry, flying is the best choice. Flying by plane has serious disadvantages though. In the event of a plane collision, the consequences are extremely serious, although the probability is small, some people dare not take it. Airplanes are affected by the weather and cannot take off or land in strong wind or rain. The airport is in the suburbs, which is inconvenient for access. Few flights, high fuel consumption, harmful to the environment, and expensive air tickets all play against air travel.

Comparison of airplanes and high-speed trains: High-speed trains can be taken in the city, and there are many daily departures, which is very convenient. If the destination is not too far away, it is faster to arrive by high-speed train than by plane. Safer, more comfortable, economical and environmentally friendly.

Routes: There are air, land and sea routes.

Air route: It is the route of the plane flying in the air. Also called flight routes. It is very dangerous to encounter clouds, rain, thunder and lightning, and turbulence within the scope of the route. The plane is fast when flying in the air. Very small accidental errors can cause great danger.

Waterway: It is the channel of the ship on the sea or on the river. Choose safe waterways when sailing. The ship now sails in the sea. With accurate charts and satellite navigation, it is possible to avoid submerged reefs and shallows. The submerged reefs and shoals in the waterways of rivers can be removed by major projects. Sailing can also cleverly use the wind and currents on the channel to become the driving force for navigation.

Land: This includes pedestrian roads and various vehicle roads. Pedestrian roads include streets, parks, lakes, and scenic spots. They should be safe, beautiful and green, and have rest facilities on the roadside. The road should emphasize safety and avoid twists and turns. It is necessary to ensure that all roads are free of water, easy to drain, easy to clean, and have few dust.

Ideal interconnecting roads: A and B are two big cities, which are separated by mountains and rivers. There is a straight corridor avenue from A to B, passing corridor tunnels and corridor bridges on the way. The corridor avenue is multi-layered, well ventilated, very wide, and suitable for regular vehicles and trains. The traffic flow is very large, so the safe transportation around the clock in all seasons must be secured. Another very important advantage of corridor avenues is to avoid sunlight. The roof and walls of the corridor can be installed with solar panels. They can grow vegetable crops. The dilemma between cultivated land and transportation land can be properly resolved.

Collision avoidance: car crashes, ship crashes, and plane crashes are all very serious traffic accidents. Every vehicle is required to have computer-based high-intelligence, high-speed, and all-round early collision avoidance and collision avoidance systems. And when driving, the front, rear, left, and right, up and down mirrors and the TV screens must be clear and easy to see.

About the blessing of walking: Having good health, good feet, and wearing a pair of good shoes, this is the blessing of walking. It is not the more you walk, the happier you are, nor the less you walk, the happier you are. Just walk the amount so that tendons feel good, circulation is activated, the whole body is relaxed, and the spirit is refreshed and sharp.

When walking, the most important thing is to minimize those unnecessary walks. For example, those walks that require too much effort, waste time, repeated many times, those that are worthless and meaningless, and those that are dangerous.

Furthermore, happiness depends on wisdom. In ancient times, Canadians wanted to eat bananas and went to Central America to eat them. Later, someone transported the bananas to Canada by boat, car or plane. In the future, the bananas eaten by Canadians may be products from nearby three-dimensional farms. People in Beijing used to go to Guangdong to eat lychees. The emperor asked someone to do it for him, he loaded lychees from Guangdong, ran back to Beijing on horseback within a few days for the emperor.

There is no substitute for food, clothing and shelter. For example, if you give people clothes, you are left without them. If you give food to others, you will starve. If you entrust someone to sleep and rest on your behalf, you will no longer get sleep or rest. This is delusion. But there are many things that can be done on your behalf. For example, if you have to go to a remote place to handle some things, you can leave it alone if you ask someone to do it on your behalf. Call for delivery food, and someone will deliver it. It's very convenient and you don't have to travel a lot. It is delivered by someone, it is very convenient, and you don't have to go out.

Some things must be done in person, such as going to work, school, or to visit relatives. Due to the convenient, comfortable and fast transportation, every trip greatly reduces fatigue. Now you can shop online again. Some people use computers to work or study at home. The elderly can sit at home and use the high-definition TV to travel the world. Reducing unnecessary trips is also considered a blessing.

Thanks to the kind-hearted and hard-working workers and scientists for seeking blessings for the people.

⑥ Reasonable and the right amount of sex bring more happiness

Knowledge can increase happiness. In order to increase sexual happiness, scientific and correct sex education is necessary.

Men have male sexual organs. Women have female sexual organs. The function of male and female sexual organs is originally to reproduce, so they are called genitals. Male genitalia produce sperm and female genitalia produce eggs. The male genitalia shoots sperm into the female genitalia and they combine with the egg to become a fertilized egg. The fertilized egg is born after nine months of development in the uterus of the female genitalia. Newborn babies are very cute and are called baby boys or girls. In a happy family, the baby will enjoy love, nurturing, education, and growth from the parents and from society. This is how humanity develops sustainably from generation to generation. Therefore, reproduction is the first important function of sexual organs. The sex organs have also a second important function, which is sexual pleasure.

Sexual organs have also a third important function, which is health. To achieve these three functions, healthy sexual organs are necessary. It is necessary to keep the sexual organs clean and hygienic, avoid injury, and avoid bacterial virus infection. Parents should pay attention to keeping the sexual organs and skin of infants and young children clean and hygienic, to prevent inflammation and eczema. Kindergarten teachers should use good methods to teach children how to protect their baby's eyes, ears, nose, and sexual organs. To cultivate children's sense of responsibility and to protect their precious treasures.

When teenagers enter adolescence, adolescent girls menstruate, they see obvious changes in their bodies, and their clitoris become sensitive. The penis of an adolescent male is prone to automatic erection, and the gland of the penis is the most sensitive area. Touching it unintentionally when you fall asleep or wake up will create a special sense of pleasure. Because of curiosity, some continue to touch it, the pleasure continues to increase and reaches a peak. This kind of chance discovery when reproduced intentionally later is masturbation. This is a natural phenomenon of puberty. This spontaneous high degree sexual excitement if it is restrained for a long time, will cause special discomfort and restlessness.

After masturbation the whole body relaxes, feels comfortable and calms down. This is a sexual activity that goes with the flow, which is beneficial to the health of the body and mind and the health of the sexual organs. If it is excessively restrained, forbidden, it is not good for the mind, the body, and the sexual organs. But if the masturbation is excessive and causes sexual organ strain, it will be harmful and useless. Be sure not to overdo it, and do keep it clean. If it is not cleaned, it will cause bacterial and virus infection, which is very dangerous. Avoiding damage is very important.

The adolescent themselves, their parents and teachers, must deal with the adolescent's masturbation. Don't scold, teach patiently. If a child suffers accidental injury or sexual organ disease due to masturbation, he or she should inform the parents, teacher and doctor as soon as possible to get timely medical treatment, otherwise it may damage his or her life-long sexual wellbeing.

Adulthood starts at the age of eighteen. Many people are still studying, so they must concentrate and study hard. There are also people working, so they must concentrate on doing the work well. Don't make mistakes, and be responsible to society in everything.

Adults fall in love. They find someone to marry. It is a major event in life. To learn relevant knowledge, consult an experienced person. Listen to the teachings of parents and elders. Do refer to the opinions and lessons of others. Some people are determined to study hard and enrich themselves. After graduating from university or post-doctorate, you can only find someone to marry if you have a stable job. There are many unmarried people at the age of 26. The age of 15 to 26 is the period of development and maturity and youthful vigor. Too much repression of sexual behaviors is harmful. In this period of more than ten years, how to cope with the accumulation of sexual awareness? Masturbation is a reasonable way to cope. But these principles must be adhered to: Be clean and sanitary, avoid damage, and no excess.

Some people, in order to increase the sensation, use iron ring, paper tube, carrot or cucumber. These are all dangerous, harmful, unsanitary. What if you are stuck? If you want to masturbate, choose the right time and place, and use a healthy method. This is wiser. In adult shop you can buy imitation vagina and imitation penis, very realistic, you can buy and try them. In case of defects, you can give suggestions to let the manufacturer improve. The soft plastic used should be non-toxic, odorless, very soft, very elastic, acid-resistant, alkali-resistant, oil-resistant, easy to clean, easy to disinfect.

Products must be rigorously evaluated by experts, and must be safe and easy to use before they can be sold. The government's health department is responsible for supervision. I believe that in the near future, with new materials and high technology, products that are better in some aspects than real organs can be manufactured.

Getting relief for sexual drives is good for both the body and the mind. It will also reduce sex crimes and sexually transmitted diseases in society. Masturbation is an important sexual activity. Male-female sex is an even more important sexual activity, and it is usually the great desire of every adult, which should be consensual by both men and women. Coercion, threats, and deception are all illegal. Sexual activity must comply with sex laws. Sexual activity is regulated by sexual morality. Sex education includes sexual physiology, sexual psychology, sexual morality, sexual law, sex and marriage, sex and family, sex and society, and so on. It is the basic knowledge that everyone must learn.

Some unmarried adults or singles have the desire to have sex with the opposite sex. Their desire is reasonable. If there is no legal opportunity, many people go to prostitutes. This is illegal and dangerous. It is a great regret in life to contract a venereal disease. We must completely eliminate pornography and ban prostitution. Pornography is spreading false sexual information to lure and mislead young people. Prostitutes are those who are deceived, oppressed and exploited, and they are easily infected with venereal diseases. These people must be thoroughly treated and helped.

Can society establish a legal sex service industry? It should be public, not private. The male and female sex workers recruited are mentally normal, voluntary, caring, helpful, high-spirited, healthy, and indeed free of sexually transmitted diseases. They must pass strict physical examination and aptitude test. After admission, learning and training are required. Sex workers should have a time limit, and they will change jobs after 5 years. They must check their body every day before going to work. If they find that they have a venereal disease, they will be suspended immediately. After a thorough cure, They will change career. At the same time, we must immediately investigate the source of infection and do a good job in the aftermath.

Sexual service customers also have strict regulations. They must show their credentials to prove that they are unmarried, single, and free of sexually transmitted diseases before they are allowed to receive services. Service items include heterosexual intercourse, sexual psychological counseling, and sexual technical counseling. If there is a legitimate and legal sex service industry in society, sexually transmitted diseases will be greatly reduced, sex-related tragedies will be greatly reduced, and sexual crimes will be greatly reduced.

Sex education should also point out that the heroes and heroines in the Tragedy of Liang Zhu and Romeo and Juliet are very stubborn, unwise, and stupid. It is sinful to die for so-called love. It is stupid for anyone to marry only a specific person. It is a stubbornness harmful to yourself. There are many people in the world who are suitable to be a person's spouse. Doing well is more important than choosing well. Once you become a husband and wife, you must do it in good faith in accordance with the relationship between the husband and wife.

Society should care about and help homosexual people. They also have sexual needs, and they also have the right to receive correct sex education. We must be patient to explain the correct sex knowledge to them. Their reproductive organs are normal. They have the right and the task to marry the opposite sex and have children. The reason for homosexuality may be that there are few opportunities to get along with the opposite sex for a long time. Some people may have been hurt by the opposite sex, or frightened by the opposite sex. Or a deep psychological shadow is caused by unexpected events. Speaking of the opposite sex is disgusting, they avoid it because of fear. Just give them patient explanation and enlightenment. I have heard that there is a homosexual gene. Is there a solid scientific basis to it? If it's true, this gene cannot prevent people from marrying and giving birth, nor can it disrupt sexual intercourse between men and women. In fact, this gene is powerless. Homosexuals are physically and physiologically normal, so just marry the opposite sex and have babies. You can enjoy good sex and family happiness.

Special reminder: all heterosexuals and all homosexuals must strictly prohibit fellatio and sodomy. Avoid fellatio because of teeth, throat, microbes and viruses. Teeth can injure the penis. A person can cough and throw up if the throat is hit by the penis. If the semen is injected into the trachea inadvertently it can be even more dangerous. It is easy to be contaminated with microbes and viruses in fellatio. The anus is the exit of excrement. There is stool in it. Stool is toxic waste, containing microbes and toxic materials, spreading stench and harmful gases. Using one's own penis to plug in is a great abuse for one's precious penis, harmful and humiliating. It is very inhumane, wicked, unsanitary, and dangerous. It should be absolutely banned!

A man's penis has evolved over tens of thousands of years to become the most suitable for a woman's vagina. You can have sex and give birth, and you can enjoy sex. A woman's vagina has evolved over tens of thousands of years to become the most suitable for a man's penis. You can have sex and give birth, and you can enjoy sex.

When men and women reach the age of marriage, they must get married and start a family, to begin a harmonious and happy husband and wife sex life. Also to fulfill the social responsibility of giving birth to children. Start a joyous happy family. Cultivate and educate children to become good young people with both ability and political integrity and contribute to society. When the children become independent and leave home, the husband and wife enters an empty nest period and are more loving. A successful career, economic stability, good health, and still maintaining a good husband and wife sex life, is even healthier. Until retirement into old age.

Elderly sex life: The elderly should also care about and learn sex knowledge. Because some things were thought to be right before, but now they know that they are wrong. If you know your mistake, you must correct it. The elderly should pay attention to disease prevention and treatment. Keep your bowels activities smooth. The hands, feet and various organs must maintain proper activities. Promote blood circulation, promote metabolism, fitness, heart and brain. Appropriate sexual activity and a happy mood are good for health. But be careful to void falls or kinks. An old person's sexual ability declines, and safe sex aids can be used. Older husband and wife are more affectionate, understand each other, support each other, and can be together for a hundred years.

Old widows and widowers are bleak, and they cannot ignore sexual activities. But do not go whoring, it would be too miserable to contract a sexually transmitted disease. They should maintain proper and regular sexual masturbation. They can use sex tools suitable for older people. Moderate sexual activity is good for health. Sex and diet have similarities. Don't eat too much, and don't eat too little. The right amount is the best, it can prolong life.

To get married and have children, cultivate and educate children to grow up healthily, this is an important task of every adult and an important right of every adult. This process is an important stage of life, an important stage that a perfect life must go through.

In order to successfully complete this glorious task, and for family happiness, what should be done? Everyone must learn about this knowledge, learn about relevant information and opinions.

Here we first briefly describe the general process of marriage and family life, and then talk about related issues and how to ensure a happy and successful marriage and family life.

When men and women have destined to meet each other and know each other, then they fall in love with each other and become husband and wife, and become a newly married family. The family is alive, growing and developing. In the two-person world, there is work and rest, and you can have children in about three years. From the birth of a baby, it takes about 13 years from kindergarten to the sixth grade of elementary school, which can be called a family in the reproductive period. This period may be the most challenging period, the most meaningful, and a very happy period. The beloved wife becomes pregnant and gives birth, which is a happy event. At the same time, there is hard work, blood and pain, but the baby is very cute. Do breastfeed, take care and protect the baby at all times. See a doctor if you are sick, strive for the healthy growth of your child, and educate your child patiently. In order to progress smoothly at this stage, it is necessary to have a plan, knowledge, determination, manpower and material resources. This stage is busy, valuable, colorful, happy and memorable.

From elementary school to high school: Strive to have your child learn every lesson well. Children's development should be guided in time, and proper sex education is necessary. Keep the sex organs clean and hygienic, avoid injury, and ensure sexual health. Pay attention to exercise, nutrition, and healthy growth. We must pay attention to children's moral education from an early age, and we must cultivate children's character in middle school.

Families with children in college: They are already big children after graduating from high school. They usually go to college and are also looking for jobs. They must be prepared in advance and have contingency plans. Four years later, the children joins the social workforce, and the family enters an empty nest period.

Family in empty nest period: husband and wife and children remain a loving family, having good times and a colorful life. Now the children have been cultivated into talents and are contributing to society. The couple are more affectionate and continue to work or start a business until retirement. If you are healthy, you can do many things you want to do. The above outline of the marriage and family life process is the usual one. In fact, every family is different, and many problems will inevitably occur in the process. What are the problems and how to solve them? Let's talk about the process below.

Finding someone: This is the first step. Some people find it quickly, and some people find it after more than one or two years. Some people haven't found anyone when they reach old age. How to find it? Some find love by themselves, some are obedient to their parents, some use matchmakers, some are introduced by relatives and friends, some are classmates, colleagues, friends or childhood sweethearts, some have met on the internet, some commissioned matchmaking agencies. There are many ways, but you must be vigilant to prevent being deceived. You must also cherish and master your time, in case your precious youth is wasted.

There are some honest and reliable matchmaking service agencies. There are many opportunities to choose from, which can reduce a lot of waste of time, energy, and material. First write down your basic situation, and at the same time write down your own requirements and what conditions the target must have. In the database, you can find many suitable people providing options, and you can choose one of them to date.

Both parties are here for the purpose of choosing a mate, they can quickly discuss the subject, can concentrate on discussing the problem, and deal with the problem rationally. They should speak clearly and ask clearly what they want to ask. Many issues can be discussed, and in the process of discussion, they may learn about the other's personality and interests. The other party may not say or answer some questions, and some questions or things must be clarified. Some important issues or principles might not reach a consensus after many dates with one candidate. Then you can choose another one to date soon. If after several talks, consensus was reached on important issues and important principles. then, a marriage and family life plan contract must be drafted, which the husband and wife abide by. The content includes the consensus reached by both parties during the date, the requirements and promises to the spouse, and how to resolve unexpected events that may be encountered in the course of life, etc. Write it in black and white, with clear sentences. The marriage contract is a very important engagement token, more important and sincere than an engagement ring. Only after signing the contract can they get married. As for how to sign a contract, there will be a more detailed description in the next chapter.

The beginning of a newly married family: marriage made a couple husband and wife, the husband and wife are spouses, and the husband and wife are a whole, in this whole, the husband is the other half of the wife, and the wife is the other half of the husband. The most basic and important principle of being a husband and wife is that you must love your partner very much. In practice it is to use practical actions to care, protect, forgive and help the other half. Make the other have good health, good mood, and good character (the other refers to the wife or the husband).

A woman who is always cared for by her husband is very blessed. A man who is often cared for by his wife is very blessed. Husband and wife should communicate more and discuss well, and important things should be decided together through discussion, so that there are fewer mistakes and fewer failures, more success, and more happiness. Obeying one's own spouse is the basic principle of husband and wife, especially in front of everyone, pay special attention to respecting one's wife or husband. In this way, there is naturally a sense of satisfaction and more affection.

Newlyweds should learn to live with a loving heart and adapt to each other. They should use a loving heart to understand each other; be forgiving, tolerant; help each other and adapt to each other; use a loving heart to share joys and sorrows, overcome difficulties, and move forward together. When we were young, the teacher taught us to be polite to others and to keep our promises. Treat your wife or husband more politely and respectfully. Be more loyal and keep promises. The family is a good place for couples to practice together. Do your job well when you work, rest well when you rest, and make good love when you have sex. There must be a degree in everything, and do not overdo it during work, rest or sex. You must concentrate on doing things to gain experience, gain interest when you gain experience, and do better if you are interested. Be content with reality, be content with happiness, and improve reality with a happy mood. Endure hardships and stand hard work, be happy after overcoming difficulties. Improve yourself during the process of overcoming difficulties, but you also need to rest and entertain yourself during the process of overcoming difficulties.

For newlyweds, it's a two-person world, if there is less hard work, there will be more happiness. The so-called one day in heaven is three years on earth. We must be alert to the precious youth time slipping away from the heaven. It is time to get ready for giving birth.

Families at the time of childbirth: After two or three years of newlywed life, they begin to become pregnant and have babies. Usually, you should pay attention to and refer to books about pregnancy, childbirth, parenting, and preschool education in advance. You can also consult experienced people and doctors.

During pregnancy, you must listen to the doctor's guidance and do a prenatal check-up to ensure that the baby is healthy and normal. Because men who are healthy or unhealthy and abnormal have normal or unhealthy sperm. Women who are healthy or unhealthy and abnormal have normal or abnormal eggs. A healthy and normal fertilized egg may be damaged by viruses or poisons or drugs during development, and it may be out of shape or abnormal. Pregnant women may also be sick during pregnancy, so be sure to do a prenatal checkup and strictly observe pregnancy hygiene. Then you can take care of it and work and live with peace of mind during the waiting period. The time is up, the child is born, the mother and child are safe, and victory is achieved. Being a new mother and being a new father, that kind of happiness increases the love and affection of the husband and wife and increases the motivation to move forward.

Newborns are happier, and healthier if they are treated according to their abilities. Give him the appropriate difficulty and let him overcome it. He has been given the opportunity to practice since he was young. Attention should be given to the development of the baby's intelligence. In the process of parenting, the more you pay attention, the more you have interest and experience. Tell your own thoughts and experiences and share them with your friends.

Planning to give birth to one, two or three children, usually takes eight years to complete, during which the husband has to be a housekeeper and do housework. If you want to obey your wife's orders, you should serve your wife meticulously. This period is the most difficult, risky, and challenging. Birth may be painful to the heart, and everyone's mother has experienced this risk. Mothers are the greatest.

Childbirth requires material and spiritual preparation and knowledge, to move forward bravely and positively. In the past, mothers had to risk dystocia, blood loss, infection, severe pain and so on. Now dystocia can be prevented using surgery or cesarean section. Blood loss can be prevented using anti-bleeding techniques or blood transfusion, severe pain can use anesthesia or pain medication.

Infection can be prevented and treated selectively. Now giving birth is safe, and the husband can accompany the wife with love which is a happy progress.

The family during the growth, cultivating and educating stage of the children: fostering children can be divided into the infant, elementary school, middle school and university stages. The former stages are the foundation of the latter stages.

Infant stage: You can hire a nanny to help. It is better for both grandmothers to take care of grandchildren, and it is best for mothers to feed their own children. Women with doctoral degrees and higher educations, who resigned from high-paying important jobs, and focus on nursing and raising their own children at home are doing a very valuable and meaningful job.

Toddlers are not sensible, they are curious and turbulent, so parents must always pay attention to their safety. Take advantage of appropriate opportunities to show them various objects and colors, not strong and dazzling light, make them listen to various sounds and songs, not loud, and experience various environments, such as hot and cold, wind, rain and snow. Give them a variety of light odors, and give them a taste of all kinds of taste: light, sweet, sour, bitter and spicy foods. Let them touch various safe objects. Under the full safety supervision, give them the opportunity to act alone. They will take the initiative to ask you to teach them many things when appropriate, such as teaching them how to speak and how to stand and how to behave. Look for opportunities to make them learn more.

Encourage and appreciate them for helping adults to do what they can. It is important for new parents to play more with their children, participate in children's games, and pay attention to teaching children to obey the rules of the game.

At the beginning of life, there is no distinction between good and evil, and we must always use good people and charitable behaviors to guide and educate children to become good and charitable people. It is important for children to learn from their parents. It is necessary to use the environment and the parents' love for the children to inspire and cultivate the children's love.

what is love? This is a very important topic, and it must be clearly understood by everyone, and it must be explained clearly to the children. Regarding love, be patient and elaborate.

Love: Hope and wish someone well, care for someone and help someone well. Here someone represents people or events or things. To love a person is to hope and wish him or her good health, good morals, and good deeds. To care about someone is to care about his or her body, mood, character, and all aspects. To help someone is to help his body, mood, morals and all aspects to change from bad to good, from good to better. If he does good deeds, help someone do better. If he does bad deeds, he must stop it immediately, and then try to make someone do good deeds as much as possible. Unlike his relationship, the way and the degree of love are different. For example, when parents love their children, they cultivate and educate them with all their heart and strength, so that they can grow up physically and mentally. The love for a stranger in a distant foreign country is to hope and bless someone, to care about his situation, and to give someone more or less help in moral, spiritual, and material ways. Children's love for toys is to keep them clean, play carefully, not break them, and take care of them. The love for a distant star is to hope and bless it. When I miss it, I can see it gleaming through the clear night sky.

A caring person may spontaneously and consciously stop evil and promote good, be willing to give, replace jealousy with envy, and replace bullying with help. Love is the most important, and we must focus on cultivating children's love from an early age.

The health of young children is the foundation of future health and happiness. Children's eyesight, hearing, teeth, eyes, ears, mouth and nose must be kept in good condition, and they will enter the kindergarten joyfully. There are many children there, and they lead a colorful and rich life under the leadership of the teacher. They love the collective, full of curiosity and interest in the world, after three years of happy and unforgettable kindergarten time. Then they happily enter elementary school.

Primary school stage: Keep the children in a happy mood and arouse their interest in learning. They must concentrate on listening in class to learn well. They must do their homework with care to do well. Always pay attention to your child's homework from the beginning. What is wrong or impossible to do should be taught until he understands. Teach him how to do homework, not do it for him. Let them do their homework well. Let them have confidence and a good mood during the exam. From elementary school, we must develop a good learning habit for children to "do your homework diligently everyday". Parents should pay attention to their children's posture, develop good living habits, and pay attention to physical exercise. Don't hunch back to prevent myopia. Strive to complete elementary school with good grades in moral, intellectual, and physical skills. On weekends or holidays in elementary school, you should accompany your children to outdoor activities to make the family happy.

Middle school stage: Children entering junior high school should have a preliminary understanding of many things. Those who should understand but have not yet understood should be patiently explained so that they understand. Those who have poor grades in a certain subject need more counseling and catch up in time. On the basis of learning the basic textbooks, teach them to find reference books to practice self-study, learn to think and solve problems independently, and increase his interest in learning. Middle school is when children are beginning to develop, and sex education should be done well. They should get appropriate physical exercise, and pay attention to nutrition and hygiene.

Children must understand that what they learn in middle school is the basic knowledge of behavior, work, and life, which everyone needs to know. After knowing it, they will be used throughout their lives.

Parents and teachers should pay special attention to their children's language ability, and reach a high level of reading, writing, listening, and speaking skills in middle school. Especially with writing and speaking, the words and sentences should be easy for others to read and understand, and describe things clearly.

When they speak they should have a clear voice. If when speaking someone makes a whistling noise, has an oral murmur or tooth murmur, mixed together, it will sound harsh, uncomfortable, and unclear. Some people speak with mixed high and low tone, a sometimes strong and sometimes weak voice, or start a sentence loud and end in a small voice, or a weak voice in the throat. They will be difficult to listen to, will be unclear and time wasting. Some people did not speak the whole sentence naturally, but pulled it out sometimes slowly and sometimes quickly. It is not intentional, but the listener has difficulty understanding. Those who wish to speak, especially teachers, speakers, announcers, and radio anchors, must consciously make up their minds and practice their speech skills well, then the listeners will be blessed. My whole life I have written and spoken very badly, and I am lazy to practice. Now that I am old, I can't change it. I regretted it my whole life. I hope that young people pay attention to practice in order to write well and speak well.

Some children in middle school, if they are particularly interested in social sciences, they must work harder to learn mathematics, physics, and natural sciences. Because if there is not enough natural science knowledge and thinking methods, future work efficiency may be lower and it may be easier to make mistakes. Workers engaged in political and social sciences in modern society have a good foundation of mathematical, physical and natural science knowledge.

Children who are particularly interested in natural sciences must work harder to learn social sciences. Among them are politics, economy, religion, culture, customs, manners, art, and language knowledge. These are all very important to know how to behave in the world and to handle tasks. If you lack the above knowledge, it will be very challenging, very disadvantageous, very difficult, and very dangerous.

It is true that "The Newborn Calf is Not Afraid of Tigers" because it didn't know that tigers would eat it and it doesn't know how to avoid tigers.

That's why bloody tragedies occur, and this popular saying contains countless tragedies. It is very harmful to use this popular saying as an object of admiration. It should be used to warn children and teach them early that tigers are ferocious and cannibalistic, so you should avoid them quickly. In reality, there are many tigers of all kinds. In addition to tigers in zoos and deep mountains, there are car road tigers, water tigers, fire tigers, electric tigers, political tigers, religious tigers, economic tigers, physical tigers, chemical tigers, and so on. Know it, avoid it, and don't be careless.

There are two very important popular sayings, "You must not have the heart to hurt others" and "you must not have the heart to guard against others." Children must memorize them and be taught them how to use them. Children must be cautious when making friends, and never do bad, dangerous, or illegal things together.

In the middle school stage, children can live in the school board and lodging, lead a collective life, and practice autonomy. It is very meaningful to go home to reunite with parents on the weekend and talk about the situation about studying and life.

Children must understand that their parents give birth to, nurture, love, care for, and teach them. From birth to adulthood, the contribution is great. My parents are my guardians and have great responsibilities. I want to be a good child, and cooperate with my parents to do good deeds, not to do bad things, not to make my parents sad, but to make my parents happy, to be filial, and to be grateful.

The ideal parents have a high standard of morals, are very smart, very fit, very knowledgeable, and very rich. The reality is not so, or is even the opposite. For the sake of their children, parents should correct their own mistakes, correct their bad personality, and get rid of bad habits. If there is no ability to change or it is too late to change, there is no chance that change will happen. It is necessary to admit mistakes in front of the children and warn them not to make such mistakes. Be good. My parents are my benefactor, and they will always be. Even wicked parents are always my benefactors. Children must admit this facts and help their parents correct their mistakes.

People want to be able to know their mistakes, and even more eager to correct them. Some mistakes can only be discovered after a long time, and people are unable to correct them after they are discovered. It is foolish to cover up the mistakes of one's own ancestors, or make every effort to say that the mistakes are right. Only by admitting and correcting the mistakes of our ancestors can we progress and develop smoothly. This is the manifestation of the aspiration and ability of future generations, that is, the best practical action to honor the ancestors.

Even for people who have made serious mistakes, who have committed the worst, including the number one war crimes. their children are innocent. The society should care about them, influence them, train and educate them to become good people.

Children of poor parents and sick parents, children in unhappy families, and children who have lost their parents are sad. Some of the children work hard, and they have the opportunity to undergo arduous training. This is unfortunately a tempered "opportunity" forced upon them by the environment, an "opportunity" that a rich child cannot have.

Children who can stand the hardship and challenges of life will have a strong working ability in the future, and they will develop in the future. It is a pity that many poor children have lost at the starting block of life, or took the wrong direction!

There is only one childhood. Parents who didn't give their children a happy childhood feel very guilty and regretful.

Poor and sick parents, disabled parents, must make up for their shortcomings with deep love. Education is indispensable, health and safety are indispensable, knowledge of life is indispensable, good character is indispensable, and strong will is indispensable. Poor parents must pay special attention to the education of their children.

Some poor children receive the love of their parents, the care and help of society. They overcome difficulties, study hard, aspire to become a capable person in the future, build a wealthy and happy family, and are determined to make their future children have a happy childhood.

And in the future, there will be a lot of money to pay back society, sponsor charities, and help poor children. Some wealthy philanthropists in society have had very difficult childhoods.

It has been more than ten years from the marriage to the time the children are in high school. Recalling the past makes me feel that time flies by so fast, during which there is a lot of hard work, and there is also a lot of happiness. It is meaningful to see children grow up healthily, and see that all the hard work was worth it. This is the joy of life and the responsibility of life.

University stage: Your child has graduated from high school and is faced with the problem of entering a higher education or the workforce, so he or she must prepare in advance. Most parents want their children to go to college, and they don't have to force it. Entering the workforce right away, if you work hard, you can get promoted and raise your salary. There are also learning opportunities. Many young people want to go to university, and their parents need to help them mentally and financially. Parents don't have money, and children are willing and able to do so, because they have scholarships and assistance from the school and the social government, and they can also study part-time.

The thirst for knowledge is the great desire of college students. In our harmonious society, at the university you can have a good learning environment, and a good study time. I envy the students. Children must cherish, take advantage of this good environment, have a good time, learn more, and enjoy more learning! You must lay a good foundation for your major in college, and don't waste your precious time in college. Some young people enter the university and absorb relevant knowledge eagerly. This is a good phenomenon and is very beneficial to future professional studies or research. When the child is in his twenties, his morality, intelligence, and physical ability may surpass his parents'. In the eyes and hearts of parents, their children will always be children, and they will always care about their children and their grandchildren.

The child has now graduated from university, got a job and became independent. The husband and wife give birth to their children, and then nurture them into youths with both ability and political integrity to contribute to society. The important task of life has been completed, the wife worked hard, the wife is great, long live the wife! The husband worked hard, long live the husband! That kind of joy is more affectionate. They want to take a trip around the world by sea, land and air. This is an empty-nest honeymoon. Compared with a newlywed honeymoon, it is more peaceful and better. From then on, they should always be grateful toward the spouse, be understanding, and forgiving. There are still many things to do in life, and the spouse wants to learn. They will help him or her. The spouse wants someone to accompany him or her shopping, to watch sport games, to travel. Anything I can help I will do my best. When the spouse is ill, I should care more about him or her, find a good doctor, a good hospital, and a good recovery environment to improve his or her health. Now that medical science is advanced, the standard of living is high, and health care is emphasized, it is very possible to live to the age of 100. Many interesting things can be done after retirement. Something beneficial for the couple, for the children, or for the benefit of society. Elderly couples can also have regular sex and have a good and long life.

The reality is not as perfect as we imagine. The elderly should be content and happy. The gratitude to their spouse is eternal, and the memory of his or her spouse is eternal.

The above is a ramble about marriage and family life, about the essential of generalities. There are many people who get married in society, and there are also many people who do not get married.

Reason why they do not get married: There are many reasons not to get married. Some people may be misunderstood, not interested, or even disgusted because they are not interested. They can ask a psychoanalyst for counseling to eliminate misunderstandings. Unmarried people have not yet felt the joy of married life, and they know it is fun after marriage. Many things are like this. At first, or before it, I don't have interest in something, or I even dislike it. But if you get to know it more, you will be interested if you have more experience and insight about it.

Some people do not get married because they are afraid of hard work, difficulties, and troubles. In fact, doing things or studying is hard, difficult and troublesome. People who are not married are likely to work harder, encounter more difficulties and see more troubles. Because bachelors don't have close and good help, they have to do many things by themselves, which is very hard. Some things need to be done by two people, and it is very difficult for one person to do it. Without the other half of life, life is actually very lonely and inconvenient.

Bachelors have more troubles in life. When others have troubles and need help, it is most suitable to find a bachelor nearby. Others think he or she has nothing to do, so it is most reasonable to ask him or her for help. It is conceivable that not getting married is harder, more difficult and more troublesome. Therefore, those who are afraid of hard work and difficulties and troubles should be determined to get married.

Some people don't get married because they are afraid of marriage failure and lose face. There is a possibility of failure in everything. Those who are afraid of failure must be fully prepared and ensure they minimize the possibility of marriage failure and maximize the possibility of success. If you are determined to work hard, you will succeed. If you fail, you can do it again. You must be confident and resolute to succeed. Doing things reasonably and legally will save you face. People who don't get married are easy to make irresponsible remarks. Therefore, those who are afraid of failure and of losing face must do it and be determined to succeed. Know yourself and others. Find a suitable partner to marry, and build a happy family.

Some people cannot find a suitable spouse in their life circle because of the work environment, so they have not been married. You can ask for help. In the vast crowd, there must be someone suitable for you. It's a pity that they never meet, time is the most precious. Relying on the help of an honest and reliable matchmaking agency is the best strategy. Using high technology and high professional expertise, you can quickly find multiple suitable match for you. Comparable to the legendary elderly matchmaker under the moon that people have imagined since ancient times, they specialize in accomplishing good things for people.

Some people demand perfection, which is unrealistic, they miss the chance of success, and waste their youth. Don't be stubborn, just lower expectations. Doing well is more important than choosing well.

Some young women do not get married because they are afraid of having children. Now that medical technology and equipments are good, it is safe to have babies. Be careful, listen to the doctor, and don't be afraid. Some people are afraid that after giving birth to a child, their body will be changed and look ugly. In fact, young women who have given birth looks more beautiful. Some people think that it is a disadvantage for women to get married and have babies, and that men and women are unequal and resolutely refrain from getting married, and resolutely refrain from being a babies-bearing machine. In fact, childbirth is a woman's ability, men do not have this ability, mothers are the greatest. Husband and wife help each other and cooperate to contribute to the sustainable development of all mankind.

Why get married: Because I have many needs, I want to build a happy family, which has many benefits. Let's enumerate them. There are major needs and secondary needs. The so-called primary and secondary are different for each person. I want to get married and have babies. This is my important task, my biological task, my task to humanity, my task to my parents, and my task to myself. Because I physically and psychologically need a long-term sexual partner to live with. I need a capable, congenial, and closest partner of the opposite sex to develop my career together. There can also be many different needs, or special needs that must be emphasized. But it must be reasonable and legal, and it must be confirmed in advance by both parties.

Because marriage has many benefits, it is what I really need, what I dream of, and can only be obtained in a married life, so I want to get married. Because marriage is the right of every adult, it is protected by law, and it should not be forbidden to anyone, including myself. I need to get married to be worthy of myself.

Married people have many benefits in society that are not available to unmarried people. For example, some countries or regions will reduce or exempt multiple taxes after marriage. Moreover, there are preferential treatments in purchasing a home, in terms of work, in terms of borrowing from banks, in terms of credit, in terms of insurance, and in many aspects, there are special preferential treatments that singles do not have.

You can also think of more reasons to get married.

⑧ Why do we need to sign a marriage life plan contract?

Marriage is a major event in life, and you must have a good plan. It must be fulfilled with sincerity and diligence.

To ensure smooth success and family happiness. This plan is not for one person. It is a joint family life plan for the husband and wife, which must be formulated by the husband and wife together. Husband and wife each have their own outlook on life, values, hobbies and personalities. There are also many requirements and proposals for each other. Many of these matters have been discussed during the appointment. And basically a consensus has been reached, and they are willing to cooperate to fulfill their promises. Now make a list of these matters again, and then reach a consensus after careful consideration and discussion by the other party. Both are willing to cooperate, and all have received the promise of the other party. Then write it out in black and white, and then revise and add to it. Every word and sentence can be written clearly and unambiguously. Both parties have read it carefully and think it is OK. They are also convinced that they are both trustworthy, responsible, and able to fulfill their promises.

Then they make up their mind and sign their names. After notarization and approval, this is a valid marriage life plan contract.

It contains various contents, including mutual requirements and commitments, division of labor and cooperation, procedures and schedules, norms and principles, and many other issues. In the course of life, how to avoid and prevent unfortunate accidents. If it happens, how to resolve it. It must be discussed in advance to reach a consensus. Then write it in the contract. Preparation prevent hardship, this is a very important matter.

The Marriage Life Planning Contract is the most prudent, sincere, collectible, memorable, and best engagement token. More meaningful than an engagement ring. This is the first work of a couple's collaboration.

During marriage and family life, you can take this contract out from time to time to appreciate it, or you can review and compare it, to see whether you can fulfill your promises well. Can the contract proceed smoothly on time? Or is life exceeding the contract? Society is developing and things are evolving. The contract was previously set, and it was written out in accordance with the level, willingness and expectations at the time and deemed the most appropriate. Keep up with the times, if any improprieties are found, they should be revised in time. The purpose is to improve. However, it is necessary for the husband and wife to discuss and agree with each other before making changes.

This contract is good, and unfortunate accidents on the road are ruled out. According to this contract, good goals, success and happiness will be achieved.

In life, for leisure, entertainment, work, doing things, and especially important things, to make plans we must first be prepared ideologically and practically, do everything possible to avoid and prevent unfortunate accidents.

If misfortune occurs, the couple must attempt rescue as soon as possible, try to minimize injuries and losses, and do a good job in the aftermath.

Death is the most unfortunate scenario. First of all, we must avoid, do not go near dangerous situations and stay away from them, do not do dangerous things, do prevent dangerous things from happening, eliminate the root causes of danger, pay attention to safety, pay attention to food hygiene and do not overwork, do maintain a good health, do prevent disease, do avoid flood, fire, robbers, thieves, traffic accidents and work-related accidents. If there is an injury, it must be treated promptly and thoroughly. If unfortunately death occurs, the cause of death must be ascertained. Then donate the body to the hospital.

Then deal with inheritance distribution and other family members placement, etc. The survivor must remarry as much as possible, and after remarrying, he or she must always care for and take care of the parents and children of the deceased husband or wife.

In the past, someone swears to god when they get engaged, that if they can't be born on the same day, they would die on the same day. This is nonsense, not cherishing life. Some people swear that they will never get married again, this is too painstaking; just be grateful and responsible. Some people swear that if they have a change of heart, the heaven will kill them. This is too cruel. Changing your mind shouldn't deserve death from heaven, it should be forgivable.

The second unfortunate event is to have extramarital affair behind the back of the spouse, referred to as infidelity. Extramarital affair can cause many tragic accidents. Special requirements and promises must be made when signing a contract. The wife asked her husband to be loyal to her. The husband agreed to his wife's request, and the husband promised to be loyal to his wife. The husband requires his wife to be loyal to him. The wife agreed to her husband's request, and the wife promised to be loyal to her husband.

The wife is afraid that her husband will be infected with STDs and pass it on to her, which causes sexual misery and complications. If you get AIDS, it's like being sentenced to death, which is terrible. In an extramarital affair, the mistress will inevitably divert the husband's care for his wife and his family, and may also produce various tragedies. This is also the wife's fear.

The husband has the same kind of fear. The husband also has a special fear, that is, the fear that his wife will have sex outside marriage and get pregnant. The child born is not his own flesh and blood, which is a natural biological fear of a man. Usually men have this natural fear.

The infidelity between husband and wife has caused many tragedies in ancient and modern times. Some people cut off their husband's penis, some conspired with adulterers to kill their husband. Some husbands disfigured, injured or killed their wives.

These are all serious crimes. they are greater misfortunes caused by misfortunes. They must be absolutely prohibited.

The husband and wife must write clearly when signing the contract, if the wife suffers great mental or physical pain or damage due to her husband's unfaithfulness, in any case, she will never cut off her husband's sex organs, will never hurt and never murder her husband. She will forgive him as much as possible, admonish him, and deal with it in accordance with the law when necessary.

Due to his wife's unfaithfulness, the husband's spirit or body suffers great pain or injury. In any case, he will never torture, disfigure, hurt or murder his wife. He wants to forgive her as much as possible, admonish her, and deal with it in accordance with the law when necessary.

Everyone is more or less suspicious. If the husband did not go home late or did not come back from a business trip, The wife will worry about her husband having an accident or messing around outside. If the husband comes back unharmed, and she is sure no traffic injuries have occurred, she cannot be sure that he did not have an affair. Control yourself consciously. Don't doubt your husband anymore, but the unintentional feeling is out of control. She feels that his mood is different from usual, and that there is an unusual fragrance in his body or clothes. It is even more unfortunate that she accidentally saw a long hair attached to his clothes. As a result, the night has many dreams, and the mood is uncomfortable all night or even for a long period of time. It is inevitable that the husband will be suspected by his wife.

There are even more unfortunate things. For example both husband and wife suffer from STDs. Both husband and wife know that they are not messing around outside. So they both suspect that the other party is messing around outside, and that he or she contracted STDs and passed them back to him or her, which is terrible and makes him or her angry. If this unfortunate thing happens, the couple must restrain themselves. In any case, one must forgive one's husband or wife. If you do not restrain yourself, tragedies of injury or even killing are likely to break out. Husband and wife must exercise restraint, and then treat STDs first, and at the same time find out the truth, eliminate misunderstandings, and learn lessons. Note! Unclean medical supplies, unclean hands, and unclean clothes and supplies may spread sexually transmitted diseases. Pay attention to cleanliness and hygiene.

If the child looks like the father, then the father is very happy. This is human nature. But in fact there are many biological children who do not look like their biological fathers. Some fathers are very suspicious and suspect that this child is not his own. This is the difference between husband and wife. If the child does not look like the mother, there is still no doubt. The child was born from her belly when she was in pregnancy for 10 months. So usually mothers do not have this kind of suspicion, this is a suspicion peculiar to men.

Children are not like fathers. Psychologically, the more you look, the less they look like him, the more you doubt it. When the mood is unhappy, when the wife or son inadvertently angered them in words or actions, the admonitions break out. Even the killing of wife and child occurs sometimes. In any case, this is a serious sin. He must be sensible and absolutely prohibit this behavior.

When the child is very good and smart and is an elite and the father is ugly, stupid and incompetent. The child suspects that he is not his biological father. Dad also suspected that such a bright child is not his own biological son.

Some children refuse to admit that a criminal is his father. Some father refuse to admit that a criminal is his son.

Some people refuse to admit their children were born out of wedlock.

Someone falsely claim that a rich man is his father.

Someone falsely claim that a rich man is his own son.

In the past, some people used blood mixing to confirm a parent-child relationship. It is actually inaccurate.

There are now DNA paternity tests. They are very accurate and can solve many practical problems. There is a need to preserve umbilical cord blood at birth to extract stem cells in case of need. At the same time keep the newborn's DNA certificate.

At the same time, DNA can be performed to confirm the father-son relationship. The new father will be even happier. The new mother must be even happier because her husband is even happier. This increases the family love between husband and wife, the family is happier and warmer.

But some new mothers think that the suspicion that I am unfaithful to my husband is an insult to my character. Please don't mind, it's actually a show of good faith toward the husband. It is the expression of loving her husband. It is the easiest and best way to make the husband feel at ease. It is fortunate for new mothers to be able to use DNA to confirm a guarantee to her husband. Thanks to scientists and doctors for their contributions. This can and should become a routine procedure in the hospital delivery process.

The new mother also hope to be able to confirm that the child is their own. If the newborn is secretly exchanged or replaced before being discharged from the hospital after delivery, and the child is brought home and raised, and she find out later that the child is not her own. That would be a big blow. Where is your own flesh and blood? Is the child OK, still alive? That kind of mood is uncomfortable, so beware.

When they got married, the couple had an agreement whether they should have babies or not. If the husband and wife agree not to have babies, there is no problem. If both husband and wife decided to have babies, and they have been successful, it will be very good. What if both husband and wife want to have babies, but they couldn't? What if the man is infertile and the woman is normal? What if the husband is normal and the wife is infertile? It must be discussed and a consensus must be reached. If there was no agreement on those issues in the contract, the husband and wife must consult together to obtain a consensus, and then it can be added to the contract.

When making a contract, all kinds of important and unlucky possibilities may occur, and how to deal with them and how to resolve such occurrences, must be clearly written.

If husband and wife have different opinions, they need to discuss it diligently. Present one's argument and consider the other's interest. It may be better to make an agreement sensibly, calmly, and patiently.

To make a contract, you can ask someone with experience for guidance or find information for reference. I believe that in the near future, you can easily find reference books in bookstores that teach people to make marriage and family life plan contracts. There are various examples for reference in the book. In the future, there will be many expert consultants who will help and counsel men and women who are about to get married in contracting life plans. Five examples are provided below. they are for reference only, please adapt them to your need if you find any defects.

Example 1: Mr. M, from Tiannan, is 25 years old, 170cm tall. He wants to marry a pale-skin rich and beautiful wife, he fancied a few matches but failed in his attempts. There were also several girls who were interested in him, but they were rejected by him. He feels that high is unreachable, and low is not enough, so it is unrealistic to drag on. After introduction by others, he chose Miss W.

Miss W, from Dibei, 23 years old, 167cm tall. She wants to marry a tall, rich and handsome husband. She has seen a few but failed to marry them. There were also a few boys who were interested in her, but they were rejected by her. She found it unrealistic to drag on like this. After being introduced to Mr. M, she chose him. The following is their contract.

We both believe that marriage is a major event in life, and it is better to have a plan than no plan. We will sign a marriage and family life plan contract together and get married. We'll live according to this plan, achieve good goals smoothly, and be happy and successful.

Both of us now live in low-cost housing, and neither have any property, permanent job or professional knowledge. But we are confident and determined to get married and build a happy family. We must learn from the advantages of our parents and do better. We are determined to help and cooperate with each other and share weal and woe.

I M ask W to respect, have filial respect for, and help her father-in-law and mother-in-law, just like toward her own parents.

I W promise that I would respect, have filial respect for, and help my father-in-law and mother-in-law, just like toward my own parents.

I W ask M to respect, have filial respect for, and help his father-in-law and mother-in-law, just like his own parents.

I M promise that I will respect, have filial respect for, and help my father-in-law and mother-in-law, just like my own parents.

I W ask M to be loyal to me, to respect, care for, and love me, to discipline and guard me. I need M's discipline and supervision. If M criticizes or doubts me, I don't mind. I will ask M to listen to my explanation calmly and patiently and welcome my kind and reasonable confession. If there are mistakes, I am willing to correct them.

I M ask W to be loyal to me, to Respect, care for, and love me, to discipline and guard me. I need W's discipline and supervision. If W criticizes me or doubts me. I don't mind, I ask W to listen to my explanation calmly and patiently and welcome my kind and reasonable confession. If there are mistakes, I am willing to correct them.

I M promised that I would be loyal to W. I must respect, care for, and love W, to discipline and guard W against mistakes.

I W promise that I will be loyal to M. I must respect, care, and love M, to discipline and guard M against mistakes.

We have reached a consensus to have children. And both parents are willing to help. We both obeyed our parents' opinions. We will use no contraception after half a year of marriage. If there is a problem, or if the wife is pregnant, she should see a gynecologist. To listen to the doctor, do a good job at pregnancy examination and health care.

I M want to listen to W and make W healthy and happy both physically and mentally. Usually housework is done by two people. During pregnancy, childbirth and childcare, I want to ease W's housework. I will do it when necessary, and I promise that I will take care of W and my baby carefully and patiently. If necessary, we can ask M or W's parents to help.

We both promised to put our children first. Everything must be for the sake of the child. For the sake of the child, we will not quarrel. We should discuss more and build a harmonious, warm, environmentally friendly and happy family for our children, and we must lead by example, pay attention to teaching by example and words, and do our best to train and educate children so that they have good moral character, extensive knowledge, strong professional work ability, and contribute to society.

Both of us value work, food, clothing, shelter, sex, rest, entertainment, and knowledge, and are both interested. We must have enjoyments and savings in life.

We both agree that if there is any problem, we should discuss it in advance or in a timely manner. The most important thing is to do things well and patiently with a plan.

We never knew each other until we agreed to get married. Whether it is accidental or inevitable, it is predestined. Once you become a husband and wife, you must adapt to each other, get used to each other, and help each other build a happy family. We should practice together to become a good couple, to be a good parent for our child.

We must support each other, and strive to achieve a good relationship for a hundred years and have a long life. Example 2: Mr. M and Ms. W are both 29 years old, studying different majors at the same university, knowing each other, and have a plain and good impression of the other. After graduating six years ago, they went their separate ways. They met in country C half a year ago and are now ready to get married. Both of them are very sensible, very kind, and very caring. They are not perfect, but they demand perfection. They are careful and cautious in everything, looking for safety and stability. If there are ten different safety measures, they will accomplish them all. Below is their contract.

We both have a great need for marriage. In order to be able to achieve the goal well, we must do enough work and take enough precautions.

We both want to have children. Pregnancy will be carried out half a year after marriage, and it is expected that the pregnancy will be successful within one year. If the pregnancy is not successful within one year, then a doctor will check and treat it, if needed artificial insemination will be used. We will make sure to use our own sperm and eggs. If one party has no sperm or no eggs, we will divorce by agreement. We promise to remain good friends in the future, and to care and help each other. After one party has children, he or she will become the other's godfather or godmother. The child will respect the latter and have filial respect for the latter and help him or her.

We plan to have three children, either male or female. We both agreed that a DNA paternity test must be done after delivery. If there is a problem, we must calm down and deal with problems in a peaceful and rational way.

We promise that when we get married, we will become husband and wife, and we must abide by the rules of husband and wife relationship that we agreed to.

We must be loyal, respectful, tolerant, cheerful and be helpful to our spouse. We must keep our promises, resolutely fulfill our promises, and cooperate with each other. For each other, for the children, for the family, we must make concessions.

In particular, we are reminded of what we must resolutely promise: If the husband or the wife intentionally or unintentionally causes the other's body or spirit to suffer great harm, he or she resolutely promises that he or she will resolutely not knowingly or secretly hurt the spouse, will resolutely forgive him or her, hoping that the spouse knows his or her mistakes, and hope the spouse can correct it, as far as possible without legal settlement. We promised to use wisdom and action to realize our wishes. Let there be a hundred years of good harmony, and be together in harmony until old age.

Economically, we both have income and assets. After marriage, we will open a family account in the bank funded by both parties. We will not waste, we will be sufficient and rich. After retirement, our assets can be combined. One part is used for retirement, and the rest is for the children. Or we can leave a part to the children and donate the rest to society.

Training and educating children is our great responsibility. It is also our interest. To enable our children to have a happier childhood, a better environment, a better education, a higher and deeper knowledge, a better character, a better body, a better ability to endure hardships and hard work, and be better than us in all aspects.

Both of us are very interested in food. We want to eat delicious food that are nutritious, light, hygienic, appropriate, and healthy.

We like food, but we are not picky eaters, and we don't eat strange things. We will design a few good dishes together.

Both of us are very interested in sex, we need to learn about sex, and we have to debate right from wrong. Discussing sexual issues between husband and wife is practical and helpful. We will actively communicate and explain our feelings, needs, opinions, and suggestions. We will care about the feelings of the spouse, to meet the spouse's needs as much as possible. We want to have a clean, hygienic, just the right amount, healthy and enjoyable sex life.

For travel and entertainment, we both believe that safety is the first priority. We won't go to dangerous places, won't play roller coasters, won't do dangerous things. We won't spend too much time going to attractions. For free time we may watch TV at home, listen to favorite music, read favorite books, and grow flowers in the backyard. These are all good activities to enjoy, and sometimes get some exercise.

Both of us will pay great attention to the home environment, to make it beautiful and safe, and convenient for transportation. For this reason, we both spared no effort to spend time and effort to improve our home environment.

We are sincere, confident and determined to fulfill this plan and contract. Our future should be even better than this contract.

Example 3: Mr. M is 23 years old, graduated from university this year, and now works in a foreign-funded enterprise in S city. Miss W is 23 years old and is a classmate of M. She has not found a job after graduation. They have moved in together.

They are about to get married. The contract is as follows.

We have a very good relationship, and we have confirmed the relationship between husband and wife. We decided to wait until graduation to get married.

We think that getting married is a step further than living together. Completion of marriage registration means public recognition of the relationship between husband and wife. There are legal responsibilities and legal rights. At the same time there is legal freedom. Then we both will feel more practical, more secure, and more intimate. We both promised to honor each other's parents and plan not to rely on parents. We live in a rented house now, and plan to live in a rented house in the future because of freedom of movement. We plan to live a long-term life in a two-person world, eating, living and having fun together. I am not planning to give birth now. When I will give birth, I will decide in the future. Induced abortion is very harmful to the body. We must take thorough contraceptive measures and strive to be foolproof.

We both focus on enjoyment, and pay more attention to seeking improvement and development.

I W promise that I would do my best to help M, so that he has a good leisure environment, good physical and mental health, which are conducive to work and study.

I M promise that I will do my best to help W so that she has a good leisure environment, good physical and mental health, which are conducive to work and study.

In terms of finance, both of us have various preparations, so we must plan carefully and live within our means. Income is shared, and one person can work for two people. Two people have better income from work. If both husband and wife are unemployed, they can find a job by lowering their wages and lowering their requirements for working conditions.

I M promise that if I am disabled or sick, I will take the initiative to file a divorce with W. I hope she remarries and wish her happiness. I hope she will always remember me and care about me. I will apply for a disability allowance, and I must always remember her and care about her.

I W promise that if I am disabled or sick, I will take the initiative to file a divorce with M. I hope he gets married again and wish him happiness. I hope he will always remember me and care about me. I will apply for disability subsidy, and I must always remember him and care about him.

I M promise that if I die due to illness or accident, after finding out the cause of death I will donate my body to the hospital. I demand that W must remarry, and then take more care of my relatives and care more for them.

I W promise that if I die due to illness or accident, after finding out the cause of death I will donate my body to the hospital. I demand that M must remarry, and then take more care of my relatives and care more for them.

I M promise that if W intentionally or unintentionally causes me serious physical or mental harm, I am determined not to hurt her overtly or secretly. I am determined to forgive her, as long as she knows her mistakes, she can correct them for the better. When necessary, the law can be used to solve the problem, but the law should be avoided as much as possible, and peace is the most important thing.

I am determined to forgive her, as long as she knows her mistakes, she can correct them for the better. When necessary, the law can be used to solve the problem, but the law should be avoided as much as possible, and peace is the most important thing.

Both of us believe that it is necessary and rational to discuss possible unlucky events. “Being prepared help avoid hardship, avoid panic in the presence of danger, overcome difficulties, bring good luck and avoid misfortune.”

We like to discuss vast subjects, defend forcibly our views, and make a fuss after a meal or tea. This is fun and useful.

We must develop good habits. Play well when we play, work well when we work. Do our best to accomplish our tasks. We must encourage each other and be good teachers and helpful friends in our career. We should be students and assistants to each other, strive for progress and development. To be able to give full play to our intelligence and make great contributions to society is our greatest happiness. Our relationship will naturally increase day by day. We wish for a hundred-year harmony and being grateful to each other.

Example 4: Mr. M is 50 years old, has a wealthy economy, has a good moral character, and loves children very much.

Miss W is 20 years old, very caring, smart, charitable, and likes to help people.

M hopes to marry a 20-year-old good wife and have three lovely children. Then, he wishes to use good methods to raise these three children. It is estimated that it will take ten years to have three children. By then, he will be old and his wife will be young. For the sake of his wife, he plans to be married for ten years and get divorced at the end of the term. After M’s detailed explanation and W’s careful thinking, W believes in M and is willing to fulfill M’s ideals. M also believes in W. The following is the contract.

We have a ten-year contract. During this decade, we both promise to be loyal to each other. During this period, we will both fulfill our promises sincerely. During this period, we will dedicate ourselves to being a good couple. We are determined to do better.

We promise to give birth at the beginning of our marriage. The plan is to have three children within ten years.

Either boy or girl is fine. We must focus on training and educating children. If we can’t get pregnant naturally, we can use artificial insemination. The sperm of M must be combined with the egg of W. When a child is born, a DNA paternity test must be done. The safety of the mother and of the child is the most important. If there are problems, they must be resolved peacefully. It can be solved by law when necessary. Harmony is the most important thing.

We plan that M will continue to run his business after marriage. As a housewife, W can hire a nanny. On holidays or weekends, M will accompany W and his children in travels and entertainments. The family should be happy. Family expenses are managed by W and funded by M. We should strive for wealth.

M promises that when ten years are up, M will divorce W, and M will help W remarry. The properties will be divided into 5 equal parts, one for each of the couple and the three children. The right to care for the children is decided by W. After the divorce, we should always care about our ex-spouse and the children. If necessary, help will be provided at any time.

We promise that if W did not want to divorce, M should feel guilty and become more grateful. At the same time, if we sign a continuing contract, we will have a happier family and our children may be better educated.

Example 5: Ms. W is 50 years old, smart, beautiful, kind, caring, and healthy. Due to being a workaholic and having a busy career, she has succeeded now, but her youth has passed. She is a person who pursues ideals very much, and she wants to have a belated spring. She entrusted a marriage agency to seek marriage, and the target age was set at 23 years old, with a regular ten-year period. During the period, there were many requirements and many promises asked.

Mr. M is 23 years old, studious, healthy, sports-loving, compassionate and helpful. He accidentally saw W's marriage information, as if she was calling him for help. He dated W sincerely, and after three months, he signed a contract to get married. The contract is as follows.

Both of us are willing to be a legally happy couple for ten years. We will resolutely abide by the rules of husband and wife relationship that we agree to. We both agree that W will continue to run her business after we got married, and at the same time she will help M continue to study at the university. This will give M a good learning environment, during which W will always care and guide M's learning. During this period, we both live together, go on vacation together, and experience ten years of happiness together. It is planned that within this ten years, M will become a professional doctor and have a good career. At the end of the ten-year period, we will go through the formalities for ending this relationship of husband and wife.

At this time, M is 33 years old, and W hopes that M can find a young wife, have children, and build a happy family.

In the future, M's wife will call W the eldest sister, and M's children will call W the eldest aunt. If necessary, M and his family will help and take care of W very well, and will always remember W.

The above five examples are rough and can be modified and supplemented, and can be written more clearly and in detail. Or the couple can ask an experienced marriage consultant expert to guide them and create a better contract. They can also sign a contract by filling in a form. This kind of form is designed by experts and can be filled in by husband and wife in a format similar to a questionnaire.

Marriage and family is a major event for everyone, as well as a major event for the human society. Everyone must care about it, and society must care a lot about it.

In a harmonious society, we must devote ourselves to the motto "Everyone marries, and every family is happy."

9 Health is the basis of happiness

If you are healthy, you may enjoy more blessings and happiness. If you are very healthy, you will have less sickness, more joy, and more happiness. Keeping health is everyone's top priority. It is also the top priority for the whole society and mankind. Everyone must keep themselves healthy, and society must keep everyone healthy.

Everyone must learn about physiological health care. From small to large to old, from simple to deep. The most basic thing is to understand the shape of the various internal organs of the human body. What are their positions in the body, what are their functions, what pathological changes and symptoms may occur, etc. This is the basic common sense of everyone and must be known.

The school should create a compulsory subject on physiological hygiene. From elementary school to middle school to high school, from the beginning level to the higher levels. Textbooks should be accompanied by pictures and text, and the content of the text should be clear. Everyone should apply what they have learned, practice by themselves, including public health and personal hygiene, and develop good habits. The lack of hygiene is wicked! Everyone must know oneself as much as possible and understand oneself, must guard oneself, and must be responsible for oneself.

It is dangerous not to seek a doctor if you are sick or injured. People with good medical knowledge, including doctors, should seek a doctor if they are sick, because he is subjective and biased. Doctors are bystanders, and bystanders see things more clearly. Moreover, doctors have more experience. But the doctor does not know enough about the patient, so the doctor should ask the patient questions in detail. The patient should tell the doctor his condition in detail. The doctor should listen carefully to the patient's narration and opinions. Patients should listen carefully to the doctor's instructions and teaching. Good communication and cooperation between doctors and patients can improve efficiency and avoid mistakes.

Some things are important:

1: The doctor's papers, prescriptions, and medical records are all very, very important. The words must be clear, requiring ordinary people to be able to clearly understand every word. If it is not clear, some patients will have objections. If the text is unclear it may cause major errors. Unclear text is a major problem. It is a problem that must be solved. Can it be solved with high technology? Everyone can make suggestions.

2: Wrong knowledge and messages about medicine and health care, vague knowledge and messages that mislead patients easily, and deceptive knowledge and messages are broadcast to the public through the media. Health departments have the responsibility to educate people clearly and concisely with facts and scientific principles in a timely manner. What is wrong and what is right. Moreover, people must have the ability to distinguish right from wrong. We must prevent the masses from applying wrong information on health. The patient's money could be wasted, the patient's precious time could be lost, and serious consequences might occur.

3: There are few medical staff and doctors and they have to see many patients every day, which is very tiring. The nurse gets very tired to take care of many patients. There are too many patients and it is troublesome to wait for a long time. Doctors and nurses have very little time for consultations and nursing care of patients, thus some patients have objections. Society needs to train more medical personnel and improve people's health care knowledge. Everyone must pay attention to clothing, food, shelter, and transportation cleanliness and hygiene, preventing injuries, diseases, and overwork. By improving environmental hygiene, we improve health and reduce illnesses among people.

4: When the medical bills are expensive, the illness and the heavy financial burden make it more distressful. The hospitals, the pharmaceutical industry, the people, and the government must cooperate with each other. They must use humanity, morality, and reason to solve problems.

5: The problem of medical accidents: the whole medical process, doctors and all staff must concentrate and work hard. A dedicated doctor is also required to observe, so that if any mistakes are discovered at any time, they can be corrected immediately. Doctors and staff, as well as doctors who specialize as observers, all bear great responsibilities. All must use the greatest care to prevent medical accidents. If misfortune happens, it is necessary to check the entire video record. Find out that it is caused by an error in which step of the process. The unfortunate patients must be given fair and reasonable compensation.

6: Medical policy issues: medical and health services should be managed by the government. Everyone will receive timely, good and proper treatment if they are injured or sick. It will be at the public's expense. All clinics will belong directly to hospitals. All hospitals are public. All medical staff are employed by the hospital and paid by the public. This can save a lot of personnel expenses. For example, if a doctor wants to practice privately, he must prepare his own medical clinic. First, he must get a place, decorate it, buy medical equipment, and recruit nurses and staff. He will have to pay employees' salaries, buy insurance, do advertising. There is still much work to be done. A lot of money is needed, and if there is no money, he must borrow. Many things require a lot of energy.

Therefore, it is difficult to concentrate on treating illnesses and saving people. Being a public doctor saves a lot of labor. He will be able to concentrate, and it will be the best use the benevolent skills of healing and saving people. This is the wish of every doctor. Medical staff are uniformly allocated by the hospital, which can more efficiently use their skills and seek happiness for patients.

In a harmonious society, everyone has lofty morality, fraternity, respect for life, compassion for the dying and the wounded, and everyone enjoys helping others. For example, if someone is seriously injured or ill and has no money for doctors, everyone who sees it and hears it gives a helping hand and donates money to help. People who are not informed are also sympathetic and willing to help. Therefore, the "universal public healthcare" is the most timely, most reasonable solution and can be approved by the general public. The government can increase taxes and increase the income from all aspects of industry and commerce to implement the "universal public healthcare."

Cure

Diagnosis and treatment: It may take a series of steps and the doctor has to ask the patient many questions. Taking samples for laboratory tests, injections, blood draws or surgery might be performed. Patients should be cleaned and disinfected. Medical equipment, wards, beds, furniture, and clothing should be disinfected. There are many things to be done by many people working together. They must also coordinate with each other in terms of time and procedures. No matter how big or small things are, difficult or easy, we shouldn't be careless. We should be serious and responsible at all time and demand a well done job. If one section is wrong or not done well, it may have a great impact and may cause an accident.

In the event of an accident, the patient may not be held accountable, and the hospital and clinic must take the initiative to investigate it. Only this way can we find problems and correct mistakes, improve work and improve level. The hospital should set up an independent professional team that is responsible for investigating medical accidents. Every step of the operation is supervised and guided by a special person, who can correct any mistakes in time. At the same time, there is a record done with a camera, and you can check back if there is any problem. Each patient is assigned a dedicated person to follow up the whole process. He is the bridge between the patient and the doctor, and the safe and reliable protector of the patient's rights.

Some hospitals now show the whole procedure of the operation in real time. The patient's family members can watch, they are the ones who care the most about it. Others can watch and increase their knowledge. The students can watch. This is a very real professional class. An expert watching may learn and acquire some experience and may also offer valuable opinions. The hospital surgery scene is very good and it is worth actively promoting it.

Blood sampling, fluid infusion, and injections are very important things, and we must attach great importance to them. It must be done by skilled experts in this area. In special circumstances, no specialty has to be operated by ordinary doctors and nurses. Although the graduation certificate already includes the testing of this knowledge, it is also emphasized that doctors and nurses must have a blood draw and infusion injection license to perform the operation. Some patients have thin or not obvious blood vessels, such as obese people or children. Some people do not cooperate, such as children, who must be treated particularly by patient, skilled and experienced professionals. This license must require detailed study of theoretical knowledge and examination, and must go through rigorous practical trainings.

During blood drawings, transfusions and injections, if you are careless, or if you are not attentive, or due to the patient's reasons, you may not be able to insert needle in the blood vessel or it might become bent, and the patient will suffer even more. Sometimes the intravenous medication enters the muscle or the muscle medication enters the blood vessel, this is a very serious mistake. The speed of the infusion should also be controlled well. If it stops before the infusion is finished, or if it is not known after the infusion, this is a very serious mistake. If you are infected with bacteria or viruses due to blood sampling, transfusion, and injection, this is a very serious fault and must be investigated thoroughly. If the wrong medicine is given, it is also a very serious fault and must be investigated thoroughly.

For blood drawings, transfusions and injections, if the technique is not good, the license may be revoked, the training must be redone, then the license will be issued again, and the job can be resumed. If you don't have confidence, you can retreat in the face of difficulties and change career.

If a serious mistake occurs during blood draw or transfusion, after it is confirmed by detailed investigation that it was caused by carelessness or bad reasons, the person must bear criminal responsibility. Do not forget this.

If a person's skill at blood draws, transfusions and injections is very exquisite and the operation is done with all her heart, there should be major rewards and praise. This is very worthwhile.

During the whole process of blood draws, transfusions or injections, no gas should enters the blood vessels or muscles from the beginning to the end. This is an important principle and must be adhered to.

There are many shortcomings of blood draws, transfusions and injections. If you have to do it, you still have to do it. Be sure to do it with the utmost care.

I very much hope that people will study and make machines for drawing blood, doing transfusion and doing injections. First fix this small machine on the selected part of the body, the computer can sense the blood vessel distribution and flow direction of the part, and then the computer automatically selects an appropriate blood vessel, automatically aligns the direction of the needle tip, and automatically inserts the needle tip accurately and keeps it there. In the center of the blood vessel. Then the whole process of drawing blood, of transfusion or injection is automatically completed. I hope that it can be implemented well in the near future and be popularized and used.

The improvement and innovation of medical equipment are both important: to increase the number of jobs in this area, we must focus on cultivating more experts in this area.

Do you have any comments or suggestions or requests or ideas in this regard? Or you may directly participate in the studies and researches in this area, which may lead to great contributions.

The doors, windows, walls, and floors of hospital buildings, clinics, and wards all require water jet washers. It will be easy to wash, clean, and disinfect. Furniture, instruments and appliances are as far as possible to be cornerless inside and outside, non-toxic, durable, easy to clean and easy to disinfect.

To build a harmonious doctor-patient relationship: Many patients are very fragile or mentally or morally unhealthy. Or they can be called a psychopaths. Many people have more or less psychological problems. Psychology and physiology influence each other. While treating physiologic diseases, doctors must also strive to make the patient psychologically better. The highest view of the doctor is to make the patient a physically and psychologically healthy person. Some patients have unsightly faces, unpleasant movements, look annoying, or are troublemakers. The doctor may unknowingly feel that he is facing a criminal or “inferior man.” It is also possible for patients to regard this doctor as an unscrupulous person who has occupied the lofty position of doctor. Such a doctor-patient relationship should not exist. The hospital must have a professional department dedicated to straightening out the relationship between doctors and patients. You can isolate the two, then do enlightenment work, and then make appropriate arrangements.

The doctor has the right to refuse to treat a patient. If you do not refuse, then the patient is the doctor’s patient. Regardless of whether the patient is a criminal, is inferior, annoying, or is a wicked person, since he is a patient of this doctor, he must treat the patient wholeheartedly and strive to cure the disease and restore his health.

Patients have the right to refuse to be treated by a doctor themselves. If they do not refuse, they must cooperate with the doctor. They should listen to the doctor, follow the doctor’s guidance, ask the doctor if they have any questions, and put forward any comments. Good results can only be achieved through mutual cooperation.

The heart of the healer is like that of a parent. Doctors treat their patients as they treat their children. They should penitently educate, cultivate the children and strive for the healthy growth of the children.

Patients treat their doctors like their parents, with a sense of security. They must listen to your parents’ teachings, and you must know the hard work of your parents. They should cooperate with parents, to be filial and grateful.

The doctors are benevolent, and go all out to save the patient from a sea of suffering. It is a very noble profession.

The doctor concentrates on the diagnosis and treatment of the patients, a mentally and physically draining task, requiring a lot of work, very stressful and exhausting.

Society needs many medical workers. We must vigorously develop medical education. Many people do not want to study medicine and think that the work in medical care is hard, because you have to face patients in pain, see them unhappy and unhygienic day and night. Young people must be caring, ethical, and responsible. Whatever you learn to do can bring happiness to mankind. People have their own ambitions, and choosing a profession is voluntary.

Many caring young people have the determination and courage to be white lab coat soldiers in the future in order to prevent suffering. They are not camouflaged fighters who have guns, cannons, and missiles; these are used against the enemy. When the trigger is pressed after a command, the bullet comes out of the barrel of the gun, the target being the heart of the enemy soldier. He was probably a young man who was deceived and forced to become an enemy fighter. He is eliminated by our camouflage fighters. The white lab coat soldiers have advanced medical knowledge and technology, which saves lives. Regardless of the enemy, as long as it is his patient, he will save him, dedicating heart and soul to save the patient, and striving to make his patients become physically and psychologically healthy people.

A soldier in white lab coat does not just do what he wants. It usually takes eight years or more of study and internship. At the same time he must cultivate his body and mind to work hard to become a good doctor with high medical ethics and skills.

Studying and internship is a high degree of labor, which is to prepare for the treatment of illnesses and save people. Therefore, during the study of medicine, they should be paid by society monthly, which is reasonable.

To train a large number of medical personnel requires many medical educators, who are doctors, experts, and researchers, and they have to practice speaking skills, writing skills, and teaching skills. Therefore, we must also train many educational experts who specialize in teaching teachers to speak and write, and to teach teachers to teach knowledge and technology, in order to improve teaching efficiency.

Diagrams, images, models, specimens, and objects are very helpful for teaching, they should be put to good use.

It is necessary to improve people's knowledge of medicine and health care, and it is also the wish of many people. Public medical and health departments should publish good popular books. Books about medical knowledge are written in great detail, if there are no real and clear images to illustrate, it is not enough. A good text narrative is matched with a good true and clear image to illustrate, and only then can you have a deep understanding.

On television or in appropriate public places, more medical and health seminars should be held. We can use the exhibition halls of various places to open more medical and health care exhibitions. The large-scale medical museum has a large collection of objects, models and pictures from ancient and modern China and abroad. It has everything and is rich in content. People will visit on weekends and holidays, and there is a guide to explain things in detail. In a relaxed and pleasant outing, a lot of knowledge can be learned, which is very beneficial.

The health of the people has improved, the living environment has improved, but the workload of social health and medical care is still very large. With the development of science and technology and the improvement of mechanization and automation, the number of workers in various industries in the agricultural industry may be relatively greatly reduced. At the same time, the medical staff and the health care staff should and can be greatly increased. Many of them can be transferred from industrial workers. Their medical and healthcare knowledge will be already high, and they can be fit for their duty after learning.

In the future, everyone will receive good free healthcare regardless of major or minor illnesses. In the future, if the world is peaceful and medical technology develops rapidly, diseases that could not be cured will be easily cured. People's life span will be greatly extended. Natural and man-made disasters are becoming less and less frequent, and few people die accidentally.

Most people will be euthanized in the future, because some people are too old or for some other reason, and the doctor is unable to heal his serious illness. To prolong their life just make them suffer. If the doctor recommends that someone be euthanized, the patient must consent before proceeding. Most of the very old people feel that they have enjoyed life enough. What they want to do is done. They are old, weak, sick, and don't want to live anymore. Therefore, applying for euthanasia requires careful and detailed research by the relevant departments, and approval is only given for sufficient reasons. Otherwise, you have to wait patiently, while you are waiting for death, or you can do some good deeds within your ability to die more peacefully.

⑩ The environment is the basis of survival

People live in various environments, such as atmospheric environment, water and soil environment, living environment, social environment, economic environment, and so on. When the environment is good, people may be healthy and happy. When the environment is not good, people may be unhealthy, unhappy, in pain. If the environment is too bad, you will not be able to survive, and you will die from illness, heat, cold, poisoning, or tragic deaths. The environment changes. It may get better or it may get worse. To change for the better, it is usually done gradually. For example, the air or water quality gradually improves. The construction of residential buildings, the construction of railway bridges takes several years to complete.

The deterioration of the environment may be gradual. It may also encounter natural disasters and man-made disasters, Destroyed in one day. It is easy to destroy and difficult to build. This is a fact.

Picture this. After more than 20 years of education and upbringing by parents and society, a person has become a strong man with both ability and political integrity. A loud noise. Flesh and blood fly, or the person becomes ashes, or becomes disabled. A group of people, a city, hundreds of thousands of people. Very tragic and terrifying. The ozone layer is thinning and perforated. The greenhouse effect of the atmosphere has very serious consequences. Earthquakes, tsunamis, hurricanes, wars, and nuclear explosions are all catastrophes. If a person only cares about what directly affects him, it is mentality very bad. Don't mistakenly think that you can be isolated from the environment by hiding in a sturdy home. Some people advocate an inch of mountain and river is worth an inch of blood, to the enemy country, to their country, to the people bleeding, to all mankind, and to the whole earth. What good does it do? It's not worth it. It's better to regard peace as the most valuable treasure.

Preventing and eliminating natural and man-made calamities is a major task for people. Everyone must take this responsibility. If you have money, you can contribute. If you have no energy to participate, you can help come up with a solution. Care more, think more and provide advice. If everyone, rich or poor, is willing to give up a quarter of his property or interests to achieve peace, it will be worthwhile. It is better than to survive a catastrophe, then to struggle in a harsh environment. It is also better than losing all possessions and even life in a catastrophe.

“War” is the use of force by both sides to kill each other. Violent destruction is used to seize or regain rights. As a result, the defeated party suffers a terrible loss. Or both sides suffer a large number of casualties. A large number of buildings are destroyed. The living environment is greatly deteriorated. War must have aftereffect. More problems may arise because of war.

In ancient wars, generals fight generals and soldiers fight soldiers. Later, high-ranking generals hid in a safe place, commanding their subordinates to fight, fighting in the battlefield, and fighting on the front line. Now some wars are fought among civilians. The civilians and soldiers are all suffering. The lethality of weapons is increasing. In the second World War, two atomic bombs exploded in Japan. The casualties were mostly civilians, not soldiers. The two large cities were turned into rubble in a short time. Environmental nuclear pollution is long-term. Nuclear war will inevitably lead to the extreme destruction of mankind. War should be forbidden. How to ban it? The simplest kind of war is a fight between two people. The bystanders must immediately persuade them to stop it. The two are at war. If it is a war between two regions, the provincial government will stop it, if it is a war between two provinces, it will be stopped by their national government, and if it is a war between two countries, it will be stopped by their superior government, the world government. To stop. I have never heard of a war between two provinces, because the sub-national governments do not have an army. There is no world government now. In the future, a world government will be established and the only world army in the world will be established, every country's army will be disbanded. Once the soldiers change their jobs, countries will not have the huge burden of defense funds, and mankind will have no fratricidal wars in the future. But now there is still war such as the civil war in Syria.

It has been two years and people have not been able to stop it. Governments and people all over the world have the responsibility to care and stop it. First, call the two sides to an immediate cease fire. If it does not stop, both sides should be stopped immediately, and Russia or other countries are responsible for pulling apart and Al-Assad must be protected, the United States or other countries must be responsible for pulling apart the two sides and the leader of the opposition must be protected, and then the United Nations peacekeeping force must monitor the ceasefire and recover all weapons and maintain law and order. At the same time, the United Nations will send people to form a new government. The officials, especially the high-ranking officials and the president, must be free from party affiliation and religion, be without racial discrimination. At the same time, the United Nations will send personnel to assist the people of Syria to clean up the ruins and rebuild. Governments and people around the world can also help until the political situation in Syria is stabilized. Once stabilized, the personnel of the United Nations gradually withdraw.

The dispute between Israel and Palestine. I very much hope that the United Nations can find a suitable place in the world to build a nation for the Jews and at the same time find a proper place for the Palestinians to build a state. I hope that all Jews and Palestinians will cooperate with the United Nations and leave this controversial place. They should go to two new good places to establish their countries. Individuals can also emigrate to the country they like, and all countries in the world should welcome them. The United Nations will protect all the historical sites, religious sites, and holy sites of the original place, the holy city and the holy scenery, and build various magnificent religious museums, history museums, cultural museums, art museums, war museums, medical museums, social science museum, natural science museum, the most advanced farm factory, the best elementary school, middle school, university, and research institute. The staff and their families from all over the world are the residents there, and the children will receive a good global citizenship education and fraternity education from a young age. This place will become a world museum, knowledge base, and a harmony paradise. People from the Palestinian nation and the Jewish nation are particularly welcome here. At the same time, people from all over the world are welcome to visit to increase their knowledge, which is very beneficial.

The current island disputes must stop. For the benefit of the government and the people of our country, for the benefit of the government and people of the other side, for the benefit of the whole world, and for the benefit of the islands under dispute to not be destroyed. We must fight for generations and turn enemies into friends. In essence, it is a double win. Everyone can understand this truth. Why should we argue? It is probably due to a misunderstanding. The government and the people love peace. Because the government is afraid that the people will say that it is weak and incompetent and traitorous, it dares not give in. The people clamor loudly because they are afraid that the government would call them traitors and unpatriotic individuals. The people should say to the government, you should concede, you are not weak and incompetent, nor a traitor, the government should say to the people, you want to concede, you are not a traitor, and you are not unpatriotic. In this way, between the people and the government, the misunderstanding is resolved, all parties can champion concessions and turn the enemy into a friend. Both parties win.

Concession does not exclude reasoning. Relatively small rights and interests can be conceded, and relatively large rights and interests must be reasonable. If both parties are sincere and kind, the truth becomes clearer and more convincing, and everyone is happy. If both parties hold on to their arguments, there must be an arbiter. If one party wants to be reasonable, the other side is not reasonable, or the other side is unreasonable, or is arrogant, or ignores it, it must be reasonable to the United Nations. The purpose of the United Nations is to solve international problems, maintain peace, and prevent wars. The laws of the United Nations should advance with the time and conform to the norms of human conducts.

The four northern islands in East Asia should be given to Japan, because Russia is very big and Japan is very small. These four islands are far from Moscow and very close to Tokyo. It is more convenient for it to be governed by Japan. The award to Japan is in line with all aspects of consideration and code of conduct.

The Diaoyu Islands should be given to China, because the Diaoyu Islands are very close to the homes of Chinese people, especially many fisherman communities, and far away from the homes of Japanese people, and since ancient times, nearby Chinese fish houses have fished here and entered and exited nearby. Considered from all aspects, this is in line with the human code of conduct.

The Huangyan Island should be given to the Philippines. Because Huangyan Island is very close to the Philippines. It is far away from China. For generations, there are many Chinese living in the Philippines. They should get along with each other in a friendly way. Peace is the most important thing. Let concessions replace fight. It's good for both sides, for Huangyan Island and for the whole world.

Spratly Islands should be given to Vietnam. Although China and Vietnam had many complicated relations in the past, it is important to learn from history, but the present and the future are more important. The two peoples must get along with each other. They should not confront each other by force. They should not create tragedies. Peace and friendship are good.

The Nansha Islands are very far away from China. They are very close to Vietnam. It would be good if they were awarded to Vietnam. Considered from all angles, the awarding to Vietnam is in compliance with human operating standards.

Killing weapons must be banned. Because of those who died from murderous weapons, the vast majority are innocent people. How to ban it? We must prohibit the production, trading, possession and use. It is still far from the ideal. It can only be realized after the establishment of the world government. But we must do it now. We must investigate the source, investigate each process. We must actively find ways to do it. Actively work hard. Try to get as close as possible to the ideal of completely banning murder weapons.

Guns should be prohibited. Many countries have not yet banned guns. Now in the United States, the number of people who die from guns every year is several times more than the 911 deaths that shocked the world. For fifty years, the people who die every year by guns are mostly innocent people, including children. A hundred years ago, many parts of the United States were not yet developed. There are many wild beasts. Traffic is inconvenient. Communication is backward. Public security is not good. Life and property could not be protected. Guns could be used for self-defense. At that time, legislation allowed the people to legally hold guns for self-defense. It was reasonable. In fact, having a gun is dangerous. If you accidentally fire it, if you are impulsive, if there is a difference of opinions, there are many other things that lead to murder under the gun, causing catastrophe. I also missed a good possibility. If a good ban on guns is implemented, a large number of people will avoid being shot every year. At the same time, a corresponding large number of people will not commit crimes.

The vast majority of people understands this truth. Everyone should actively support the ban on guns and actively think about ways to implement the ban. Especially the big bosses who are engaged in the production and sales of guns and bullets. You have capital and wisdom. You will be happier in other industries. It is best for you to take the lead in banning guns.

About nuclear ban, the destructive power of nuclear weapons is extremely strong. The aftereffect to the environment and the body are long and vicious. Every normal person is extremely afraid of it. Everyone should be anti nuclear weapons. Two early atomic bombs exploded in Japan. Two large cities suddenly became ruins. Hundreds of thousands of people were killed and injured. The size of the current nuclear bomb can be hundreds of times smaller than the initial size. It is convenient to carry. It is fast to transport. It is launched quickly. Now the destructive power of nuclear bombs can be hundreds of times more violent than the original. Now there are thousands of nuclear bombs in the world. If they explode, it is enough to cause human beings to destroy themselves. Nuclear bombs are distributed in different places around the world. Everyone is only a few minutes away from a nuclear bomb. In fact, it seems that everyone has a nuclear bomb suspended by his side or over his head. That is, launch a nuclear bomb at your city or region anywhere on earth, you will be killed. The buttons of these many nuclear bombs are in the hands of different countries and different people. And the backgrounds of these people are complicated. Due to personal reasons, internal reasons, external reasons, wrong reasons, complicated reasons, unexpected reasons, unexplained cause. What will happen if a nuclear bomb exploded over our head?

Everyone is now in a dangerous nuclear environment. It is arranged by fate. To be indifferent is irresponsible. It is not responsible for oneself. It is not responsible for mankind. We must find a way or ask for a solution. It is good if people can donate money and effort to solve the problem.

If the International Atomic Energy Agency has the right and ability to order all countries to stop research and development, to stop manufacturing nuclear bombs, and order and assist countries with nuclear weapons to dismantle all nuclear bombs, it would be great. It's a pity that we haven't been able to do it yet. Let's hope that all countries in the world will empower it. It would be great if we can do it. Or use Iran and North Korea to unite all countries in the world. It would be good to urge all nuclear countries to dismantle all nuclear bombs. The United States, Russia and China would unite all countries in the world to urge all non-nuclear countries to stop developing nuclear bombs.

We must dismantle all nuclear weapons of all countries. It is a major event that affects everyone's life or death. We must actively do it. Do it thoroughly. People of all countries must unite to do it. Governments of all countries must unite to do it. Do not do it separately. People and governments must cooperate in doing it. Nuclear power generation needs to be globalized. Including mining, refining, storage, distribution, and transportation of nuclear materials, transportation and storage of nuclear waste, nuclear research. Design, construction, and operation of atomic power stations. All countries are authorized by the International Atomic Energy Agency for unified management. The staff of the agency are volunteers from all over the world. After passing the preliminary examination, conducting professional studies and passing the examination, some of them are randomly selected to take up the job.

The main staff of nuclear power plants in various countries are from the International Atomic Energy Agency. Global unified management can be the most efficient, most environmentally friendly and safest management. Biochemical weapon and new bacteria and viruses are very toxic to humans, animals and crops. Infection is fast. Death is fast. There is no medicine to cure them. It is easily transmitted by air, water, soil, through diet and respiratory contact. Very toxic chemicals absorbed by inhalation, ingestion or contact can poison people, livestock, and crops. Biological and chemical weapons can quickly cause large-scale death zones. Biological and chemical weapons are more terrifying than nuclear weapons. Some countries might be studying manufacturing and storage. The United Nations has banned the production and use of biological and chemical weapons. But it is difficult to prohibit them. Because biological and chemical weapons can be researched and produced in laboratories. It is difficult to detect. If there are no conditions for the existence of war, bad guys, and biological and chemical weapons, it will be ideal. People should think of a way to do that.

Anti-terrorism. The problem of terrorism is getting more and more serious. If terrorists have small nuclear weapons or biological or chemical weapons, they could detonate it in a crowd. We must make it impossible for terrorists to have weapons, make terrorist incidents impossible, make terrorists have nowhere to hide in the world, make terrorists into good people, make it impossible for anyone to become a terrorist. Anti-terrorism requires a lot of full-time staff. Terrorist activities are related to the life and death of everyone. Everyone is responsible. Therefore, everyone must learn anti-terrorism knowledge. Everyone must devote themselves to anti-terrorism when necessary.

Natural disasters, Earthquakes, hurricanes, tsunamis, floods, droughts, and other disasters have caused catastrophes for human beings. They happen every year, causing great losses. One country is in trouble, all parties must come to the rescue. It is very appropriate to help other countries in disaster relief, it is also necessary to have early and accurate forecasts and adequate preventive measures. To reduce the intensity of natural disasters and even reduce the number of natural disasters, we must strive for long-term peace and stability. This is a very large project, There must be a global comprehensive consideration, an overall plan. This kind of large-scale project requires a lot of full-time staff and huge investment. Natural disasters are caused by the huge energy of nature not being properly channeled. If you can't control it well, it will become a disaster. We need to globalize. We need to build hydro power projects in the most appropriate places on earth, choose the most appropriate places to build wind farms. Build solar power generators in the most appropriate places. Natural disasters can be reduced, clean energy production can be increased, and multiple benefits can be achieved.

When an extraterrestrial body hit the earth, it can cause a great catastrophe, it is very scary. The extinction of the dinosaurs is proof. But calm down, People now have a way to save themselves. But they haven't done it yet. We should start as soon as possible. We need to choose a few of the best places in the world, For example, you can choose Tibet. Build a space station. In the future, it will be on the moon, it can also be on Mars.

Prepare a nuclear power thruster with huge power. An asteroid has been discovered far away. Launch a giant thruster to approach it at an appropriate time. Change its course so that it can never hit earth. This way we can avoid this huge disaster.

The above-mentioned natural and man-made disasters are very serious. People have tried to protect from them, but the effect is not satisfactory. Some problems have not been solved for a long time. Many problems will occur in the future. Some problems become more and more serious. Many people think of the world government. With the world government, many man-made disasters would not happen. There are many things that could not be solved before. Some people think that a world government is a dream. It is difficult to achieve. But difficult does not mean impossible. There are many people in the world who can do a lot of work at the same time. While letting people work hard for disaster relief, there are also many people who work hard to design and establish a world government.

The world government is the only highest government in the world. It is the superior government of all countries in the world. Its relationship with countries in the world is similar to the relationship between China's central government and provinces. It has the only world army in the world. No country has an army. There are police officers to maintain law and order throughout the country. The world government has enough capacity to perform its duties. If necessary, it can use the world army to quell the struggles between countries. As well as the turmoil within any country. The World Army can also rescue natural disasters and support huge world projects. The world government has the right and responsibility to send personnel to various countries around the world to investigate and study various affairs at any time. And send personnel to be stationed in various countries. The world government has unprecedented tremendous capabilities and high efficiency, to make the earth's environment better, to ensure the happiness of mankind, and to make life better.

How to start to build it? It is composed of individual volunteers from all over the world. They are from all walks of life. Their identity can be civilians, rich people, believers of various religions, members of various political parties, and leaders of various religious parties in all walks of life. And volunteer groups. Volunteer countries. If you have money, give it, if you can work hard, donate your hard work, if you have energy, donate your energy, and work together to build. It may be better for the United Nations to set up a world government preparatory organization to assist. Governments of various countries should actively explain to the people the necessity and benefits of establishing a world government. People should actively express to the government their willingness to become a voluntary country. After becoming a volunteer country, we will begin to make preparations. Create conditions for joining the world government. Start global citizenship education throughout the country. At the same time, set up special colleges. It is to train preparatory talents for the world government. At the same time, the world government discussion forum can be established to design a blueprint for the world government. There are several volunteer countries in the world. The best blueprint of the time can be adopted. The initial world government can be established. The posts at all levels of the government, the number of posts at all levels, the powers and responsibilities are all written in the blueprint. For example: one president of the world. ten vice presidents. Legislative congress. Justice department. Each court of the Procuratorate has one president. How many positions are under it. How many departments are under the Executive branch. Each department has one minister. How many positions are there under the minister of each department? Etc. The incumbents of each position are not selected by election. Instead, many qualified persons are drawn randomly. Senior positions have a limited term. For example, the president's term is four or ten years. No re-election. No one can serve as president for two terms. It is stipulated that the term of office of the president and ministers is not equal. The Procuratorate inspects the operation of governments at all levels and officials at all levels. If the president violates the law, it must report to the judges that they have the power to effectively remove the president in accordance with the law. All operations of the world government strictly abide by the human code of conduct. The staff of the world government are individuals from various ethnic groups in the world. The basic requirement is that they have not joined a religious political party or they have withdrawn from a religious political party. They are volunteers without racial discrimination. Candidates should sign up for the preliminary exam. After passing the exam, they would have relevant specialized learning and practical training. If they pass the final exam, you can participate in the drawing of positions in the world government.

The world government welcomes countries that have not joined to join voluntarily, and is friendly to all countries that have not joined. In the process of joining the world government from less to more countries, there are many technical problems to be solved, and it is also very likely to encounter various problems that must be solved. The people and governments of all countries must maintain a healthy interaction. The development of natural science is getting faster and faster. The development of social science must be adapted to the development of natural science. Due to insufficient attention and problems with learning methods, the development of social science lags behind. The development of natural science is very dangerous, and many man-made disasters have occurred as a result. If the development of social science is compatible with or is ahead of the development of natural science, many unfortunate man-made disasters could be avoided. In fact, social science is a science that studies human interaction, a branch of natural science, and it must be studied with natural science thinking methods. The correct social science is in accordance with the laws of mathematics, physics and chemistry.

We must pay great attention to education, especially social science education, including education for global citizenship and human behavior standards. We must practice fraternity, kindness, helping yourself by being selfless, and finding happiness in helping others. Cultivating the body and mind is a major event in life. From childhood to old age, the cultivation of body and mind is very beneficial to me, and it can make society harmonious and make it develop unencumbered.

The establishment of a world government is like a human landing on the moon. It was impossible before, but it became reality later, and it will be even more possible in the future.

⑪ The future of mankind

In the near future, mankind will have no war. The transition period from now to no war is very wasteful. It will consume a lot of earth's resources. The consumption of human and material resources may exceed more than half of everyone's own total income. Why, there are two possibilities:

1. The development of natural science and technology is getting faster and faster, so the destructive power of war is getting bigger and bigger. Many causes such as the struggle for power, religious issues, political party issues, terrorist issues, very complicated reasons, simple reasons, understandable reasons, and unintelligible reasons can lead to nuclear war or biochemical warfare. Human beings are killing each other. The power of war is enough to wipe out mankind several times. Everyone loses life and income, and then there is no more human war.

2. If in the near future, human beings will establish a world government before being wiped out, and it will operate well, a new era of human harmony will begin. At that time, human beings live in harmony, between humans and creatures, and between humans and nature. All operations of the world government are carried out in accordance with the human code of conduct, and everyone's activities are also in line with the human code of conduct. At that time, there is no possibility of war between countries and within each country. The system and laws are perfect. The government has to act in accordance with the law. No one can do bad things. The people love kindness, like good things, and are happy. With the rapid development of science and technology, the good things that have not yet been achieved, and the good things that have not yet been thought of, can be achieved by human beings in the new era. The world government can use reasonable methods to modify national borders, purchase land from various countries at a reasonable price, and sell it to other countries at the same price. The purpose is to make the border simple, complete and easy to manage.

National land tax, or world land tax, is levied by the world government according to the area and economic value of the country. Taxes on earth resources are levied on the petroleum and minerals that various countries produce every year. There are also various incomes that are used to make the world better.

The citizenship of the world is determined by the parents, not the place of birth. Everyone can travel around the world, and can also work and live in various countries. Their nationality remains the same, and everyone can change their nationality in accordance with immigration laws. Toddlers up to the age of 18 must receive statutory free education, and adults can participate in all kinds of education voluntarily. Normal adults have the right and tasks to participate in social work. The types and numbers of jobs are planned by experts from the national governments.

People who work in any job have an environmentally friendly work process, and the results of their work are socially beneficial. People can choose their profession freely. After passing the examination, they can sign a contract and take up the post. Sufficient economic subsidies are provided for the unemployed, free medical care is implemented for all people. The elderly, weak, sick and disabled receive adequate social relief and care. Salaries are determined by the Bureau of Price and Wages based on the type of occupation and workload and other factors. In addition to salary income, people may also receive awards, donations, copyrights, patent rights, social contribution awards, and so on. Income is tax-free. Banks are public and there is interest in depositing money in banks. Both houses and residential land are subject to real estate tax. Both houses and residential land can be sold to the government or private individuals, and the sale is tax-free. Singles are only allowed to have one house, and couples or their minor children are allowed to have two houses. Private individuals can buy residential land to build their own houses, and private houses can be rented out, and the rent is tax-free. People like to rent houses from the government. Houses and belongings can be passed on to one's children or grandchildren tax-free, or can be donated to others or dedicated to society. Many people are very rich, because the land reform in the early years of the new era does not confiscate landlords' land, but instead purchases land at reasonable prices. The industrial and commercial reform is not about confiscating the property of the bosses, but purchasing their assets at a reasonable price. Therefore, the landlords and bosses are very rich. They can retire or choose their careers freely.

Obviously, such a reform is a transition from a market economy to a planned economy. Speaking of land reform, planned economy, people naturally think of communism, the communist party, Marx, Lenin, Stalin, Mao Zedong and the Great Leap Forward, communalization, food stamps, the cultural revolution. Don't be afraid. It is clear from rational analysis. The future public management and planned economy are very different in methods, means, content, and various aspects. The future is philanthropic, kind, humane, and harmonious. The whole process is carried out in accordance with the human code of conduct. Human development is very close to the critical situation at this stage. It is necessary to carry out public management and implement a planned economy.

This is because earth's environment no longer allows waste of resources. The waste of resources is very serious when business and industry are privately operated. It can be proved by facts. The greenhouse effect, the thinning and penetration of the ozone layer, and the pollution of the atmosphere, water and soil, have been approaching dangerous limits faster and faster.

We need real public management and precise planned economy of the industry and commerce. At the same time, personal possessions must be protected. This is the inevitable trend in the future. The establishment of a world government. There is no war. The countries of the world can spare a lot of resources from the destruction caused by war. The establishment of a world government can successfully complete the public management and planned economy of the industrial and commercial industries of various countries. In the production process, a large amount of earth resources can be saved. There is also close to 100% waste recycling that cannot be ignored. Human beings living in the new century can concentrate their mental power to reduce natural disasters, to strengthen and accelerate the research and development of aerospace industry. Science and technology are developing faster and faster. The future of mankind is safer, happier and more exciting than we imagined.

12 The world is mine

The world is big and people are small. Everyday people are born and people die. People change from nothing to being. From being to nothing. No one has ever lived forever.

Some people say: The world was created by God, and the world is God's.

Some people say: The world was created by many gods over a long period of time. They returned to the sky and left the world to people.

Some people say: The world belongs to itself, including its own laws of movement and change.

Some people ask: who owns the world? It's useless to ask this question, it's boring and unsolvable. This question itself has a problem, and the person who asked it has a problem.

Some people say: Everyone has a share in the world, and big people and rich people have more shares. The small individuals and the poor get smaller shares, but nobody can take it along when death comes.

Some people say: People are travelers on earth, aliens come by UFO, and people come by their mother's womb. Birth is like a landing, and after landing one is not familiar with the environment and all aspects of earth. Fortunately, the predecessors, especially their parents, are nurturing and teaching the newcomers. You can perceive many useful and interesting things with your eyes, ears, nose, and hands. You can enjoy the world, and can do more for the world. People can make many edible and usable things, and can nourish newcomers. People come to the world to travel, to experience birth, old age, sickness, death, and then to return to nature.

Some people say: The world is mine. The whole world belongs to me completely, the world is mine from ancient times to the present and forever. Because since the moment I was there, I can be sure that people and things in the world are actually long-term preparations for my birth. Although accidental or intentional, it is extremely coincidental. My nature has gone through a long time and has become an environment suitable for my life. It is also certain that if there were no such and such typhoon, flood or earthquake in a certain year, a certain month, and a certain day, there would not be a me. My world is prepared for me from all aspects by people from all over the world. It provide me with food, clothing, shelter and education. I am grateful toward the ancient and modern scientists, engineers, politicians, doctors, teachers, and toward all kind and hardworking people, especially toward my parents.

It may be certain that if there were no people and things before, there would not be a me. Without Jesus, Muhammad, and Sakyamuni, there would not be a me. Without Max, Mao Zedong, Chiang Kai-shek, Sun Yat-sen, and Hitler, there would not be a me. Without Wu Xun, Edison, Huang Chao, Hu Shi, Cao Cao, An Yusheng, and Qin Shihuang, there would not be a me. Without that fairy tale, without the fictional character in the story, there would not be a me. Without the mosquito who bit my dad's hand before, and without the small piece of debris touching my mother's foot, there would not be a me. Without that mountain, without that river, there would not be a me.

Many people and things are very important to me. It can be said that my parents are mine, they are mine, and I am also theirs.

Since I was born, my every movement, silence, crying and smiling have affected my mother and the people around me. The people and things that I have influenced affect other people and things. I am always alive, influencing, spreading and expanding over time. Because of me, many things in the world and the positions of many particles have changed. After I die, if I am buried, I change in the coffin, and through the penetration of radiation, I constantly interact with the outside world. If cremated, I will turn into billions of particles and kiss the sky, mountains, rivers, earth, many people and everything, participating in the operation of human beings and nature.

A few years after my death, there are many students in a school, and every one of them exists because I existed. If the world has never had me, there would definitely not have been any of these many students. Although there is this school. There are also many students studying there. But it is certain from the micro analysis, these many students are indeed not those many students. Every moment of the slice of the world after I die, my influence is operating. In essence, the world will always be mine.

Who am I: I am you, I am him, a rich man, a poor man, a great man, a handicapped man, a saint, a newborn, a demon, a good man, a grain of sand, a story, a small person in the story, and a star light years away, a little butterfly.

I have heard of the butterfly effect. A butterfly flying past may cause a big cyclone. Imagine an empty area, very quiet and the sun is shining. No birds, no other activities, a butterfly flies in, and the small air currents aroused by its movements are likely to cause a big cyclone. But in the usual areas, there are trees and buildings, crows, animals, and humans. The possibility of a small air current caused by a butterfly flying in to cause a large cyclone is very small. But the movements of every small butterfly in the world collide with the molecules around it, and many of the molecules that have been touched collide with other molecules, constantly affecting and proliferating. It is reasonable to confirm that any butterfly's activity will affect, for more than ten years, the intensity and time of each hurricane on earth. The above-mentioned special cases and general cases are all butterfly effects. Further reasoning from the butterfly effect can also show that the world is mine.

Nature is mine, and the beautiful earth, mountains and rivers allow me to swim. I can use my body and mind to appreciate my nature.

People all over the world are mine, including the ancients, the present and future people. Here I want to specifically mention that women all over the world belong to me. Because I live with them on earth, because I can hope them well, bless them, care about them, and envy them. But I can't sexually harass them, it's against the law. My wife is mine, and I can do many things with her. But I can't force her or hurt her, it's illegal. A rich man has a lot of assets, and he can use his assets to do things that are beneficial to society, to benefit oneself and others, and to benefit oneself without harming others. But he cannot use his assets to do bad things. This is illegal. Broadly speaking, the wealth of this rich man is also owned by me. It's just that the way of ownership or relationship is different.

In fact, I have supervised the use of these assets through the social legal system, and the use of these assets affects me through society.

The so-called possession is broad. There are all kinds of forms, all kinds of content, all kinds of properties, all kinds of relationships, and they are all integrated. For example, A woman is a child's mother, a husband's wife, a father's daughter, and a student's teacher. The child is hers, the husband is hers, the father is hers, and the students are hers. The children own her, the husband owns her, the father owns her, and the students own her.

The changing laws of nature are mine, and I can live with it. The process of human life and daily life are carried out in accordance with the laws of nature.

The improvement and development of the material and spiritual life of human society are all achieved by people's understanding and application of the laws of nature's changing operations. I cannot break the law. I can't kiss my fire, or I might be burned to death by my fire. If I disregard the law of nature, I can be drowned by my water, electrocuted by my electricity, and I can die from jumping out of the top of my building.

The law is mine. It guarantees my peace of life and protects my legal rights. But I cannot violate the law, otherwise I will be punished by the law.

Everything is mine. My home, my township, my county, my province, my country, my neighbor, my neighboring country, my earth, my world. I love my hometown, province and country, my earth, my world, and love all mankind. I will use my heart and energy to make my earth good, and my whole mankind good.

My time is divided into three periods. Before life, life, and after life. Both the early and late stages of life are very long.

Life period is the most important. It is a pity that some people waste time without realizing it, some are killing their lives, some are depressed when encountering adversity, and some are miserable and commit suicide. There are winds, rains and sunny days in life, the heart must remain calm, the temper must be regulated, and life must be cherished. Life is the most important thing.

Life is billions of things in the world, and it has changed to the present through non-stop movement billions of years ago, and it takes a utterly coincidence to have me. I have been very lucky to be able to live in the world for one day, even more fortunate than winning 100 lottery tickets in a row.

Everyone comes to the world with a lucky card. It is intangible, so people don't notice. In fact, this lucky card is the world master card. It cannot be faked. You can't buy it with all the wealth of the richest man in the world. With this lucky card, you have the world, forever and always.

Human lifespan is about a hundred years. Compared with the sky and the earth and the mountains, it is very short. Compared with the worms who are living and dying, they are very long. But a hundred years is equal to a hundred years, and every moment is worth a thousand gold, no matter what you do, time will not stand still. Everyone's life time is limited, and not wasting time is the most important thing.

Everyone should actively think of ways to improve everyone's quality of life. Eat well, sleep well, have a good body, a good spirit, a good education, a high work efficiency, and a great contribution to society. Create a good environment, so that people's activities are carried out under good conditions.

From birth, people must receive good nursing education from their parents and teachers. Pay attention to the development of children's intelligence.

To increase children's interest in learning. From an early age, we must focus on cultivating children's philanthropy, ethics, and responsibility. Children should cooperate with their parents and teachers, be determined to strive to cultivate themselves into physically and mentally strong talents possessing professional knowledge. We must resolutely maintain fraternity, ethics, and responsibility. We must also develop a happy heart, a broad heart, and always care about the world and the future.

The world is mine. Regarding the world, I have rights and I have responsibilities.

I have many rights, and enjoyment is a very important right for me. Enjoyment is everyone's desire. Eating is what I want. The process of eating a rich dinner is the process of enjoying my appetite. It can be said that the process of realizing a desire is the process of enjoying desire.

For a seed, imagine that its desire is to germinate, grow leaves, grow branches, blossom, and bear fruit. The process of its life is the process of realizing the desire for germination, leaf growth, branch growth, flowering, and fruiting. That is, it enjoys the desire of sprouting, the desire to grow leaves, the desire to grow branches, the desire for flowering, and the desire for fruiting. If these processes can proceed smoothly, if it can feel, it will feel very happy.

I also have a lot of desires, and I also hope that my desires can be well realized.

Some desires are innate. Newborns have the desire to suck milk, have the desire to be loved, children have curiosity, desire to learn, youth have sexual desire, mature people have the desire to get married, have the desire to contribute to the world, and old people have the desire to spend their old age in peace and of living a long life. There are many different desires in life, and lofty ideals are actually lofty desires. For example someone's ideal might be to study methods or drugs to cure certain diseases, extend people's life span, stop and prevent wars, reduce and prevent natural disasters, improve the living environment of mankind, and work hard to achieve world peace. He may feel that that kind of person enjoys life. In order to realize good ideals, some people willingly work hard. This is enjoyment, noble enjoyment.

The world is mine. In my job position, I have to work hard to build a more and more ideal paradise on earth together with my entire mankind.

The division of labor in society requires people from all walks of life. When you do your work with your heart, you will have experience in your work. If you have the experience, you will become interested. It is possible to improve work efficiency and increase your contribution to society. Therefore, you feel that your work is meaningful. Work becomes your pleasure and your enjoyment. You will be on the high horizon of life.

He knows that the world is his, therefore he would love the world even more, love all human beings even more.

People live because of very extreme fortune, and die because of misfortune. Many people live less than one hundred years and unfortunately die due to natural disasters, man-made disasters, or disease. It is said that some people die without a disease, and if there is no disease, the cause may not be found or the cause has not been found. No disease does not mean no cause. There must be a cause for death, and the cause of death is the cause of misfortune for the dead. For example: natural and man-made disasters, infection with bacteria and viruses, accidents, etc. There must be a cause for death. Elimination or prevention of this cause will prevent death for this cause. Some causes have not been eliminated, prevented or avoided. I hope that in the future, if we work hard, people will avoid, prevent, and eliminate the causes of misfortune. Human beings will tend to live a long and happy life.

13 What is democracy

I have often heard of democracy since I was young, heard people talking, heard speeches, heard slogans, heard it on the radio. I often see democracy. On the wall, in books and newspapers, on the signs held high by people standing or walking.

For example, democratic youth, striving for democracy, demanding democracy, democratization, democratic revolution, democratic country, people's democratic dictatorship, true democracy, false democracy, "very democratic" and so on.

Democracy may come into view or earshot at any time. Although I have not yet known what democracy is, I have guessed that it is very important, it is good, and "undemocratic" is bad. Politicians or ordinary people don't like others to say that he is not democratic or he is fake. Like others saying he is democratic. Many people believe that democracy is very good and very important. But what is democracy? Many people do not have a clear understanding of it, so political swindlers and bad guys have a chance to deceive them. They wear the cloak of democracy and hold the sign of democracy, they pack deceptive things with democracy, making every effort to design fuzzy links from complexity. In order to realize their evil, they con good people into harming others and themselves, making them think they are heroes as they are dying. Some excellent young people, Full of enthusiasm, unselfishness, kind heart, deceived into long lasting regret. Looking back at the modern history of the world, how many people died because of fake democracy, and how many misery and tragedy have been caused?

Politicians who are zealous for the people must be familiar with democracy to avoid doing bad things with good intentions.

Democracy is very important, and everyone must earnestly learn about democracy. Both in elementary and middle schools. People must have democracy courses. Graduating from high school requires familiarity with the basic knowledge of democracy, and implies basic capability to distinguish true democracy from false democracy.

Society must do a good job in propagating democratic knowledge so that people can distinguish true democracy from false democracy.

What is democracy? According to the Chinese meaning, "Democracy" can be used as an abbreviation for "The people are the masters."

I have already heard long ago that the people are the masters of the country. The people are the head of the household.

DEMOCRACY in Chinese means the rule of the people. I heard that there have been multiple kinds of democracy in some countries or regions. For example, primitive democracy, city-state democracy, direct democracy, parliamentary democracy, constitutional democracy, socialist democracy, capitalist democracy, American democracy, and so on.

Democracy seems to be diverse, variable, and developing. The concept of democracy was at first to oppose autocracy. The rule of the people is to elect or select one or a group of representatives among the people to rule.

The rule of the people may deteriorate or be faked, because the elected ruler may become a dictator, and democracy will deteriorate. In addition, political crooks, careerists, and bad guys may pretend to be the people and use improper means to make the people choose him as the ruler, and democracy will be faked. To establish a supervision mechanism, the people have the right to remove the ruler. If the power of the ruler is too great, the people will not be able to remove him. The term of the ruler is limited, for example, it cannot exceed five or ten years. What if he does not step down after the deadline, and the people are unable to make him step down. It would be great if the United Nations had a solution, but in fact the United Nations cannot do so.

To achieve the rule of the people, the authoritarian ruler must be overthrown in the early days. For this, the people will pay dearly in terms of hardship, lives, blood and tears. In this process, there must be a leader to lead. This head is probably the most brutal, although there are a few exceptions.

And the bad guys who are not very sinister and vicious are likely to be squeezed out by him in the process, or even secretly eliminated by him. Every so-called change of dynasty in history is at the cost of the people's sufferings, lives, blood and tears. And in the exchange people may get a more authoritarian ruler. I hope this unfortunate thing will never happen again in the world, please think of a way.

Democracy has: democratic principles, democratic requirements, and democratic goals.

Democratic principle: Major policies or events, such as elections, are decided by a majority. The minority must obey the majority. The majority must protect the minority. The majority must respect the minority. These four sentences are all indispensable.

Democracy requirements: good human rights. Appropriate freedom. Reasonable equality. Fair rule of law. If it violates human rights or freedom, it is inappropriate. If equality is unreasonable or the rule of law is unfair then it is undemocratic.

Democracy purpose: Democracy should have a purpose. And the people must be made clear about the purpose of democracy. Whether it is about a thing, a method, a means, a rule of the game, or a system, if it is useful, then what is it used for? "Use" is a conscious activity and must have a purpose. The purpose of democracy must be clearly understood.

I believe that democracy is very good. The purpose of democracy should necessarily be very good. In my imagination, the purpose of democracy is to make everyone better, make the future even better, and better in all aspects. For example, there are good stewards, good government, good professionals to serve me, let me enjoy good intellectual education, moral education and sports, good living environment including world peace and prosperity, especially a good free speech environment, and a good mood. Everyone has a good welfare and has the opportunity to use their wisdom and ability to make good contributions to society and have a good future for development. In particular, it is important to emphasize that not only the people of the country are good, but everyone and everything in the world is good.

With a clear democratic purpose, it can be used to evaluate democracy, and it can be obvious to distinguish between true and false democracy. If it goes against the purpose of democracy, there is no democracy. What is democracy? The rule by the people. "The Rule of the People" is not the name of a person, nor the name of a thing. Democracy is neither a person nor a thing.

Democracy is about matters, about matters between people, about society, about governance, about politics. Democracy has principles, requirements, and goals. Democracy includes means, methods, rules, systems, and many other matters. Many of these matters must meet the interests and requirements of everyone.

There is a problem with democracy. From the previous description of democracy, we can see that there are problems with democracy. Now let's examine and analyze the problems of democracy.

There is a problem with the rule of the people. The rule of the people may deteriorate and become the rule of bad people or the rule of a solitary talent. It is also possible to be faked, to be ruled by bad guys or careerists pretending to be the people. This is a serious problem.

What if it is indeed ruled by the people? Of course the people care about the ruling by the people. The people are more concerned about peace, a prosperous world, happiness, personal prosperity, and a good mood. If the rule of the people causes insecurity, unhappiness, uncomfortable mood, and lack of wealth, what is the use of such a democracy? To whom is it useful? And can it be regarded as a democracy? There are such examples in world history. It is a serious problem.

There are problems with democratic principles. There is a problem with the democratic principle that a majority decides a matter or a policy. First of all, there is a problem with this number. People might be forced to approve, people might be misled to approve, or the counting of votes is not accurate, reporting a large number, etc.

Besides, most people may not know enough about such and such matter or such and such policy, or they may be laymen. If this matter or policy is wrong or bad, it will not be right because the majority agrees. The few who are right must obey the many who are wrong, and the mental pain is uncomfortable. What's more serious is that the majority adopting wrong policies may cause catastrophes and man-made disasters. Such unfortunate things happen in the world. It is also a serious problem.

Democratic principles seem to tolerate mistakes. I heard that democracy means believing that most people can go from wrong to right. In fact, any reasonable person who is democratic or undemocratic will believe this fact.

From ancient times to the present, especially in ancient times, many cases failed due to mistakes, then a lesson is learned from the failure, and then the mistakes is corrected and things moved forward. In this process, the people has paid a lot of pain and misery. If there are no such mistakes in history, many major tragedies can be avoided.

Most people are not experts on a certain problem. In fact, many problems are very complex. Experts from various fields need to work together, use professional knowledge, and use unprecedented high-precision instruments and computers to accurately make the right decision rapidly. The voting decision is not guaranteed to be correct. In today's world, murderous weapons are powerful and fast, and the poison is long-lasting. In today's decision-making, mistakes and slowness are not acceptable.

The principle of democracy was formulated a long time ago. In ancient times, science and technology were underdeveloped, so there were many problems. Experts have not yet made the correct identification. Today's conditions are different, and science and technology have made great progress. The methods, concepts, ways of thinking, procedures, rules, systems, etc. used by people to deal with problems should and must be changed accordingly. It must be changed in the good direction.

I will write down my opinions on democracy. Please criticize them and advise me.

“Democracy” can be used as an abbreviation for “The People are the Master” according to the Chinese meaning. If there is no special additional explanation, then the people includes everyone. So it can be said that “everyone is the master”.

The owner of things is the master. For example, the owner of this house is called the master of this house. Everyone is the master of something. I once heard that the people are the masters of the country. But it is not comprehensive enough. In fact, everyone is the master of the world. You can prove that this is true, because before you were born, the universe has gone through a long, long time for you, to prepare an environment suitable for your survival, waiting for your arrival. When you became conscious, you first perceive YOUR milk, YOUR mom, YOUR dad, YOUR toys, and YOUR dog are all yours. Then your kids play with you, your teacher teaches you knowledge, your school bus driver takes you to the countryside, your world and everything, your snakes and beasts, your enemies, everything is yours. You have enough evidence to prove that everything, including all people, is related to you. You also have good reasons to affirm that all things in the world are owned by you. You have a reasonable and legal way to own the people, matters and things you want.

I have heard people say that children are the masters of the future of the world. It's not just the future. Actually, he has been the master of the world since birth. The little master is not yet sensible, and many people have worked hard for him to manage the world. When the little master grows up, he does not necessarily have to be the master of the house himself, he can trust someone to be the master of his house.

“Democracy is a fact.” Everyone is the master of the world (Democracy for short) is a fact, a fact since ancient times. Because the living environment in ancient times was not good, there were many natural and man-made disasters, and the weak were unfortunately invaded, oppressed and exploited by the bad guys. The rich man was unfortunately robbed by its thieves. The emperor already knew that he was the master of a country, and he might be killed by his own subjects. Therefore, in ancient times, it was not easy for people to understand and accept democracy as a fact. With the development of science and technology, the development of society, and the progress of civilization, this fact has become easier to understand.

So what if democracy is a fact? What if I know that I am the master of the world. Just like ordinary people, I care about my body and hope that I will be in good health. I will not do unhealthy or harmful things to my body. I will work hard for my health. This is reasonable. I care about my world and hope that the world is good. I will not do anything harmful or unfavorable to the world (collectively called bad things). It is reasonable for me to actively work hard for the good of my world. In fact, everyone is the master of the world, so everyone wants to do it for the good of the world, and does not do bad things. This is very logical and very good. You can use “Do Good, Don't Do Bad” as “Everyone's Code of Conduct.” Of course it also applies to groups, governments, and countries. Therefore, it can be recognized as the “Democratic Code of Conduct.”

It is also reasonable to call it the “Human Code of Conduct.”

There is a serious problem, that of good and bad. What is good and what is bad? If you mistake the good for bad and don't do it, and treat the bad as a good thing, then you would be wrong. This may cause irreparable disaster. There is absolutely no tolerance for mistakes in decision-making. In today's society, the development of science and technology has tended to be large, powerful, and fast. So make decisions quickly. Many things are corrected only when mistakes are discovered, and it is too late, the losses are huge, and even cause irreparable disasters. There are many things that are good or bad or right or wrong without a majority of people raising their hands voting. There are many things that people make decisions before they can spend a long time in their deliberations, and they must make correct decisions as soon as possible.

Fortunately, there are already high-level experts in various fields in society, who use advanced knowledge and high-performance computer equipment to make good decisions faster.

With the advancement of civilization and the development of science and technology, it is possible and necessary for people to improve previous concepts, systems, methods, procedures, etc. Or to adopt more appropriate concepts, systems, methods, methods, etc.

“Democracy”. Everyone is the master of the world, so everyone has the right and responsibility to care about everything in the world. You can make suggestions, criticisms, opinions, and express your own opinions about any person, matter, or thing in the world. The main emphasis is on everyone's right to freedom of speech.

The people delegate to the experts the formulation of good policies, and this must have a sound supervisory agency. Entrusted experts, such as government officials and national leaders, must receive effective supervision. Freedom of speech plays an important role in effective supervision. The public must have ample opportunities to speak, to suggest, to give their opinion, to ask questions or to express doubts, to oppose someone or something. However, the reasons for objection must be stated in detail at the same time in order to give the other party ample opportunity to respond. If the other party is indeed correct, the other party should clarify the doubt and explain clearly to convince people with reason. When the people have more understanding, they are more at ease. By operating in accordance with the “Democratic Code of Conduct” to do good and not to do bad, and by operating with the decision by the majority rule of the “Democratic Principles”, the goals should be consistent. But the democratic code of conduct has greater advantages. It is direct, clear, easy to prevent mistakes, and easier to distinguish a true from a false democracy. The democratic code of conduct does not exclude democratic principles, but if the policy passed by a raise of hands or a majority vote is wrong, it should not be implemented, and the policy must be decided in accordance with the democratic code of conduct. Because it distinguishes good from bad quickly and accurately. Therefore, it can avoid great risks and disasters, and it can avoid the loss of many human resources, material resources and time.

If a leader, a system, and a society prevent many people from doing good deeds, make good people suffer, and make many people become accomplices to bad people for survival, for selfishness, because they have been forced to or misled to do so, making the people live in poverty and feel distressed, this leader or this system can be identified based on facts to be undemocratic.

In a society, if nobody can do bad things, and everyone is consciously willing to actively do things that are beneficial to themselves, to people, to society, and to the world, then the prospect of this society is very good. The production of culture, education, science and technology is booming. Based on facts, this leader can be identified, this system, and this society are democratic. People living here may naturally feel that it is easy to understand the fact that everyone is the master of the world. Therefore, we will work more actively to build a better world for all mankind.

The master of the world is a fact. Therefore, we will work more actively to build a better world for all mankind.

The “Majority Decision” of the democratic principle, in the secret ballot process, the majority vote based on the interests of themselves, their own group or their own ethnic group. Different individuals or groups or ethnic groups have different rights and wrongs, which may be contradictory and opposite. Focusing on the group, the result may lead to fights between groups. Focusing on ethnic groups may result in conflicts between ethnic groups. Putting the country first, may trigger a struggle between countries and may trigger wars.

According to the “Democratic Code of Conduct”, it is best to put the interests of all mankind in the world as the most important, which is conducive to the harmony of the world and the happy development of all mankind. Only when the world is good can human beings live in this world for a long time.

“Democracy is a fact” means “It is a fact that everyone is the master of the world”.

From the fact that democracy is a fact, it can be inferred that the “Democratic Code of Conduct” is “Doing Good, Doing No Bad” and the “Democratic Code of Conduct” should be strict for everyone, any group, any government, any country, and all mankind. Respectful. So it can also be called the “Human Code of Conduct.”

The “Code of Conduct for Democracy” is described as follows: Resolutely refrain from doing activities or things that are harmful to oneself, others, all mankind, the world, and the environment, now and in the future. Harmless, beneficial, and very beneficial, you can do it, encourage it, and do it actively. Abbreviated as “doing good, not doing bad”, or “democratic code of conduct”.

“The Purpose of Democracy” is actually the integration of human ideals. The description is as follows: The purpose is to achieve everyone’s good, and all aspects become good, and getting better and better.

For example, there are good housekeepers, good governments, good professionals to serve the people, good publicly funded health care, good living environment, including world peace, economic prosperity, especially a good environment for freedom of speech, good human rights, freedom, equality, and rule of law. Everyone enjoys good moral education and intellectual education, everyone has a good mood, and everyone has a good opportunity to use their wisdom and ability to make good contributions to society and have a good prospect. In particular, it should be emphasized that not only the people of the country are good, but people and things in the world are required to be good. Human ideals are logical. With the development of civilization, the ideals of mankind will become richer and more beautiful. In fact, at the same time, the corresponding purpose of democracy also tends to be rich and beautiful.

What means should mankind choose to achieve the goal of democracy? The method chosen in accordance with the “Democratic Code of Conduct” must be: non-violent, environmentally friendly, charitable and philanthropic, humanized and highly intelligent, logically high-tech and efficient. People will actively participate in its construction with joy. The world will become better and better, and mankind will become more and more happy.

“Democracy” is short for “Everyone is the Master of the World”.

14 Rights and Responsibilities

Human rights: rights are the mastery, control, possession, enjoyment and use of things. Mastering or possessing or using something is usually referred to as having right. Usually power is advantageous or forceful or powerful, so power can usually be called rights of interest, rights of power, and rights of influence. Everyone has many rights. Human rights can be divided into three categories: power, freedom, and interest.

[1] Rights of power: It is about influence, power rights, and political rights. For example, the right to vote, the right to participate in politics, the right to privacy, the right to self-defense, the freedom from insults, freedom from terror, the physical body must not be violated, must be protected, these are all very important power rights.

[2] The right to freedom: the right to activities. Such as speech, publication, assembly, association, correspondence, residence, migration, religious belief, demonstration, etc. You can only carry out this kind of activity if you are not prohibited. It can be said that you have this right and this freedom, so it is called the right of freedom.

[3] Rights of interest: rights concerning interests and welfare. From birth to kindergarten to adolescence, a person is protected and nurtured by his parents. If unfortunately they cannot get the education of their parents, they will be protected and nurtured by charitable people and by society. If a person encounters an accidental injury, he will get emergency help. The elderly, the weak, the sick and the disabled receive relief, which is provided by charities and the government. People in some countries already enjoy good welfare, good public facilities, and good education, medical care and other welfare. Also it is to enjoy good job opportunities and unemployment benefits. They are all rights of interest.

Democracy respects life, and life is most important. The most important of human rights is the right to survival. The right to survival includes the right to freedom, power, and interest. For example, in order to survive, I have to move to a safe place. This is the right to freedom. In order to survive, I have to be protected. This is the right to power. In order to survive, I have to get relief, which is the right of interest. Life is most important. The living environment is the most important. The right to survival is the most important. War will inevitably cause casualties and destruction of the living environment. War must be strictly prevented and stopped immediately. Then use negotiation to resolve the situation.

To safeguard human rights and stop wars, everyone has the right and everyone has the responsibility. The greater the power, the greater the responsibility.

Everyone has many rights. With the development of society, human rights will tend to be rational and perfect. For you, for the needs of humanity, you can also discover, think of or create good human rights.

With the development of society, it is necessary for human rights to make appropriate adjustments or restrictions accordingly and in a timely manner. For example, in the past and now, private individuals in some countries and regions have the right to own guns and ammunition. The reason is self-defense, because in the past, traffic was inconvenient, public security was not good, and police were insufficient. But guns and ammunition can cause great harm to people and to their owners. What's more serious is the possession by bad guys. In today's society, there are sufficient police forces, fast communications, and fast traffic. Private ownership of guns and ammunition that cause heavy casualties should be strictly prohibited as soon as possible. All rights that endanger society or the environment and threaten others should be strictly prohibited. For example, the manufacturing, trading, setting off of fireworks, burning tires, smoking in public places, etc.

There are many issues that need to be explored with regard to rights and freedoms. For example, why should everyone's medical records and health conditions be recorded by the medical department? Why should everyone's photos, fingerprints, DNA, and retina pictures be filed with the public security department? Why do you need to show your ID, have your body searched, and have your baggage checked when entering and exiting gates, entering and exiting borders, and going through customs?

Before “there was a god in the head three feet up”. God supervised everyone and protected everyone. This is the imagination and wish of the previous generations. God has now delegated this task to people. Now and in the future, the public security department has the responsibility and ability to know everyone at all time, where, what encounters, what’s happening, and what activity.

In order to protect people’s lives and safety, God used to do this, and now the public security department should do the same.

Some people say that this violates their privacy and dignity. First of all, we must clearly understand what is privacy and dignity. A person may be discredited and aggravated. A person’s human rights may be violated and deprived. It is impossible for a person’s dignity to be damaged. Public security personnel must abide by and fulfill their promises to the public security department. The public security department must have a complete confidentiality mechanism to protect privacy. The kind people are well behaved and they don’t mind.

There is a very important issue that is likely to cause controversy: in a democratic society, demonstrations and marches should be strictly prohibited on the premise that a sound free speech mechanism has been established. This is because demonstrations and marches easily create false impressions, cause illusions, mislead the masses, and hinder the normal operation of society. In a democratic society, everyone has ample opportunities for free speech and a good free speech environment. Everyone can express their own thoughts, opinions, criticisms, and suggestions completely and clearly. This should also be everyone’s responsibility to themselves and to society. Leaders of various government departments have the opportunity to study in detail various thoughts, opinions, criticisms and suggestions and make good policies.

If someone misleads, induces, or forces people to participate in demonstrations. The misfortune or ignorance of the people is exploited to use demonstrations to mislead other people. The government should save these people, increase their knowledge, and improve their ability to distinguish between right and wrong.

It should be emphasized that freedom of speech is the most basic human right. Anyone should have a full opportunity to speak, including the mentally handicapped, the person who has committed a crime, the good, the wicked, the bad, and the mentally ill.

The public should also note that a detailed analysis of a person’s speech can be used as a reference to evaluate the character and personality of the person. Also pay attention to the strict distinction between recognizing the difference between facts and rumors.

Pay attention! Everyone has the right to freedom of speech and no right to spread rumors. It is against the law to spread rumors! Human rights are very important. It is necessary to prevent human rights from being violated and not to violate human rights. Anyone who violates the human rights of others is immoral and criminal. We must learn about human rights and care about human rights issues. Everyone has the right and responsibility to raise opinions, questions, and suggestions on human rights through free speech organizations.

We can also use reasons to request that certain human rights that are harmful to the public and the environment be prohibited. Let’s work hard to develop and promote more good human rights.

Human rights equality is very important. What is equality in human rights? Human rights equality is very reasonable and concrete. It's very specific. Equality of human rights refers to, for example, equal rights to survival, to speech, to vote, to education, to employment to opportunities, and equal rule of law. The following is a brief description.

Equality in the right to live: The right to live is the most important basic human right. Equality in the right to live means that everyone's personal safety must be protected. If someone is injured or harmed, they must receive emergency treatment, and they must receive timely assistance if they have difficulties in life.

Equality of life is the most important equality of the right to live. For everyone, life should be the most important thing, and life should be priceless. The ancients used to say that the murderer pays with his life, blood debt is paid back, it shows that they value the concept of equality of life. the murderer pays with his life is still applicable in some countries and regions.

If someone murders one or more people, they can still get away with it. That murderer might also get life imprisonment, at ease in prison, soon released because of an amnesty, or a parole for medical treatment. It is extremely unfair to the murdered person and his relatives. More importantly, there is not enough deterrence against the wicked, which will lead to more people being killed in the future.

The trial must also be careful to avoid wronging good people. Law enforcement officers have a great responsibility. Great power and responsibility. Regarding the inequality of life, there are many examples in ancient and modern China and abroad, causing many human tragedies. How can we successfully realize the equality of life in the whole society and even the whole mankind? Please make suggestions.

Equality of speech. Including equality of the right to freedom of speech and "fair treatment of speech."

Equality of the right of speech: refers to everyone, including the strong, the superior, the ordinary, the inferior, the physically and mentally unhealthy, criminals, and the mentally ill. All people, anyone, have the right to clearly express themselves.

The content of the speech: including your own views, thoughts, and your own opinions on everything, such as the United Nations, the Secretary-General of the United Nations, the political systems of various countries, governments, presidents, leaders of various religions, political parties, and organizations. Opinions, criticisms, suggestions. The other party also has the right to answer questions and reply to your inquiries. The other party also has the right to advise you. Freedom of speech is comprehensive and two-way.

The so-called "fair treatment of speech" refers to: whether a speech is good or bad, it should be evaluated from the content of the speech itself, and good speech should not become bad speech because it was made by a mentally handicapped person or a criminal. Bad speech should not be turned into good speech because it is made by a strong or superior person. There have been many man-made disasters in history because they undoubtedly followed the words of the strong or superior. All are tragic lessons. Therefore, we must analyze the content of this statement fairly and carefully study the quality of this statement. Use good speech, choose good means, and achieve good goals.

Equal right to vote: Every citizen has an equal right to vote in the electoral district he belongs to. One person, one vote, each ballot has the same effect, and the effect of the ballot does not change depending on the caster.

Equal rights to education: Everyone has the opportunity to enjoy free basic education. If you are interested and you already have the required degree, you can also freely choose professional education to study and learn. Equal learning opportunities can promote social development and increase human happiness.

Equal employment opportunities: If you have this ability, you can hold this position. If you want to take up this position and there are too many people with this ability, you must draw lots. Those who are not drawn can choose other jobs.

Somebody with knowledge and ability can fit many jobs. If you are serious, you will gain experience. If you have experience, you will have interest. If you have interest, you will do better. Everyone works hard, and everyone feels at ease. Equality of employment opportunities is very important. If incompetent people occupy important jobs, society will suffer losses if they do not do well.

Equality in the rule of law: including legal provisions that are fair, reasonable, and equal for everyone.

Unequal human rights: The above mentioned are important, basic, and are human rights that are equal for all, which are the human rights that a democratic society must have. A democratic society also has many unequal human rights. We must strive to know, to understand, to face, to not avoid, to treat or straighten out various inequalities with a philanthropic mentality.

People are born in various environments. In the city, in the country, in the frigid zone, in the tropics, in a rich home, in a poor home, with different skin colors, different races, different parents, brothers and sisters of the same parents, some are tall, short, strong, weak, fat or thin, smart, slow, everyone is different. This will evolve into the inequality of human rights, which can be said to be an inherent inequality. How to deal with it? We must use a charitable and fraternal heart to prohibit racial discrimination or any discrimination. The strong should not bully the weak, but instead give help, and the strong should help the weak. The weak should not be jealous of the strong. Instead, jealousy should be replaced by envy. The weak should learn from the strong, and the weak should enhance their abilities. Society must care for and help the weak. This is something that a harmonious society must do.

A harmonious society is about development of human happiness. Special regulations: All people, no matter who they are, must enjoy equal basic human rights from birth to middle age to old age.

The Universal Declaration of Human Rights has long stipulated that “Human rights are the inherent rights of all people”, including men, women, the elderly and children in all countries and all regions of the world, people of different nationalities, races, colors, religions, languages, and status. “Innate” means that it is enjoyed from birth to old age. “Rights” refers to “Equal Basic Human Rights”.

We also need to know that some inequalities are reasonable and legal. Reasonable inequality must be protected. Some people have a strong body and are good at manual labor. Some people have strong intelligence and are good at doing mental work. Engineering students graduate to become engineers, graduate from medical department to be a doctor. Some people have high knowledge and ability, high positions, and high annual salary. If no matter the job, the position, the workload, the compensation is equal, it will be unreasonable.

Some people work very well and get bonuses. Some people have inventions and patent income. All reasonable and legally obtained money is protected by law. Money can be used for personal use, can be distributed to children, or distributed to others, or used to sponsor schools, or donated to society. When participating in various competitions, some become champions, some don't even qualify for the finals. Some are swimmers and some are football coaches. Some are tall, rich and handsome, some are tender and beautiful, and there are actresses and queens. A beautiful world, colorful.

“The above is about human rights. Let's talk about human responsibilities.

Responsibility is more important. Everyone has the right and everyone is responsible, so that society can continue to function and develop.

Human responsibility: responsibility. This is interpreted as “to [do]”. Here [do] means to comply, or do, or assume the responsibility, or complete. Ren is short for task. The task is generally the designated matter.

Responsibility means: to [do] specified tasks. Who do you want to be doing it? Want you to do it. You here represent you, me, him, everyone or a group. Who wants you to do it? He wants you to do it. Here he represents you, me, someone, society, the government or the earth.

Why are you doing it? Because you have the minimum right to survive, you don't want to starve to death, freeze to death, or be beaten to death. What I am talking about are those who were restrained in ancient times. For example, the rights and responsibilities of those who became slaves in a slave society were given by the slave owner. Slave owners can give slaves few rights and they can give them very heavy labor.

In today's society, everyone enjoys abundant social welfare. Where does social welfare come from? There can be four sources:

1: Produced by labor, food and everything are obtained through people's labor. In a democratic society, everyone has the opportunity to use their wisdom and abilities to work. Everyone wants to actively make a big contribution to society. Work is a human responsibility and a human right. The government distributes wealth according to work and gives workers reasonable wages. The rest can be used for social welfare and public construction.

2: Resulted from international interaction, such as foreign trade, mutual benefit and win-win, etc. Part of it is used for welfare.

Countries in the world are big and small, strong and weak. A big country and a strong country must not invade or bully a weak country or a small country. Nations shouldn't be jealous or fight for hegemony. Jealousy and hegemony are both stupid and harmful to human happiness and world peace. War is a big crime. To seek happiness for mankind and stop wars is everyone's responsibility, the greater the power the bigger the responsibility. Those who have done a great job in stopping wars will live forever.

3: Part of human welfare is due to the generosity of nature. For example, earth's land, earth's mineral resources, air and water, etc. Every individual, government and country have the responsibility to develop, use and protect the lands on earth. We must carefully cherish and not waste earth's mineral resources. All are responsible for saving water, saving energy and reducing carbon emissions. All have the responsibility to protect clean water and fresh air.

War is a huge loss of resources. It is a huge damage to water, air and living environment. War is sinful. The war caused catastrophes and caused heavy casualties, which must be stopped immediately. Everyone is born to parents and should be friendly and caring for each other. Enemies between people are made by people themselves. No one, no government, no country should make enemies. All should educate and train people to be philanthropic, charitable, friendly, mutually supporting, cooperating, they should promote common development, and becoming happy people.

4: Part of social welfare is the contribution of predecessors to future generations, such as some railway bridges, water conservancy, various old buildings and monuments, cultural, artistic, technological knowledge, customs and so on. People today have the responsibility of protection, inheritance and development of these assets. At the same time, we must emphasize that correcting the mistakes of our predecessors, including our ancestors. It is also an important responsibility of every living person.

Everyone has responsibilities of all kinds. Some responsibilities that do not care about remuneration can be called charity.

Faced with different things, or in different roles, or in different mutual relationships, there are different concrete responsibilities. Everyone must strive to do their best. Small negligence can cause big disasters. Be careful in everything and don't be careless. Everyone must be responsible, everyone should keep promises, and earnestly fulfill own promises.

Different professions have different responsibilities. Doctors have great responsibilities, and national government leaders have even greater responsibilities. High position and power bring heavy responsibility. Especially the leaders of big countries and powerful countries, they have enough power to turn earth into ruins! Don't fight for hegemony. The struggle for hegemony is a disaster for all mankind, especially for the people of our country. Leaders of major powers must not use their own power for hegemony.

It is necessary to unite the power of all big countries and small countries to immediately stop all wars. Then, the disputes between countries should be discussed by the governments and peoples of all countries in the world, and they should be resolved by reasonable methods. Followed by the dismantling of all killing weapons in the world, especially nuclear bombs, and biological and chemical weapons. This is the most important responsibility that hangs on everyone in the world today. In particular, it is the first important responsibility of the leaders of the world's major powers.

Nativity is also the responsibility of everyone. Birth is necessary for the sustainable development of mankind. If everyone does not bear the great responsibility of giving birth, within two hundred years, mankind will naturally perish. But from ancient times to the present, it is natural and free for parents to give birth to children. Some couples cannot have children, some couples do not want to have children, and some couples naturally have more than ten children. With social development, the situation has changed a lot. Those who would not be able to conceive in the past can now also give birth. A couple may have more than 20 children, and all of them will grow up normally. In the future, fertilized eggs can develop into normal babies outside the mother's body. Lack of freedom to give birth to an arbitrary number of children will become inevitable as it should be, and it is reasonable. The chance of losing the only child in the future is very small, and all sperm, eggs, and fertilized eggs can be stored for a long time. People will have no fertility crisis. People will rarely feel jealous and want to bully. In the future, people will not have the freedom to give birth, but will be equal. In the future, each person can only give birth to one or two children. Special individuals may be required by society to give birth to more children or be rewarded for not giving birth. They will all be regulated by law and will be reasonable. This is feasible and achievable. The great human responsibility to give birth in the future can be equal for everyone.

“If there is a relationship, there are rights and responsibilities”: If a person has a relationship with any person or thing, he has related responsibilities and rights.

A person has rights and responsibilities to his parents and grandparents. There are corresponding rights and responsibilities between husband and wife, father and son, brothers, friends, and people. To get along with others, one should be kind. A good attitude is very important, and politeness is also very important. This can help others, can benefit others. Don't hurt others to benefit self.

There can be consultation and consensus. People can have different requirements and corresponding promises. We must be sincere and fulfill our promises.

A person has rights and responsibilities about himself. He has the right to enjoy their due rights, have the right to rest, and have fun. It is his responsibility to protect himself, to maintain his physical and mental health, and to manage himself well. Some responsibilities are also rights.

A person has rights and responsibilities about his world. Right and responsibility about his earth. Right and responsibility about his country. He has rights and responsibilities about his province, about his county, about his residential area, and about his home. Because he lives in the world, living in the environment of the earth, living in his country, living in his province, county, and residential area.

The world is near him, and the farthest point can be no more than two days away. He has the right to enjoy a harmonious world, he has the responsibility to care about what is happening in the world, and he has the responsibility to contribute to world peace. If the world is good, he is good, and if the earth's environment is bad, he is not good, and he cannot even survive. Only when the country is good, the province is good, the county is good, the residential area is good, and the family is good, will he have a good stability. He has the responsibility to contribute more to the good. But he cannot harm the interests of other provinces in order to increase the interests of his province, because harming the interests of other provinces is actually harming the interests of the country and is forbidden.

“Position, Responsibilities, Powers, and Interrelationships”: A position is a job position. It is stipulated that the incumbent shall be responsible for a certain kind of work, and a certain kind of work here is the responsibility of this position. The incumbent must have this power to do this kind of work, and this power is called the power of the position. Usually the incumbents are appointed directly or indirectly by the people. For example by election or appointment. It is also possible to draw randomly from a group of people who are recognized by the people as qualified. The usual incumbents must have a limited term, accept supervision and accountability, and can be removed at any time.

Responsibilities and power must correspond to each other and be balanced. It is not good to have a small position with big authority or a big position with small authority. A job without power will not work. Power without duty is bad, or corrupt and dangerous, and must be strictly prohibited. Normally, it is “High-ranking high power and heavy responsibility”

Nowadays, the leaders of the three major countries in the world hold great power. The power of each of these great powers is sufficient to destroy humanity several times. But the leaders of these three countries must work together to save the world! Obviously, if the leader of one of the countries only casts a negative vote, the Syrian civil war can last for three years, and it is still bleeding, with casualties. Look! it is too cruel! It is very likely that there will be greater or even extreme cruelty!

Everyone must actively, diligently, use reason to stop war! This is the great responsibility of everyone in the world! Especially the most important responsibility of each of the leaders of these three major countries!!

The evaluation of the merits and demerits of an ancient and modern character does not depend on how many square kilometers he won for the country during his tenure. Because the land always belongs to the whole earth. The war caused the destruction of the earth's environment, caused a large number of deaths and injuries to natives and foreigners, and caused many tragedies. It is essentially anti-human.

Disputes between countries must be settled in the International Court of Justice in accordance with reasonable international laws suitable for the current international situation and through negotiations. Resolutely do not use war to solve it.

The evaluation of the merits and demerits of an ancient and modern character depends on how many good or bad things he has done for the earth's environment during his tenure. How many natural and man-made disasters have been eliminated or caused.

The leaders of the three major powers are smart and knowledgeable. They can know the mistakes and correct the mistakes. I very much hope that they will work together to stop all wars immediately and create a harmonious and beautiful world, so that all mankind can live happily and develop upward continuously.

15 About Freedom

If you want to do it, do it. If you don't want to do it, don't do it. That's freedom. Doing here includes doing any thing or speech or any kind of activity.

Being able to do what you want is freedom. You can do it. You can not do it. This is freedom.

Being able to do whatever you want is freedom.

Easy to say, But not easy in fact. If you want to do it, but can't do it, you are not free. If you don't want to do it, but have to do it, you are not free.

If you can't do what you want, you are not free.

If you can't do whatever you want, you are not free. If you are forced to do what you don't want to do, you are not free. It is even painful.

To do one thing, you must have enough knowledge and enough ability. And you must do it diligently, carefully to do it well. Do not play games carelessly, otherwise mistakes and accidents may occur. You must think carefully before doing things. If this matter is unreasonable and immoral, can you feel comfortable? Can your conscience allow it? If this matter is illegal, would you be willing to brave the law? Only legal things can be done. Therefore, you may not be able to do whatever you want, and you may not be able to do whatever you want.

"Able" is a key term. It is necessary to have sufficient knowledge, sufficient ability, no lack of morality, to be reasonable and lawful to meet the standard of "Able"

Everyone must understand what freedom is. Everyone must know that freedom is limited. Everyone's freedom is limited by his own knowledge and ability, which is an internal cause. The external cause is the restrictions imposed by society and the natural environment.

In any society, there is a lot of lack of freedom, and there is also a lot of freedom. The dictatorship in ancient times also had freedom, but it was very unequal. For example, there were many things that the strong could do but the weak could not. You can marry multiple wives and concubines, you can exploit and oppress those who are beaten and enslaved, you can take drugs. You can smoke in public places. With the development of science and society, people have more freedom than before. But now there are many lack of freedom, and some former freedoms are also forbidden. For example, drug abuse, smoking in public places, fast driving, and private guns are not allowed. Do understand that freedom has good and bad things. There are good and bad things with lack of freedom. It is good not to be free to do bad things. It's not good to not be free to do good things.

The freedom mentioned above, do as you want, and do what you want, are all doing according to your thoughts. What about "Just Think and Not Do"? Thinking is an activity of the human brain. What you think may have programs, images, and sounds. Until now, there is no machine that can record what you think directly, instantly, without distortion, without hand or mouth, into audio and video. I hope we will have this kind of machine in the near future. If I have this kind of machine, I have this freedom. It is very convenient to connect my brain and this machine wirelessly, thinking and recording all the way. Now people can only write what they think or speak to a tape recorder. If you can keep what you write and what you record forever, then your thoughts are objectively unlimited and absolutely free. Subjectively, it depends on you being knowledgeable and talented, and whether you work hard to find a wealth of information, in that case your freedom of thought will have more room to work with.

Some people like to think, they can think about anything. You can think of swearing, beating someone and killing someone. Of course, you can think of praising people, helping people, and saving people. Your moral personality has a great influence on your thinking. If you are kind and fraternal, knowledgeable and talented, every movement or quiet moment can easily trigger your inspiration. You can think of interesting and useful things. Good for the whole world.

Thoughts are very free. You can think about the heavens, and you can pay attention to everything. You can think of anything, whatever you want. There are all kinds of thoughts. Such as fantasies, ideals, dreams, meditations, delusions, fantasies, random thoughts, etc. But be careful not to overthink. We must also talk about methods, health, and sustainable development of thinking. Thinking is the activity of the brain. If you think appropriately, you may feel smarter, refreshed, and healthy. It is said that thoughts will affect appearance. There is an old saying [The physical comes from thoughts]. What you often think about is good deeds, and you will be more beautiful. If your thoughts are full of jealousy, if you are beautiful, you will gradually become ugly. But if someone who has been traumatized because of heart matters or for whatever reason has an ugly appearance, that person requires sympathy and understanding. Thought is very important. Human civilization, science and technology and social development are all created by thinkings that lead to actions. If you are interested in thinking, you can ask teachers and experts in order to learn about thinking, which is interesting and useful.

Some people want to publish their whims and ideas and share them with the public. Some people want to turn their scams into actions to deceive others. All kinds of thoughts guide behavior, with different consequences.

“Thinking” has a cost. Whether what you are thinking is good or bad, it takes time, brainpower, methods, knowledge, and information. Everything is a cost. If your thoughts are good, they will bring good consequences. If your thoughts are bad, they will bring bad consequences. For the same amount of payment, the ending is as different than heaven and hell. It is wise to think well and do well. Use “is it democratic?” as a criterion. It is also the code of conduct for everyone.

“Freedom of Speech” is particularly important. In an authoritarian society, speech that is detrimental to the ruler is prohibited. Speeches that benefit the ruler are allowed. In a democratic society, speech is also restricted. With the rapid spread of information, the more difficult it is to restrict speech, the greater the impact of speech on society. How to deal with all kinds of wrong speeches and the speeches that mislead the masses? How to avoid its bad influence on society? He can talk about freedom of speech, and so can you. You should present good reasoning to people so that they can clearly distinguish right from wrong and avoid being misled.

Since you think his remarks are wrong, explain why they are wrong, and convince people with reason. Good speech may directly produce good effects. Bad arguments, after being analysed in detail by experts, can be used to show people why they are bad, let them know more, and improve their ability to distinguish good from bad.

The freedom of speech should never be prohibited. It is a magical weapon used by people to participate in politics, to discuss and make suggestions.

The positive role of freedom of speech must be brought into full play. We must work hard in many ways.

{1} Improving the language level

Speech should be expressed in language. People should strive to speak or write their own speech clearly, fluently and in an easily understandable way. To speak well and write well, you must pay attention to practice from an early age.

{2} You must have a wealth of high-level basic knowledge

You must have a high level understanding of the following basic knowledge: daily life, food, clothing, housing, medicine, health, astronomy, geography, natural science, and social science. If you are knowledgeable and talented, you will be able to better argue what’s right and what’s wrong.

{3} Raise moral standards

Good speeches stem from charity and philanthropy. Speakers should be kind to others and ask their conscience: is my speeches are for others and for the good of the world? Kindness and philanthropy should be cultivated since childhood. This is the responsibility of the education system, of the social environment, of the parents and the elders, and of oneself. Adults should also cultivate their body and mind frequently, self-examine, and correct as soon as possible when they find mistakes.

{4} See things comprehensively

To study things, we need to look at things in a micro and macro point of view, from a distance and up close, inside and outside. But also from the past to the present, over time. If you are fixed in a position by yourself, by others, or for some reason, you cannot see the truth clearly. Only by seeing the truth of the matter at hand can it be possible to make correct comments on the matter. Otherwise there will be prejudice.

{5} Everyone should know that freedom of speech is everyone's right and responsibility.

Freedom of speech should be omnidirectional, two-way, and without restricted areas. You can ask questions, make inquiries, comments, criticisms, and suggestions for anyone and everything, including the United Nations, the Secretary-General, the presidents of various countries, governments, political parties, religious groups, and individuals. The other party can answer, explain, and convince others with reasoning. The other party can also ask you questions, make inquiries, comments, criticisms, and suggestions. For example, the purpose of the United Nations is to maintain world peace and security; to safeguard the sovereignty and territorial integrity of all countries from being violated; to uphold the equality of human rights within each country, and strive to make the government of each member country be appointed by the people. The people of all countries in the world can be protected from war, terror, and persecution, and their lives can be guaranteed. Its goal is to make everyone in the world healthy, happy, and develop positively.

However, it has been more than sixty years since the establishment of the United Nations, and there are frequent wars. There are still wars going on on earth now. Moreover, many UN member states have more and more murderous weapons, and they are becoming more and more fierce. If inevitability is found in chances, if it explodes it can destroy all mankind. Now everyone in the world has reached the most dangerous time. The United Nations should immediately enact laws that conform to the current situation as soon as possible, so that it has legitimacy and capabilities to stop wars as soon as possible. Then in all conflicts the UN will not let the two factions negotiate alone to stop the war. Instead, peace must be negotiated and resolved publicly in the courts of the United Nations.

At the same time, the United Nations must have legal reasons to be able to organize an effective institution to stop nuclear research, nuclear mining, and the extraction of nuclear raw materials in countries around the world as soon as possible. At the same time, it supervises and helps dismantle all nuclear weapons in countries around the world. Many things must be done at the same time. To this end, it is necessary to recruit and train many talents at the same time, with the active help of governments and people of various countries. Then the United Nations will actively transform itself into a world government.

Alternatively with the active help of the United Nations and the help of countries around the world, the people of the world will establish an ideal world government. To enable human beings to live in a beautiful environment without wars and to develop continuously for good. The above are very rough suggestions from a layman. Scholars and experts are invited to put forward a good and detailed plan for this urgent issue. Everyone, please give your opinions and suggestions, and use your heart, hard work and practical actions to solve this critical and major problem.

{6} The government will use a lot of manpower and material resources to establish a huge comprehensive freedom of speech organization.

All kinds of speeches are completely, speedily and obviously published in ad hoc multimedia. Using high technology, staff and experts can quickly extract the positive and useful factors in speeches, divide all the problems into categories and study them and correct them. They will display the errors, explain the reasons and give the correct answers. This organization has also many important functions.

{7} Special legislation for freedom of speech

Everyone, including lunatics, mentally handicapped, and criminals, has an equal right to freedom of speech. Make sure not to criminalize speech. It is necessary to strictly distinguish between speech and rumors. Individuals or groups must be strictly prohibited from suppressing, striking and hurting speakers.

Freedom of speech has the effect of eliminating misunderstandings, dissolving differences, and avoiding war. It is also possible to comment on various other freedoms through freedom of speech, to prohibit certain bad freedoms and develop more good freedoms.

Freedom will multiply and become better. Try to diligently develop freedom! Dreams may come true. In the future, the human body can resist and destroy all harmful bacteria, viruses, and cancer cells. In the future, the human body can automatically renew and restore youth. In Chinese stories a monk fantasizes about traveling thousands of miles a day, going to Putuo in the morning and Xinjiang in the evening. Once there was a famine, a child dreamed of having food and meat every day in the future! Under the ghost of terror, some people imagine that there will be no terror in the future. There is no war. There will be peace and prosperity. I imagine that I can see things thousands of miles away in real time while sitting at home. I dream of sitting at home and talking face to face with relatives thousands of miles away. Can these fantasies come true in the future? Work hard! fantasy is thinking while awake. Fantasy can come true through ideals and practices. Work hard! New freedom will come true in the future.

Speaking of freedom, I remember a few “famous sayings”: “Life is precious, love is even more valuable, if you die for freedom, both can be abandoned.” I want to point out its error. It inverted the importance of the three.

Comparing love to life, it says love is more important than life. If it is to die for freedom, both can be abandoned, which means that freedom is more important than love and life. Famous sayings show that in comparison of the three, freedom is the heaviest and life is the lightest. In fact, life should be the most important. Then love comes second and freedom comes third.

“Famous Quotes” clearly reminds “Followers of Famous Quotes”: If you die for freedom, both life and love can be abandoned. It is obvious that love without life is empty. Without life, there is no activity, there is no freedom at all. Some people may say that the famous saying does not mean that, so the words are not expressing the meaning. Misleading quotes are problematic. And this famous saying is harmful. Some people think that this famous saying is very righteous, and the death is vigorous. I guess some people fall into the abyss of death under the influence of this famous saying when they are in adversity in a certain aspect of love or freedom. It is hoped that authority figures and famous people will give a lesson on reason to people, especially young people, to prevent people from continuing to have misfortunes because of the influence of this famous saying.

It should be particularly emphasized that the soldiers and police are here to protect against aggressions, to defend the lives and property of the people, and to serve the country and the people for world peace. They are noble and respectable heroes. They are not just here to die for freedom.

Stay calm when standing on a high cliff in adversity. Remind yourself that life is the most important thing. do not die. Some people want to use death to protest something, to use death to confess something, to use death to fight for something, this is very stupid. On the contrary, to protest, to confess, to fight for, you must live, and you must live resolutely. Nowadays, the world is civilized, science and technology are advanced, and the development is fast, there will be a lot of hope in life, and a lot of freedom in life. Death is irreversible, don't die, live resolutely. Any person, either in the ancient time, nowadays or in the future, has a lot of lack of freedom. There are also many kinds of freedom. In a democratic society, there is no freedom to do drug trafficking, to harm others, or to do dangerous things that can harm one's body. Things harmful to public safety are not allowed, things harmful to public hygiene and health, things harmful to world peace, things harmful to earth's ecological environment are prohibited. Living in a democratic society, if you don't want to do bad things, if all you want to do is good, you can do whatever you want. In this case you can be very free and be in a very good mood. You are very happy.

16 What is equality

Equality, in which the “Ping” character is interpreted here as not too high, nor too low. The words in them are interpreted as equal here, such as equal weight, equal size, and equal value. Equality means to compare each other, to be at the same level and equal to each other. Equality involves many things, including simple equality, complex equality, and broad equality. For example, fairness, equivalence, mutual benefit, complementarity, mutual respect between people, all these belong to the category of equality.

There are many inequalities in the world. This place is high, that place is low. It’s hot here and cold there. It’s rainy here, and dry there. The lion is strong and fierce, while the mouse is small and timid. Some animals are smaller than mice. The weak eats the strong, the big fish eats the small fish, these all illustrate unequal and unfair things. This is natural selection. It is the evolutionary process of the biological world. Such a process is too cruel, and such a process is still going on! It is said that the evolutionary process is going from simple to complex. There is also the food chain of the so-called biological world. There is also the so-called symbiosis and complementarity. From random to inevitable. From spontaneous to conscious.

Can people create a harmonious and wonderful biological evolutionary process? Now that science has developed, people have seen hope. Let’s work hard to create a harmonious and wonderful biological evolution process to replace the cruel process! Human beings should care about and help and protect the creatures on earth.

Human beings are the spiritual beings of all things, and human beings should shoulder this great responsibility. Once upon a time, human beings were nothing great. People cannot fly, people are inferior to birds. People are not as fast as horses. People are not as good as fishes in the water.

It takes many years after a person is born to become independent. When it comes to endurance, hunger, satiety, cold and heat, people are not as good as animals. But our ancestors did not become discouraged, did not give up, they worked hard, and used their brains. Because you can’t fly, you can’t do this, you can’t do that, people made airplanes, boats, cars, heating and cooling units, medicine, and man-made objects. Human beings live in groups, they love and help each other, they develop language records, research science and technology, and develop production. That’s why we are what we are today. What I said above is about inequality in the natural world and the biological world.

There are also many inequalities in the world. A’s dad is rich, B’s dad is poor. A grew up in a big city, and B grew up in the country. A’s lottery won the first prize, and B’s lottery did not. A is tall and mighty, B is weak and small. A ranks first at the exam, B ranks last. A is smart and B is mentally retarded. It’s all inequality. Others have changed from equality at the beginning to inequality afterwards because they took different paths. The twin A is dedicated to world peace and has made great contributions to mankind, which deserves praise. B creates human hatred, takes pleasure in harming others, and becomes a sinner through the ages.

There are inequalities everywhere in the world. How to deal with inequalities? Some people advocate eliminating all inequalities. But how to eliminate them? Is it OK? If all inequalities in the world were eliminated, what would the world be like? Some people want to take advantage of the inequalities in the world and strive to become a strong eater, to become a big fish and eat small fishes. But the strengths and weaknesses are all relative. What happens when you encounter a eater stronger than you or a bigger fish than yourself?

Everyone lives in the world, that is, lives in an unequal environment. How to correctly understand, treat and handle unequal matters correctly is very important. Everyone must study hard and clearly understand the truth. For example, the poor should not be jealous of the rich. The rich have shortcomings and strengths. They should learn rich people’s good traits such as being hardworking, resilient, persevering in business, and being able to use both their hands and their brain, and do careful calculations. The rich should not bully the poor, they should actually help the poor solve their difficulties, and sincerely help the poor get rich. Another example is that certain inequalities between men and women cannot and should not be eliminated. Because of some different structures, different instincts, different physiology, and different psychology. Men are men and women are women. If the inequality between men and women can be eliminated, what will the world be like? Men and women, are you willing? We must face the differences between men and women. We must love and help each other by complementing each other, giving play to each other's abilities, understanding each other's inabilities, and respect each other. This is also the way husband and wife can help each other, complement each other and love each other in harmony.

Generally speaking, equality is considered from a socio-political perspective, referring to the equality of human rights. In a democratic society, all people, whether men, women, androgen people or trans-genders, are all human beings, and enjoy equal human rights. Human rights include many contents, and equality is diverse and specific. For example, the equality of voting rights is one person, one vote, and the validity of each ballot is equal, and the validity of the ballot does not vary depending on the voter. For another example, everyone is equal before the law. If anyone has violated the law, or let's say he matched one or several laws, he must be treated according to these laws. Another example is the equality of freedom of speech. Everyone, including those who have committed a crime, has the right to comment, praise, accuse, criticize, comment, suggest, without being forced to, but from their own heart. Everyone is allowed to speak, or not to speak.

Another example is equality of opportunity, such as learning opportunities, work opportunities, and social welfare opportunities. Anyone who meets the conditions and reaches a certain level or multiple levels, and is willing, has the opportunity to go to school and do some related work, he has the opportunity to enjoy the benefits due to specific circumstances. The equality promoted and legislated by a democratic society is reasonable and fair.

When talking about equality, we must especially emphasize the equality of political power, the equality of laws for everyone, and the equality of freedom of speech. Human rights equality has many contents, among which "Life Equality" is the most important and the most basic.

Speaking of equality is to correctly understand inequality, to treat inequality correctly, and to correctly straighten out various inequalities. It is to make everyone use each other, love and help each other, understand and respect each other. It is to make everyone happy. It is to build a harmonious society. It is to make all mankind unanimously strive toward the same goal: "Hand in hand development toward good".

17 About the Rule of Law

Handle things in accordance with the law is referred to as the rule of law. The law is the rule on which things are handled, and it is written on paper in advance. Legal provisions must be clear, unambiguous, and not easily misunderstood. The law itself does not deal with matters. The rule of law's purpose is for law enforcement personnel to deal with matters in a serious and clear manner in accordance with the provisions of the law. There are various aspects of the rule of law, it can be international, domestic, social, and inter-personal. There are corresponding laws to follow. For example, international law, national constitution, tax law, marriage law, civil law, criminal law, etc. Why do we need the rule of law?

Purpose of the rule of law: There are various aspects of the rule of law, and the rule of law has corresponding purposes in all aspects. In a democratic society, all the rules of law has a common purpose, which is to protect human rights, people's freedom and equality, world peace and social peace. The most basic thing is to ensure harmony and happiness in the world. The rule of law will never allow violation of the purpose of the rule of law. The rule of law must resolutely protect everyone's human rights from being violated, especially personal safety. The rule of law must seek justice for the victims and justice for society. The rule of law must ensure that the law is equal for everyone.

If law enforcement personnel do not follow the law, or if law enforcement is not careful, not serious, or unfair, the goal of the rule of law will not be achieved. To this end, a supervisory agency must be established to supervise law enforcement. If supervision is good and law enforcement is good, and everyone is indeed equal before the law, there may still be problems with the rule of law. Then the problem may come from the law itself.

For example, in some countries, some laws are good for the criminals but not good for the victims. If you condone the culprit, more good people may be killed. The law itself is very important. If the text of the law is unreasonable and cannot be fair to the victim, this law violates the purpose of the rule of law.

There are lawyers in society under the rule of law, and lawyers are law-savvy people.

The defendant's lawyers did their best to protect the defendant from being wronged, rather than helping the culprit exploit legal loopholes and avoid justice. It should be particularly pointed out here that the trial must not be quick and strict, and must not wrong anyone, including the victim. It is necessary to carry out repeated investigations, clearly understand the truth of the matter, and then follow the procedures of the rule of law, open interrogations, and openly handle it in accordance with the law.

The victim's lawyer is doing his best to get justice back for the victim and claim justice for society, instead of trying to design ways to wrong people.

The law is the rule for handling matters. With the development of society, the law must be reasonable and fair at all time. Errors are not tolerated. The implementation of wrong laws has serious effects. The implementation of wrong international law may lead to catastrophe for mankind!! Please note that the implementation of wrong international law may lead to human disaster!!

In a democratic country, the most important thing is the equality of human rights with regard to the conflict of interest between people. Among human rights, the right to survival is the most important. Democracy emphasizes respect for life and the equality of life. The common people had this consensus and this wish long ago. There are sayings in the Chinese folks from ancient times: "Treat others like they treat you", "Pay blood debt with blood" and "Killers pay back with their lives". This is a natural expression of the original ideal of equality of human rights and equality of life. It is also the justice of the ancients.

These old sayings may have a deterrent effect on bad people. They may reduce crime, and may reduce the murder of good people. These old sayings are worthy of attention and of reflection by everyone who cares about the law.

Can the painful debt and blood debt owed by the culprit be repaid, and how? How to make the culprit's body pay in his own way? Ask the victim, the bystander, and the culprit. Ask the culprit to put himself in the victim's shoes, and then answer. If the victim is still alive, with the victim's consent, money or other methods can be used to repay painful debts and blood debts. It can be even reduced, all with the consent of society. If the victim is still alive, this is a blessing in misfortune. There is consultation between the victim, the culprit and the judge to allow greater room for commutation. If the victim is killed, this is the great misfortune of the victim, and it should be the great misfortune of the culprit.

In theory, no one should be and no one is qualified to use the life of the slain person to forgive the life of the murderer. It is conceivable that the victim died in great physical and mental pain and endured cruelty. The victim has been killed, and there is no discussion about this fact. What the public and judges should do is to collect life debts, blood debts, and mental and physical pain debts from the murderers for the slain person.

It is conceivable that the above-mentioned idioms "Treat others like they treat you", "Pay blood debt with blood" and "Killers pay back with their lives", demons will oppose them, bad people will oppose them, the very charitable but naive people will oppose them, and some religious believers will oppose them, because some religions advocate that good is opposed to evil and that good is used to influence evil. What if the wicked continue to do evil without being influenced?

Ordinary people hope that good will be rewarded for good, and evil will be rewarded for evil. The wicked people dream that evil will be rewarded with good. The kind-hearted people mentioned above are the ideal targets for evil people. It can also be said that the existence of such innocent good people in society is one reason why the wicked people continue to do evil.

In a democratic society, there are laws to follow for almost anything and for any problem.

The legislature is the body responsible for making laws. Many of these experts are responsible for making laws full-time. The law must be fair, reasonable, and realistic. Everyone has the right to make comments and suggestions on every law. Any law must be carefully and seriously considered in detail by the legislature, and after a fixed procedure, it will formally become an effective law.

Caution! Caution! The law must be adapted to the prevailing environment, conditions and current situation. Therefore, the law must be able to make corresponding improvements at any time, and it is also necessary to formulate new laws at any time to deal with new or changed things. Special emphasis!! Special emphasis!! The legislature should have the responsibility, power, and ability to do so.

Judicial agencies must strictly enforce independence and impartiality in handling cases in accordance with the law. Judges handling matters in accordance with the law must be strictly free from any influence or instigation of any forces (for example, religion, political party, group, official, private).

The supervisory agency monitors whether the various government departments are working properly and prevents the use of power for personal gain. It is its important responsibility to monitor the operation of justice, to supervise whether law enforcement officials are serious and honest in handling cases in accordance with the law to ensure judicial independence and justice.

Everyone must be concerned about the rule of law and have sufficient common sense about the law. Any opinions or suggestions on the rule of law must be published in the media specially designed for freedom of speech. Use freedom of speech to work hard for the law and the rule of law. Everyone must be clear about the responsibilities of citizens. Pay attention to whether you are fulfilling your civic responsibilities well. Never break the law.

Democracy and the rule of law ensure the safety of good people. Strive for social harmony so that everyone is happy.

18 A good president is created by citizens

Choosing is usually a good auspicious word, usually it means having power, freedom, opportunity, and joy. For example, choose items, choose schools, choose majors, choose jobs, choose talents, choose objects, etc. You are the elector, or you may be the candidate. The same kind of selection can be done in different ways. You can choose in person, you can ask someone to choose, you can choose manually, or use a computer with a machine, choose with scientific methods, or choose with ancient methods. Selection is a method and means, and methods and means can also be chosen. People can choose to adopt or design perfect methods and means.

Usually the most important and noticeable election is the presidential election. There are also elections of governors and mayors, elections of beauty pageant, elections of village chiefs, student council leaders, etc.

The purpose of electing the president is to select one president, and the method is to use elections. Usually many electors choose one of several candidates to be the president. Let's talk about the candidates first, and then talk about the electors.

Candidates usually want to be president, and are capable and qualified to be president before they can become presidential candidates. To be a president requires high physical ability and intelligence, qualifications include knowledge, academic experience and high moral character. In fact, it is necessary to have a high reputation to become a presidential candidate.

Wanting to be president, in order to increase popularity, in order to win the support of a lot of people, a lot of campaign funds are consumed. The result of the election is that the one with the most votes wins. In order to win votes, some people use bad methods to discredit their opponents. In any case, the one who gets more votes than his opponents gets elected. It takes a lot of effort to be president and run for re-election.

Participating in a political party is a shortcut to politics, and it is applicable to everything from local officials to the president. Few independent candidates in the world successfully run for president. It can be said that the election of the president is almost monopolized by political parties. If you join a certain political party, you will be regulated by the party's constitution and program, which will contain bias and unfairness. As president, the party to which he belongs becomes the ruling party. Other parties are called opposition parties. It is not good for some presidents to be biased and unjust because of the influence of the ruling party. Let's talk about the electors.

Citizens have the right to vote at the age of eighteen. Because of the election of the president, every elector should know the functions and responsibilities of the president. You should know the situation of each candidate, such as religious belief, race, family situation, political and economic situation, physical and intellectual character experience of the candidate, etc.

Most of the information about candidates is obtained from the media, from candidates, and from opponents. All of them may be distorted, exaggerated, augmented or subtracted. Some candidates are good, and they may be discredited as very bad and worthless. Few people can investigate and study carefully.

Some people elect someone they don't know correctly. Some people choose whoever they choose because of their relatives, friends or the majority. Some people choose B because they don't like A. Some people choose whoever is in my favor regardless of the candidate's talents. Some people do not choose because they do not have a suitable candidate. Some people do not vote because of bad weather. Some people take the election very seriously and are disappointed because the person they have chosen is not elected. Some people's chosen president was elected, but later did a bad job. They felt cheated because he failed to fulfill his campaign promises.

The people of a country are distributed in different classes, different races, different political parties, different religious beliefs, and different groups. Usually everyone fights for their own class, race, religion, political party, and group rights. Human nature is selfish and self-interested, but the president is for the whole people and should act in the interests of all people. In fact, some presidents are very concerned about votes. This is normal and human. Fundraising meetings are held in advance for every election, and election campaigns take a lot of time, manpower and financial resources. The election process may also unintentionally or intentionally create or deepen discord between ethnic groups or other groups.

Regarding a good president, the good president you imagine is different from the good president he imagined. With the wisdom of many people, you can design a nearly perfect good president. Where is such a good president, it is hard to find. But by integrating everyone's wisdom and ability, according to the design, a near-perfect good president can be cultivated.

Here let me write about the good president I imagined and how to cultivate it. In my imagination he has a charitable heart, a strong will, high intelligence and physical ability, and looks pleasing to the eye. He has a high degree of language and writing skills, and has quick thinking and movement. He has profound knowledge and professional knowledge to be a president, and excellent political experience. All the President's thinking, decision-making and operation should be conducive to world peace and human happiness, conducive to global environmental protection, and conducive to the development of mankind. He cares about the sake of the people of the whole country, he is not partial in a positive or a negative way to a certain group, he is completely fair. Those who are willing to accept the cultivation must first withdraw from any religious party, and also know that knowledge of religions and political parties is an important compulsory course in the training process.

Here I would like to suggest by the way that it is best for everyone to start at a young age and get to know the major religions and political parties in the world from the shallower to the deeper. To know all religions and political parties is the right and responsibility of everyone living on earth. It is necessary to understand why religions and political parties came into being, when and where they came into being, what was the social environment at that time, their development process, and how they affected society during the development process. The government needs to legislate so that people will only be able to join a religious party at the age of eighteen, and to join voluntarily to be effective. Religions or political parties will inevitably form different groups. Religions or political parties must guard against being infiltrated by bad people, and guard against being used by bad people. It is reasonable to imagine that religious parties should hate these bad people the most, have the most reason, have the most power, and have the most responsibility, and they should be the most active in weeding out these bad people and drawing a clear line between them. I would like to ask if there are bad guys dressing up like me, or holding the totem of my group to do bad things, what should I do to be logical?

Now back to the main topic, how to train a president? You can refer to the methods of selecting and training outstanding athletes, the methods of selecting beauty queens, the methods of cultivating talents in schools, and there are many good methods, please give your opinions and ideas. Everyone has the opportunity to work hard to train the president. You can directly or indirectly participate in the training work, you can give advice on the design and training, you can do the supervision work, or you can entrust this major project to many of your experts, then you can concentrate on doing well your work.

Start: Enrollment, examination, admission, class, training, practice and examination, upgrade, continue to deeper and more extensive study, training and practices. It is necessary to complete with excellent grades world related courses on religions, political parties, nationalities, wars, etc., as well as compulsory courses specially designed for the president.

He also needs to become a doctor of political science and law with excellent achievements. There will also be about ten years of excellent political experience. Approximately 100 good presidential talents that meet the standards have been cultivated for the first time. Then a lottery is used to draw (not elect) one president and vice president. The current president should be elected two years before the expiration of the previous term. He can be an intern assistant to the current president until his term expires.

The remaining good presidential talents can participate in other leadership positions in the government by drawing lots. They can also teach and do research work or other work.

The transition from electing a president to training a president must be peacefully promoted by the current government. Start with multimedia propaganda. Arouse public interest and attention. Provide opinions and suggestions, and cooperate with the general public. After about ten years, the first president is cultivated. In the future, the second and third sessions will get better and better.

The term of the president is limited, for example, seven years. No one can serve as president for two terms in his life.

The rulers of ancient times were established after a war or passed down. Most of the leaders from later to modern times were elected. The future leaders will be trained using scientific, fair and reasonable methods and then drawn by lots.

19 World government

Let's start with globalization. Globalization has already begun in ancient times, but it was slow and not obvious. As society make advances in science and technology, the faster and more obvious the globalization. It changes from spontaneous to conscious pursuit. Speaking of globalization, it is natural to think about the whole world, the travel around the world, the countries of the world, world wars, world harmony, the United Nations, the global village, the prosperity of the world, etc. Traveling around the world is what I wanted to do decades ago. The most terrifying is a world war. The global village is what I yearn the most. The global village in my imagination is high-tech, rich in material and spiritual life. People live in harmony, in peace and happily. People in the global village come from all over the world. There are global villages in all countries. All people living in the global village are, or will all become, healthy and happy both physically and mentally. They are charitable and fraternal. There are various museums, exhibition halls, libraries, casinos, stadiums, department stores, no casinos, and no stock markets. There are many schools, research institutes, medical centers, nursing homes, industrial parks, agricultural parks, biological parks, science parks, and art parks. Many beautiful things constitute a paradise on earth.

Globalization is the process of spreading or developing from the a local spot on earth to the whole world. Many things tend to globalize unintentionally or intentionally, such as economic globalization, transportation globalization, plague globalization, war globalization, and communication globalization. Education must be globalized, epidemic prevention must be globalized, environmental protection must be globalized, disaster prevention and relief must be globalized, global climate adjustment must be globalized, many major projects must be globalized, such as stopping and preventing war, prohibiting nuclear proliferation, and completely dismantling nuclear weapons. The peaceful use of nuclear energy and anti-terrorism all urgently require globalization to be smoothly and completely realized.

In order to effectively ensure the smooth progress of globalization of many important matters, the most important thing is to establish a unique and justifiable world government with real power, that all countries in the world must obey, whether big or small. It is above the governments of all countries.

The world government is not the United Nations. The United Nations does not have this power and the ability to perform these many important tasks. The world government leads the governments of all countries in the world, just as the central government leads the provincial governments. It uses smart, peaceful and effective means to resolve and eliminate all kinds of resistance and obstacles, and smoothly solve the problems that the United Nations cannot solve. The personnel of the United Nations are dispatched by various member states. The personnel represent their own countries to oppose wars between nations and discuss major world events. In fact, they fight for their own rights through the United Nations.

The world government should be designed and manufactured by integrating the wisdom and capabilities of all mankind. First, governments and non-governmental organizations from all over the world set up special forums on the establishment of a world government. Some are in favor, some are against, some are questioning, some are scolding, some are making suggestions and comments, and some are providing simple or detailed blueprints for design and implementation. Individuals, groups, and governments of various countries communicate with each other and cooperate with the United Nations to establish a World Government Preparatory Committee. Experts are hired to sort out and study various opinions and suggestions, design the most appropriate planning steps and blueprints, and openly build them in accordance with the blueprint sequence. Human, material and financial resources are very important, as well as choosing the most appropriate region to be the capital of the world. The world government is a very large institution, and it needs a lot of talents to be recruited from all over the world.

People of all races must participate. The most basic requirement for talents is a volunteer who has no racial discrimination, has never joined a religious party, or is willing to withdraw from a religious party and has already done so. He must be kind-hearted, fraternal, and physically and mentally healthy. Enrolled through examinations, after necessary learning and training, qualified talents at all levels. They draw lots to serve. The term of the world president is limited, such as eight years, and cannot be re-elected. There are independent supervisory agencies to supervise the president and officials at all levels.

The world government has the world's only army (World Army), stationed all over the world. The mission of the World Army is to stop wars, fight terrorism, and rescue disasters. Soldiers are admitted through examinations from all over the world, and pass the examinations after rigorous training. No large country or small country is allowed to have its own army.

The world government trains talents for the government. It also trains talents for countries all over the world. It pays much attention to education. In the past, people emphasized patriotism and national defense, and put the country as the most important. Now people must emphasize loving the world, defending the world, serving the world, and putting the world first. Because every living person lives in the world, adults and children must receive an education to love the world. Consider problems for the sake of the whole world, and emphasize resolutely not to do things that are bad for the world.

The world government has many issues to study, such as global national issues, nuclear issues, anti-terrorism issues, ethnic issues, religious issues, political party issues, population issues, material resources issues, energy issues, environmental issues, epidemic prevention issues, disaster prevention issues, mega-engineering issues, etc. The world constitution and various legal systems must also be formulated.

National issues: countries are large and small, democratic, dictatorial, rich and poor. Some countries can assist other countries economically, and they can also send peacekeeping troops to serve as international police. People in some countries are oppressed and exploited, and their lives are difficult. Every country has military weapons, which are used for foreign wars either on defense or offense, or for civil wars for their own people to kill each other. Ancient and modern countries have an invisible shell. This shell is composed of many factors, such as race, religion, political party, population, resources, political system, and so on. Now this shell is no longer a good thing. It hinders the normal, beneficial and friendly exchanges between inside and outside. It may cover dangerous and harmful things. After joining the world government, the shell of the country is eliminated. Dangerous, harmful, and unreasonable things cannot be covered and cannot exist anymore. The essence of the country is an administrative region in the world. Citizens are residents of administrative regions and enjoy the rights of administrative regions. They are citizens of the world and are protected by the World Constitution. The head of a country is recognized and authorized by the world government. He governs the internal affairs and foreign affairs of this administrative region of the country on the basis of the world constitution.

The world government does not need to wait until all countries are willing to join. In the early stage, three countries agree to participate in the establishment. The governments of the world are peaceful and friendly with countries that have not joined. they are welcome to join. The world government must be reasonable and make everyone clearly understand that it is necessary to join the world government as soon as possible.

The most urgent responsibilities of world governments are nuclear issues and counter-terrorism.

Nuclear issues: The nuclear energy agency of the world government is responsible for the supervision and disassembly of nuclear weapons in all countries around the world, the prevention of nuclear proliferation, the unified management and operation of global nuclear power generation, peaceful nuclear use, nuclear research, etc.

The world will unify the mining, refining, storage and distribution of nuclear raw materials. It will unify the treatment and storage of nuclear waste. It will unify enrollment, teaching and training of administrative personnel engaged in nuclear business and of scientific research engineering and technical personnel. It will unify distribution of nuclear jobs and so on. We must always ensure that the living environment of all mankind is free of radioactive pollution. The above must be done by a world government.

Anti-terrorism: Nowadays, people are killed by terrorists every day. The perpetrators of terrorist incidents are usually kind and enthusiastic young people, but because they have little knowledge, they are easily misled and deceived. The masterminds behind the scene are all jealous and hateful demons, or perverted mad demons. Dressed as a believer in the garb of a religion or a political party, he climbed to the upper echelons using deceit. He increased his influence. His own safety gained protection by more deceivers. He used destruction and killing to alleviate the pain in his heart or take pleasure in killing and destroying.

He does everything, if there is a nuclear bomb, he will set off violence in a crowded area. If he gets radioactive materials or biochemical weapons, he will spread it in crowded places. Nuclear weapons, nuclear proliferation, guns and explosives, and biological and chemical weapons must be strictly prohibited around the world. The devil kills people and destroys earth, but he can claim to be acting for god.

Most of the victims are people of their own religion. Why don't these many people stand up to resist, but instead still protect him? This is a problem that must be studied in detail and thoroughly understood. We must strengthen propaganda and education so that people can distinguish right from wrong.

The global counter-terrorism agency, authorized by the world government, wants to make terrorists and crazy demons have nowhere to hide and make terrorist activities impossible; make becoming a terrorist impossible for anyone. The anti-terrorism education and propaganda team has the cooperation of all countries in the world, and can enter any place in each country, visit residents in remote places, help them, increase their knowledge, and make everyone understand the dangers of terrorism.

Report suspicious people and things promptly. The Ministry of Anti-Terrorism Propaganda and Education must often publicly criticize and educate the terrorist demons on multimedia broadcasts, and ask him to debate in the air. Ask him what deep hatred he has, who is his enemy, and how much he owes him life debts, blood debts, money debts, and pain. When and why was the debt created. Ask him what he wants and how he wants compensation. Ask him why he deceived and misled young people to make body bombs, and how he would compensate for the lives of the victims. Don't kill him when he surrenders, it is recommended to amnesty those who surrender.

Anti-terrorism propaganda and education and all counter-terrorism measures should continue to be strengthened. Anti-terrorism and terrorism prevention should be forever.

Anti-terrorism must use the highest technology to quickly get the information needed, to be able to know where and what anyone is doing at a certain time. The global counter-terrorism agency communicates, assists, interacts and cooperates well with the world's military, governments, and people around the world, so that terrorist incidents cannot occur and terrorists cannot escape the comprehensive net of justice.

Ethnic issues: Humans live in groups. In ancient times, due to natural or man-made reasons, some people lived in tropical, temperate, frigid zones, on mountain, flat land, island, dry land, desert or green lands. Due to inconvenient transportation, mountains and waters, or obstacles caused by various reasons, different ethnic groups have formed after a long time. All ethnic groups have their own languages, customs, creations, inventions, and religious beliefs. There are many nations in the world. Conflict of interests between nations may cause war, as may some other reasons. There have been national wars from ancient times to the present. The United Nations has no effect in stopping them!! The world government can completely stop the war.

With convenient transportation nowadays, technological development has entered the era of rapid globalization. People of all ethnic groups in the world are human. The most important thing is to live in harmony and create a better world together. People living in the global village need not say that they are descendants of such and such, or the heir of some kind. Needless to say, there is so-and-so blood flowing in his blood vessels. The most important thing for everyone is to improve their health, morals, and knowledge. Cultivate yourself to be a good citizen of the world. Do more for the world.

The world government wants to establish a national harmony institution, committed to the harmonious coexistence of all nations in the world. Racial discrimination is strictly forbidden, and conditions must be actively created in all aspects to benefit the people of all ethnic groups to live together. I have you in me, and you have me in you, through development and harmony everyone is happy.

Religious issues: The ancients had a lot of imagination, and imagined the changes in nature as the power of gods. They thought the plague was a ghost. There is heaven in the sky, the Jade Emperor, the hell in the underground, the Yama King, and the Dragon Palace and the Sea Dragon King under the sea. There are many gods in the sky, and each god has its own position. There are many ghosts underground, and each ghost has his tragic experience. Later, some people imagined that heaven and earth were created by a single God, and that heaven and earth and everything were dominated by him. Those who believe in him are blessed and saved. Others imagine that a person has a past life and a future life, and success in reincarnation after death is the beginning of the next life. Others imagine that after death, people enter another world. Others imagine that God is everywhere, and God knows everything. God knows what everyone is thinking and doing. God knows and has records. Evil repays evil, and good repays good. If not in this life, it will be repaid in the next lives. This is the wish of good people. They all persuade people to do good things. All kinds of heaven and hell myths were created by ancestors and developed into various religions. Later it was divided into various sects. Myths and the history of religious development are interesting and useful knowledge. It is the basic common sense that everyone has to learn from an early age and should understand.

Experts in the history of world religions are invited to publish more popular books on religious knowledge so that the people can learn about the major religions in the world. Religion has played a very good role in the process of social development. Someone once used religion to start wars. Some terrorists now dress up as religious migrants to carry out terrorist activities.

All religions must draw a clear line between them and terrorists. All religions can make great contributions to counter-terrorism, world peace, and human happiness. All religions can make a huge contribution to the establishment of a world government.

Political party issues: In ancient autocratic and dictatorial societies, political parties were organized to deal with autocratic dictators. In democratic countries, political parties are used to monopolize elections. There are many political parties in the world, and there should be many scholars who independently use scientific methods to objectively study political parties in ancient and modern times. The current task of all political parties in the world is to make great contributions to the establishment of a world government.

Resource problem: Some countries in the world are rich in resources, and some are poor in resources. In order to compete for resources, war may be triggered, and the problem is very serious. The unreasonable exploitation and use of resources has caused a lot of waste and caused serious damage and pollution to the environment of the countries and of the world. Many of these problems must be completely resolved by the world government.

There are still many major problems in the world, and no single one or a few countries can solve them completely. The world government must integrate the intelligence of all mankind to get things done efficiently, at low cost, and quickly. Globalization must eliminate wind and flood disasters, improve the global climate, and protect the global environment. Many major projects and the layout of various factories in various regions of the world must be considered from the global perspective. For example, what is the most suitable location on earth's land or ocean for solar power plants, wind power plants, various factories, farmland watering system, crop planting and afforestation, etc. The most suitable global layout must be implemented in accordance with the overall plan. To this end, it is necessary to get the cooperation of all countries in the world. For this reason, there must be a world government in order to work smoothly.

The citizens of the world have full freedom of speech. The world government has perfect world laws. Disputes between nations, ethnic issues, religious issues, population issues, resource issues, and all issues are subject to world law, and all issues can be properly handled in accordance with world law.

Regarding the establishment of a world government, there have been narratives in "The environment is the basis of survival" and "Humanity's future", please refer to them. All kinds of ferocious killing weapons made by people may explode anytime and anywhere, and people might wipe out mankind intentionally or unintentionally. Humanity has reached the most dangerous time. A world government must be established to ensure that the crisis is turned into peace. Start now, go ahead actively, and don't delay.

20 Population Issues

If more people come and fewer people go, the population will increase. How does it come? Migration from outside and birth. How does it go? Emigration and death. The population increase or decrease of a country or region is determined by four factors: life, death, immigration, and emigration. Now people can control how much they give birth, but how many people die cannot be controlled. With a good society and scientific development, people may live longer and die less. You can have more people die, but it's very tragic and terrifying, you can't do that. Moving in and out is feasible. Now transportation is convenient. Now some countries have a small population and need to increase their population. Some countries have large populations, and it is possible to use the method of emigration to alleviate. In the near future, if the population of all countries is sufficient, it will not be necessary to move out to reduce the population. The world has a large population, but we absolutely can't reduce the population by means of war or murder. But the global population must be controlled, and the best way is family planning.

The populations of some countries are decreasing, the populations of some other countries are increasing, and the total population of the world is increasing. Some people say that the global population is too big, and some people say that earth can still feed more people. For the happiness of mankind and the sustainable development of mankind, the global population should be limited and be controllable.

Family planning is the best way to control the population, and it is also the right and responsibility of every couple. If, after scientific statistics, it is believed that two births per couple are the most suitable, then each couple must have two births. This is the responsibility. There should be no more births and no fewer births than that. However, it is impossible to achieve this completely. Because different couples are in different situations. They can give birth to more or less or not at all.

But there must be reasonable regulations to follow, plus rewards and penalties. For example, every normal couple must give birth to two children. If you have more births, you must be punished. If you have fewer births, you must be punished. There are a few couples who are particularly fit or smart or have made a great contribution to society. They have to give birth to a few more. If they don't have more, they will be punished. Individual couples, if they are particularly unhealthy, or have major genetic defects, they get big prizes for not having children.

Parents are responsible for their children. They must be responsible for cultivating their children's healthy growth, and they must be responsible for teaching their children to become moral, knowledgeable, and capable people to contribute to society.

Everyone should know that the genetic genes carried by each person's reproductive cells, sperm or eggs, are inherited from the previous generation of parents (may be affected by the environment with some minor changes), they are not created by themselves. The gene passed down from parents is passed on to their children and passed on from generation to generation to sustain humanity. But the DNA of a child is different from his own, because what the child carries is the father's and mother's, not just the father's or just the mother's genetic genes.

Speaking of similarity, do you use your own cells to clone a person the most similar to yourself? It is certain that this person is not yourself, because his time, environment, encounters, opportunities, experiences, etc. are different from yours. He is not your own son, in fact he is your own brother. And your identical twin brother is more like yourself than your own clone. Because identical twins grow up in the same environment and live in the same family environment at the same time. Arrange them more clearly according to similarity: oneself, one's own identical twin brother, one's own clone, one's own brother, one's own children, one's own grandchildren, great-grandchildren, etc. From the point of view of genes, it is true that one generation is inferior to one generation and not like myself. In the long course of time, in fact everyone is actually human, just some are predecessors and some are descendants.

Being in the world a human being has two natural tasks. The first is to live, for the happiness of oneself and mankind, and for the good of society and the world. The second is reproduction, reproduction for the sustainable development of mankind.

In ancient times, people gave birth naturally. With scientific progress and good living conditions, it is very possible for a couple to have more than ten children naturally. Overpopulation can cause many problems. How to make all mankind pay attention to and implement family planning is a major responsibility that must be done properly. In some countries and regions, poverty and backwardness are prevalent, diseases are prevalent, sanitary conditions are poor, and death rates are high. Some people have a sense of survival crisis. Under unfavorable conditions, some people want to give birth to a few more, hoping that a few will luckily survive, and some will have ten births and eight deaths, and will raise two. This is understandable.

The establishment of a world government can improve the living standards, knowledge level, and sanitary conditions of the people in these poor and backward countries and regions. It will smoothly help the people do family planning.

In some countries, population growth is negative, and family planning must be done well to maintain a balance.

There are many issues in the world, such as religious beliefs, ethnic culture, customs, education issues, politics, economy, environmental protection issues and war issues, they are all influenced by population issues in a complex way. The population problem is related to the survival of mankind. It is a problem of hardships and blessings for all mankind. It must always be effectively and well controlled. To this end, a world government must be established. Establish a global research management and publicity agency, and actively cooperate with each other in various countries. Make everyone feel comfortable in bearing their own responsibilities.

To ensure that the global population is always effectively controlled. Adapt the global population to reality and maintain the most appropriate population.

21 Who can save the world

The world should be beautiful, and a beautiful world depends on you to maintain, and you can make the world a better place. But what's wrong with the world, the earth has natural disasters and man-made disasters, here we mainly talk about man-made disasters. There are terrorist activities in the world. There are fierce killing weapons, nuclear bombs, radioactive weapons, biological and chemical weapons, human bombs, ethnic issues, religious issues, political parties, political issues, and international issues. There are demons who ponder day and night how to use the problems between ethnic and religious parties, between nations, and between groups to provoke contradictions and hatred. At the same time, various terrorist incidents are carefully planned to cause man-made disasters and may lead to wars. With the existing ferocious weapons, there is already enough power to destroy mankind. Someone wants to take the whole world with him when he dies .

Some people think that all the people in the world are dead, and only one or a handful of them are still alive. Some people say, don't worry about the world, it's safe and sound in peace and prosperity. No matter what you say, usually everyone who analyzes rationally can know that himself is indeed in fatal danger. Everyone has a responsibility to save the real world in which everyone lives.

Everyone can be a savior. If you encounter a murderer, at the moment of life and death, if you wait to die, you are dead. If you muster up your whole body's intelligence and physical strength, wait for an opportunity to pounce, resolve to fight him, if you die, you have saved many people, you are the savior. You rushed over, and many people rushed to rescue you. You might not die, you are the savior. Everyone can be a savior. Usually you want to do things for the sake of saving hardships. You are the savior. Do good deeds and you are the savior. .

The world should be beautiful, and a beautiful world depends on you to keep it that way, and you can make the world a better place. But what's wrong with the world? Earth has natural disasters and man-made disasters, here we mainly talk about man-made disasters. There are terrorist activities in the world. There are fierce killing weapons, nuclear bombs, radioactive weapons, biological and chemical weapons, human bombs, ethnic issues, religious issues, political parties, political issues, and international issues. There are demons who think hard day and night to use the problems between ethnic and religious parties, between nations, and between groups to intensify issues into contradictions and provoke hatred. At the same time, various terrorist incidents are carefully planned to cause man-made disasters that may lead to wars. With the existing ferocious weapons, there is already enough power to destroy mankind. Someone wants to take the whole world with him when he dies.

The world should be beautiful, you had a happy childhood, and your world is fresh, beautiful and colorful. You are young, and the world is full of happiness and ideals. When you reach middle age, you are working hard to make more contributions to society and the world. When you are old, but your heart is not old, you can do more good deeds, you should be very comfortable. But there are man-made disasters that shouldn't happen in the world. Maybe suddenly, there is a flash in front of the eyes, half a loud noise, no time to react yet, the person is bloody and dead. Or he may wake up not dead, and fight for a long time before dying. Or he might be alive but must endure a lot of pain, crippled. This kind of tragedy happens every day, and no normal person wants to have this kind of experience. If there is still time before something happens, for example, it has been discovered beforehand, what should be done? Now is beforehand. How much time is left before the incident? One minute? a quarter of an hour? what should you do? What about one day? One month? One year? Five years? Ten years? You must have ideas and strive to be prepared. Schools, education circles, security departments, and experts must teach adults and children how to prevent terrorism. There must be knowledge, theory and exercises. We must have sufficient anticipation in advance, make emergency drills, and determine emergency measures.

The above is a passive method, of course you must be proficient in passive methods. There is also a proactive approach. Anti-terrorism must be actively carried out. We must act first to be strong and eradicate all terrorist activities forever. We must cooperate with vigorous propaganda and education, and conduct on the air education for demons and all terrorists. Have free speeches and debates with them on an equal footing. We must be reasonable. It will be a lesson at the same time for bystanders.

The most effective anti-terrorism means is the unified leadership of the world government. Everyone has one heart and one mind, and all countries work together. Terrorists evolved from a human being. We must absolutely prevent anyone from becoming a terrorist.

Everyone must be well educated and cared for from childhood to old age. If there are no terrorists in the future, the whole world will always guard against terrorism.

We must eliminate man-made disasters, terrorist activities are man-made disasters, and war is an even greater man-made disaster. No one should be allowed to cause or contribute to man-made disasters. All countries, especially the rulers of major powers, must actively cooperate and help each other in the fight against terrorism and save the world. Leaders of the world's major religious parties and ethnic groups must also be invited to discuss reasoning, make suggestions, and save the whole world by making a contribution.

Man-made disasters in several regions of the world are now in a very dangerous state.

The Israeli-Palestinian issue in the Middle East: It lasted for decades, the bloodshed continues, and the hatred grew deeper and deeper. This is the people being misled and fanned to create tragedies for the demons. This is definitely not the wish of the people. Going back to a few decades ago, we were committed to peace and friendship from the beginning. We are all human beings. We understand and help each other for mutual benefit. After decades of peaceful construction, we can be sure that this region will become a model of the world and a paradise on earth. If there was a world government, the dream would have already come true. It's a pity that this area is now in danger!

The Iraq issue: Let's start with 9/11. 9/11 was the time when the world was peaceful. In a peaceful place, it caused a tragic massacre among many kind-hearted people. The killing of a large number of kind-hearted elites shocked the world. Bush could not catch Bin Laden in Afghanistan, so Bush naturally thought that he was not isolated, and that he must be funded and protected.

It is natural to think of Hussein. He hates the United States because the United States is willing to be the world's policeman to prevent him from invading Kuwait. He is a fierce autocratic dictator, killing a large number of his own people, he should not be president.

Bush wants to persuade him to step down and then help the Iraqi people establish a democratic government. It is reasonable, and it should be legal. He did not step down, and then he was overthrown by force. Then Iraq got help establishing an interim government, and then terrorists often used human bombs and car bombs to kill people indiscriminately.

The most urgent thing to do now is for the leaders of the major countries to work together to focus on the common people and the happiness of mankind in a world peace. Stop bleeding and death immediately. Every major country has sent peacekeeping troops and anti-terrorism education and propaganda teams to Iraq. We will vigorously help the Iraqi people establish a stable and just democratic government. At the same time, we will vigorously carry out publicity and education effort to increase the citizens' knowledge of social sciences and build a safe, peaceful and harmonious social environment.

Iran issue: The United States cannot convince the Iranian government that China and Russia are capable. Iran is rich in oil, and it is most suitable to use its own oil as its own energy. Persisting in enriching uranium in the country is uneconomical and has serious consequences for the environment and the health of the people of the country. Iran's leaders should not do things that endanger their own people and are likely to cause a catastrophe for mankind. If terrorists have missiles and nuclear warheads, what will happen to the United States? Is Bush at ease? Are Americans at ease? What about Israelis? Americans must have anticipations, and people all over the world must have anticipations.

We must strictly prevent nuclear weapons as soon as possible. And we must dismantle all nuclear weapons in the world as soon as possible. Now, uranium enrichment should be stopped immediately and a global anti-nuclear weapon movement should be launched at the same time, with the aim of dismantling all nuclear weapons in the world as soon as possible. I hope that Iran's leaders can stand at the forefront of the world's anti-nuclear campaign and actively become a great savior of mankind in launching the dismantling of nuclear weapons.

Imagine that all countries enrich uranium, what will happen to the world? The more countries with nuclear weapons, the greater the possibility of a nuclear explosion. Therefore, the number of countries with nuclear weapons cannot be increased, but can only be reduced. It is necessary to absolutely and immediately prohibit any country without nuclear weapons from conducting research, testing and manufacturing of nuclear weapons. Then peace negotiations will resolve opposing views. It is extremely dangerous to talk and do it one by one. If the leaders of the three major countries, China, the United States and Russia, can work together, many crises can be resolved peacefully.

China's Taiwan and mainland issues: Both sides of the strait have the same language, the same ethnicity, and the same gods. Taiwan was originally a province of China. China was defeated in the Sino-Japanese War of 1894-1895 and the Manchu Qing government ceded Taiwan to Japan. Fifty years later, Japan surrendered in World War II and Taiwan was returned to the motherland. In the civil war between the Kuomintang and the Communist Party, the government of the Republic of China retreated to Taiwan Province. In 1949, the CCP established the People's Republic of China on the mainland. Since then, China has been divided by the two governments. The Communist Party chants for the liberation of Taiwan, and the Kuomintang chants for counterattack on the mainland. The two armies, the Kuomintang and the Communist Party faced off across the strait for another ten years. Two consecutive tragic and painful separations of blood and tears. Compatriots on both sides of the strait are really brothers in hardship!

With the reform and opening up of the CCP, Deng Xiaoping proposed one country, two systems, and there is hope for the peaceful reintegration of the two sides of the strait. We should seize the opportunity to negotiate together. Both sides must recognize that one China and two governments are now dividing and governing the two sides of the strait is a fact, and make a plan agreed upon by both sides for peaceful reunification. It is a pity that some people use Taiwan's independence to cause misfortune, the two sides of the strait trended toward a military confrontation. Any kind-hearted person hopes that the common people can have family reunion and brotherhood harmony. No one, especially the leaders, should provoke group divisions, mislead the people, and create human hatred. Taiwan Province is a large island in China, and it forms an island chain with many small islands. China is surrounded by the west coast of the Pacific Ocean. Japan, which went northward, once invaded China and caused catastrophes.

On the other side of the Pacific Ocean are the United States, The CCP once regarded it as its number one enemy. Both sides suffered heavy casualties in the two wars on the Korean Peninsula and Vietnam. Due to historical reasons and special geographical location, mainland China absolutely cannot allow Taiwan Province, which was originally part of China, to separate from China.

In the past, the CCP left a very bad impression on the people of the world during the Mao era, and the CCP is much better now. Because of the deep impression, people's psychology has not yet changed, and the party is still above the state, which feels unusual. There are many people in Taiwan who want cross-strait reunification, but they do not believe in one country, two systems, or are afraid of the rule of the Chinese Communist Party, so some people turn to the Democratic Progressive Party. Compatriots on both sides of the strait should strengthen friendly exchanges. Since the U.S. government recognizes one China as a fact, when the Taiwan Relations Act has become a cross-strait reunification obstacle, the US government should suspend this law. On international issues, the Chinese government must take the initiative to mobilize the United States and other countries in the world to fight against terrorism, resolutely prevent nuclear proliferation, resolutely stop world wars, and resolutely safeguard world peace.

The Korean Peninsula issue: It was originally a country, but later split into two hostile countries with the same language and the same ethnicity. South Korea is well-developed in industry, commerce and technology, its economy is growing fast, and its people are prosperous. However, strikes and demonstrations by workers and peasants have occurred from time to time. The people of North Korea are poor, hardworking and obedient. It is said that North Korea is studying the manufacturing of nuclear weapons and testing rockets and missiles. There are many troops and the six-party talks on the North Korean nuclear issue. The issue is complicated. The leader of every country and every person in the world have the right and responsibility to understand the situation, help the North Korean people improve their living standards and knowledge, help them avoid suffering, and help North Korean leaders become good leaders.

Japan's problem: Japan produces good cars and good electrical appliances. I like to use Japanese products, and I wish Japanese people well. Koizumi paid homage to the Yasukuni Shrine, where class-A war criminals of World War II were enshrined, which hurt the hearts of many Chinese, as well as the hearts of Koreans, Southeast Asians, and people around the world. Koizumi should understand that this is harmful to world peace. I will draw a line between the peace-loving Japanese people and Koizumi. I also propose to separate war criminals from the Yasukuni Shrine. I heard that I saw "How can I not get revenge when I am wronged?", "Must let hatred sprout when it enters the heart!", "A real man gets revenge and vent his hatred!", "Not a real man without revenge!". These are sentences that may incite hatred. revenge will beget revenge, and the world will soon be full of hatred, which is terrible. All things must be analyzed rationally. The war of aggression against China was initiated by a small number of Japanese war criminals. Moreover, it cannot be launched arbitrarily, it can only be launched if there is an unfortunate situation that help launch a war. The worst victims of this war were the Chinese at that time, but there were also many Japanese. Modern people should draw a clear line from the war criminals of the past, whether they are their predecessors or their ancestors.

The modern Chinese and Japanese people, especially the young people of China and Japan, are all people living on earth in the same era. We must work together peacefully to build a better world.

In ancient times, China was divided into a lot of small neighboring countries. After a long period of time, countries killed each other, destroyed each other, and annexed each other. In this process, how many deaths and injuries, how many sorrows, how many countries are destroyed, and how many hatreds were caused in order to unify China? It is divided into dozens of provinces, cities and regions. Now you are a husband and wife, friends, soldiers of the same army, colleagues of the same company, and your ancestors might have been sworn enemies from feuding countries.

The ancestor of your boss may be a subjugated slave, a treacherous minister, a hero, a beggar, a peddler, or a survivor. Do you know which? If you know so what? It is now certain that you are all people living in the same age on the same earth. Everyone should live in harmony with love and kindness. In particular, leaders of countries, ethnic groups, religions, political parties, and organizations must not provoke human hatred or cause war.

We must face history squarely, use history as a mirror, use reason, understanding, and forgiveness to treat things that have passed. Dissolve human hatred and stop ethnic struggles. Lead the people to cooperate harmoniously with all nations, all ethnic groups and other groups to create multiple wins together and seek happiness for all mankind.

The governments of the world's major countries, major political parties, major religions, and leaders of major groups have the greatest power. If those in power use their abilities to do good, humans benefit. Do bad things, and humans suffer. The CCP is now powerful and fast. On the downside, the CCP is now capable of destroying all mankind. On the good side, the CCP now has the ability to save the world. Because of its great power, the CCP makes suggestions, and other countries cannot but speculate and think in detail. Give full play to the CCP's merits of reasoning, good at propaganda, and good at mobilizing the masses (this is what the U.S. and major countries in the world should work hard to learn from the CCP). The CCP will actively mobilize the U.S. and other countries in the world to work together to save the world. This will produce the best result. The world is changing, so don't miss the opportunity to save the world. How could the time be lost? If with shifting minds we miss the opportunity, a nuclear or biochemical war will break out. The world will be over! After a nuclear warfare or a biochemical warfare, earth will be in a state of high radiation and biochemical pollution for a long time. Humans can no longer survive in it. People who are not dead for the time being, no matter the good or the evil, will become ghosts, and their appearance will become ghosts. The human heart has also become evil, everyone is killing each other, the whole earth is full of hatred and terror, no one can die a good death!

Therefore, the leaders of the Chinese Communist Party should not miss the opportunity, they must hurry, and actively cooperate with the leaders of the United States, of major countries, of major religions, and of major ethnic groups. (Cooperating with the United States is essentially not to help the United States conquer the world, but to enable American power to be effectively used to save the world).

The CCP's initiative to save the world will inevitably be endorsed by leaders from all walks of life, the masses of all walks of life, and most people in the world. To persuade the world's major powers to save the world wholeheartedly with reason, it will succeed. The CCP can use love, kindness and wisdom to actively design a plan to save the world, a blueprint for the establishment of a world government, and a first draft of the beautiful scenery of a harmonious world. Sincerely invite leaders of governments, political parties, religions, and ethnic groups from all countries. Research, discuss and negotiate to reach a consensus. They can be reasonable and conditional concessions and understanding. Turn enemies into friends, cooperate with each other, have discussions, and feel comfortable. Create a harmonious and happy paradise on earth where races are harmonious and co-prosperous. Everyone's life, work, leisure and entertainment are all positive, happy, comfortable, useful, interesting, ideal and promising.

22 Education Saves All Mankind

Education is the process of cultivating talents. For whom should we cultivate talents? What kind of talents should we cultivate? How to cultivate it? Every country trains talents for its own need.

The talents cultivated by the country are: the country should be the top priority when considering problems, for the protection and defense of the country. In fact, every country has its own national conditions, some countries are democratic, and some countries are autocratic.

There are also so-called militaristic countries. The talents cultivated in a democratic country serve the people, serve the interests of the people of the whole country, and seek happiness for the people of the whole country. The talents cultivated by the authoritarian countries are to maintain the authoritarian rule and are for the sake of the authoritarian dictator.

All religions, political parties, ethnic groups, and organizations cultivate talents for themselves.

Theft groups, thieves groups, and organized crime organizations attach great importance to cultivating their own people with special skills and special mentality. States have state laws, families have family rules, organized crime organizations have harsh rules. All religions, political parties, and ethnic groups have their own laws, which are used to regulate everyone within them.

Parents in the world are most concerned about cultivating their children and making them the ideal talents in their minds. There are also many people who aspire to become in the future high-ranking officials, generals, wealthy people, scientists, engineers, doctors, philanthropists, celebrities, etc.

Such education has cultivated many talents. It will inevitably create a wealth of goods for each country or group, but it can also create murderous weapons, nuclear weapons, biological and chemical weapons; and it can also teach how to use them. If there are conflicts among nations, religions, political parties, ethnic groups, or factions, it is very likely to cause war. Educations that cannot prohibit war cannot save all mankind.

What kind of education can save all mankind? For this reason, we must care and love everyone in the world, and we must educate everyone alive in the world to love the whole world and the whole mankind, including leaders, ordinary people, and people who have committed crimes, no matter where they live in the country. Make every person in the world think and do everything for the sake of the world's human beings. We will resolutely refrain from doing anything that is harmful to humankind in the world and that harms others and benefits ourselves. We will firmly oppose and stop doing it. We will actively support things that are beneficial to earth and all mankind. There are also many teaching contents, including world geography, the history of world countries, religions, political parties, and ethnic groups, the history of wars, how to stop wars, and the establishment of a world government, and so on. Referred to as "Global Citizenship Education". It is hoped that scholars and experts will publish textbooks on universal citizenship education and various related reference books.

With the assistance of countries all over the world, it is now necessary to vigorously carry out global citizenship education in all parts of the world as soon as possible. If some countries or regions oppose or reject or prohibit global citizenship education, it is necessary to conduct open air education in these countries and regions. For example, the use of television, radio, computer, internet and various possible methods to carry out global citizenship education.

The goal of cultivating a world citizen is to make everyone in the world physically and mentally healthy, able to endure hard work, love labor, caring, charitable, responsible, fulfilling promises, and have sufficient basic knowledge And professional knowledge.

Everyone's activities are in compliance with the human code of conduct. Therefore, what everyone does is good for mankind and contributes. Therefore, the human world can continue to develop harmoniously into a better paradise on earth without war, and everyone is happy.

People are different. According to age, there are infants, children, young people, middle-aged people, and old people. Grouping by races there are various races. Grouping by nationality, there are people of different nationalities. There are people of various beliefs according to religion and doctrine, and some people say that they don't know what they believe in, some say they believe in everything, some say they don't believe in anything, and some say that any religion may have reasonable parts, and may have unreasonable parts, and they only believe in the reasonable parts. According to physical and mental health, there are people who are physically and mentally healthy, people who are physically or mentally unhealthy, and people with disabilities. According to the character of good and evil behavior, it can also be divided into good people and bad people. All kinds of people are people. All have the right to a good education. They must be well cared for and nurtured by society.

Education includes: physical and mental training, learning basic common sense, and learning professional knowledge.

Physical and mental training: Everyone must pay attention to the maintenance of body and mind at all times from childhood to old age, and get timely medical treatment if sickness occurs in order to strive for healthy growth of body and mind. To develop and maintain good habits, pay attention to your own behavior and morals, find mistakes in time, and correct them in time. We must pay attention to listening to other people's criticisms and opinions about ourselves. This is a good opportunity to find mistakes. It is good to be able to find mistakes, and to make efforts to correct them. Correcting mistakes is progress. If you know your mistakes and don't correct them, you will still do everything possible to say that your own or your ancestors' mistakes are right, which are harmful to yourself and others.

Cultivation of body and mind, young people, middle-aged people, and the elderly must mainly do self-examination, self-cultivation and self-improvement. Parents, teachers, doctors, and society must take care of infants, children and young people.

For patients, people who are physically and mentally very unhealthy, and those who have committed crimes, doctors and physical and mental education professionals must carry out physical and mental training. For all people, the purpose of physical and mental training is to make everyone a healthy, caring, charitable person beneficial to all mankind.

Common sense and professional knowledge education:

The education of infants and young children must be taught by parents and kindergarten teachers who must show them how to do things, teach them hand in hand, and do activities together. If you want to teach them something, you must first ask them what it is, and then tell them what it is, and develop children's interest in asking and learning more. Toddlers are very curious and have strong memory, which make it a good age to learn. It is also a good age to develop good habits. We must attach importance to children's ability to imitate and make use of it. Parents and teachers must practice their behaviors and habits, because they are the children's example.

The education of teenagers and young people occurs mainly in school. It is necessary to have a good and safe learning environment, to have the most complete and advanced teaching equipments, and to vigorously train many good elementary, middle school, and university teachers. Sufficient funds should be invested to develop basic education and professional education.

Adult education: Adults already have a lot of learning experience and scientific and technological knowledge, and can find materials to learn by themselves. Emphasize effort to learn automatically and consciously. You can also ask teachers and ask for advice. They must learn to investigate and analyse, to reason logically . Some things can be preliminarily identified by logical reasoning. Some things are substituted into various “if” which may get important enlightenment. You can find materials in books, in libraries, in museums, in nature, in society, in multimedia, and on the internet.

Books must be illustrated and written. The description of the words and sentences should be clear. Words are used to explain things or images, and the best text descriptions cannot completely replace images. The book must have high-quality images in order to have a clearer and deeper understanding of the things learned.

The education department should also pay special attention to the improvement of teaching equipment, such as complete high-quality teaching wall charts, slides, and DVDs. A complete set of high-simulation three-dimensional models scanned and printed by computer. Use the most advanced high technology for teaching research as much as possible.

For some things, I ask the teacher and find information, but I don't know what, why, or how to do it. This is unknown. And because people have ideals, desires, and needs, there are many ideal things that are very good and strongly needed, but they don't exist yet. How to get from not knowing to knowing, from non-existent to existent, from good to better? In order to achieve the ideal, it is necessary to use the existing knowledge, technology, equipment, precise experimental equipment to meticulously conduct comprehensive research, experiments, testing and analysis, to practice with diligence and patience, to use both brain and hands, to finally succeed. This is the process of invention, creation and improvement. It is the progress of human civilization and the development of science and technology.

Mankind has many major problems waiting to be solved. Mankind has urgent needs, ingenious ideals, and beautiful wishes, all of which are achieved through the efforts of many people studying and practicing. How can we prevent and stop war effectively? Start as soon as possible to establish a powerful world government over all countries.

Referred to as [1] to prevent and stop wars, [2] to establish a world government. These are two very urgently needed, very related and very important issues. Scholars and experts and everyone in the world have the right and responsibility to contribute to this. The United Nations or society can set up special agencies to help make it be done more smoothly. If it succeeds, mankind has begun a new era. There will be harmony, happiness and no war. It will be a new era of sustainable prosperity.

Both science and society have developed rapidly. Compared with a few decades ago, the current learning conditions are very good. There is a lot of knowledge that is very important and useful, and it is beneficial for everyone to learn. Some things were thought to be right before, but now they have been proved to be wrong. It must be corrected in time to avoid further damage. So everyone must continue to learn until old age.

Home, school, society and the environment have a great influence on people's physical and mental health, on their knowledge and skills, and moral character. It should be a good influence.

Caution! Caution! There are many advertisements on multimedia, a few of which may be wrong or vague, and may mislead or cause misunderstanding. We ask the multimedia organizations to set up a column every day to list wrong knowledge or information, and explain why it is wrong. It is convenient for the audience to read this column every day to correct mistakes.

The following briefly introduces some very important basic common sense, which everyone should be familiar with.

Physical and mental health: Everyone should pay attention to learning about physical and psychological health knowledge. Physical or psychological diseases must be treated, and those with no disease must do prevention. To maintain physical and mental health, the responsibility belongs to us, to others, to parents, to teachers and to bystanders. It's human nature that when one person is in trouble, everyone helps. The responsibility of society is to unite the power of everyone to do good deeds. Universal medical insurance is required. Basic education for all is necessary. It is also necessary to make the natural environment and social environment better.

Mental health: People need to be calm, to be able to control their emotions, to be able to concentrate, to have the will to overcome difficulties, to maintain a positive, fraternal and charitable mentality, to behave logically, and have normal thinking skills. The above are the basic standards of mental health.

Pay attention to mental health care, do not be lazy, do not overwork the brain, and do have proper rest for the brain. Don't be jealous of the strong and don't bully the weak. Don't be led by trends. Do not have depression, anxiety, worry, irritability and hatred. If there is a problem with the above, you should seek counseling from a psychologist to resolve the knot quickly. Being mentally unhealthy is very dangerous to oneself, to others, and to society. People who are mentally unhealthy should be cared for and helped. Many man-made disasters are caused by people who are mentally unhealthy. Especially rich, powerful and influential people must have a healthy mind and must maintain their mental health.

what is love? Love: I wish him well, care about him, and help him well. Here he refers to people or matters or things. To love someone is to wish him happiness, and hope that he is physically and mentally healthy and able to do good things smoothly. Care about whether he is physically and mentally healthy, whether he is in difficulty, and whether he is doing good or bad things. Helping him is to make him healthy and to help him solve difficulties. If he does good things, help him do better. If he does bad things, stop him as soon as possible, and then make him change from doing evil to doing good. Education should make everyone have a loving heart, love all people and things, and love the whole world.

What is compassion? Compassion: It is to protect life, cherish life, and cherish all people and things. Compassion is kind-hearted and human. Compassion causes love, compassion causes kindness. Compassion produces love, compassion produces kindness.

What are true and false, good and evil, beauty and ugliness?

True and False: True. It is to emphasize that the whole world and all things in the world are true. Everything that exists, or have existed, is unique.

Emphasize that there are no fake things in the world. The so-called false means that a certain kind or a certain real thing A is mistaken for, or misled as, or pretended to be a real thing B, then the real A is called the false real B. For example, if real gold pretends to be real copper, then real gold is fake real copper. Real diamonds are fake glass. The true emperor is a fake civilian. There is only one real someone, and there can be a hundred fake someone. Everything in the world is true. There are no fake things in the world. using true to mess up true is said to be false. "false is interpreted as true messing up true."

Child A said that he was made by the good fortune mother, was put on the bed as gift to his mother, who then fed him. Child B said that he was made by monkeys playing with fruit from the tree, that his mother used bananas to exchange with the monkeys for him. She went home to raise him. Children A and B are now grown up and know that they were given birth by their mother.

Someone used to say that the ground is flat, and the high places are the mountains and the low places gather a lot of water and become lakes and seas. The sky is a hemispherical shell, and the connection between the sky and the earth and the ocean is the horizon. The sun, moon and stars all rise from the east and land in the west. No one has been to the horizon. People now know that earth revolves around the sun. Something in the past was unknown. Some knowledge was wrong. Some things are now known. Some errors have now been corrected. There will be more things to know in the future. Important mistakes can be corrected in the future.

Tell the truth. We must emphasize that it really exists objectively. We must emphasize that it is very important to distinguish between true and false. It is necessary to prevent the truth from being confused with the truth (It is customary to say: to prevent false from being confused with true), to prevent being deceived, and to prevent being misled.

Good and evil: good. It is to do good deeds, to save people from suffering and to help others. The opposite of good is evil. It is aggressive, cruel, harmful, hatred producing, and misery inducing. Evil must be stopped as soon as possible.

Beauty and ugliness: beauty. It refers to a certain person and thing, the signal he sends out is transmitted to the brain through people's sensory organs, which naturally produces good associations, good scenes, good wishes, and good feelings. Beauty is good for physical and mental health. People and things with such functions are called beautiful people and things. For example, beautiful landscapes, beautiful looks, beautiful songs, beautiful fairy tales, beautiful works of art, beautiful buildings, beautiful food, beautiful morals, beautiful human realm, beautiful society, beautiful world. Beauty is a wonderful spiritual tonic. Everyone must know beauty, digest beauty, and absorb beauty.

Beauty can improve the quality of life, and beauty can trigger inspiration. We must attach importance to beauty, study beauty, and develop beauty.

The principle of dealing with beauty: it should be healthy, charitable, grateful, cherishing life, cherishing things, and environmentally friendly. Unhealthy, unethical, environmentally unfriendly, criminal, and cruel treatment of beauty must be strictly prohibited.

For example, it is forbidden to fry fish if it moves, eat live monkey brains, and eat sand shark fins. Someone cut a few flowers in the backyard and placed them in the living room for viewing. If I were a thin poet, I would sigh with tears at the unfortunate flowers, and I would suggest that people go to the backyard or garden to enjoy the flowers, or use flower pots to grow a few potted flowers and move them home for viewing. Take a few photos of the flowers and hang them on the wall. The plastic flowers are also beautiful and last for a long time. Use a 3D photocopier to print a few realistic imitation flowers, or even more ideal ideas.

It is good to admire beauty and appreciate beauty. It is not good to be jealous of beauty. The opposite of beauty is ugliness.

Ugly looks: he looked like a dead ghost, and laugh like he is crying. It's uncomfortable to see, and I don't want to see it. Ugly voice: it sounds uncomfortable and even causes goose bumps, or causes boredom.

Ugly smell: it makes people uncomfortable, it smells bad, they don't want to smell, and cannot breathe freely.

Ugly is bad in every aspect. Even toddlers have reactions. The beautiful auntie who wants to hug him can do so easily. The ugly old man has difficulty hugging him because he is afraid. Or it may be congenital. It is human nature to hate the ugly, bully the ugly, love beauty and hate the ugly. I hope ugly people can understand and don't mind. I hope everyone understands that ugliness is not voluntary, and that ugly people are the least willing to be ugly. But he has no ability to change himself. Ugly. For some people it is congenital, and for some other people they suffered misfortunes in the course of their lives, and their body or soul has been traumatized.

Please don't bully the ugly people, please sympathize and understand the ugly people. Ugly people must not give up on themselves, and always say to themselves that I am born and must be useful. We must concentrate on making progress, have good morals, and strive for good development. Ugly people can do good things, and ugly people are also happy.

What is the "Human Code of Conduct"? "Doing good, not doing bad" is the code of human behavior.

It should be noted that the good things here refer to things that are beneficial to the present and future of mankind, and the bad things are things that are harmful to the present and future of mankind. This is everyone in the world, no matter who he is. Every big and small group in the world, no matter what group. Every big country and small country in the world. A code of human conduct that every government, political party, religion, and ethnic group in the world must strictly abide by. All activities must be made clear that it is good for all mankind, not bad. Some things cannot be determined as good or bad, and many experts use high-tech methods and advanced instruments. The appraisal proves that it is a good thing and not a bad thing. What is a good thing? For example, protecting the environment, improving public health, building a harmonious society, and stopping wars. What is bad? For example, wasting earth's resources, fanning human hatred, causing casualties and causing environmental degradation. In fact, doing good and bad things must use both the brain and the hands, the results are very different. Doing bad things make human beings suffer, and we must stop them. Do good deeds to save all mankind and seek happiness for all mankind.

It is necessary to educate everyone to understand clearly and consciously abide by the "Code of Human Conduct." In particular, leaders of various countries, religions, political parties, and ethnic groups must strictly abide by the "Administrative Standards of Mankind" in their behavior decisions and affairs.

What is freedom? Freedom is the enjoyment of life. In order to enjoy it well, to enjoy it safely, and to avoid bad luck, one must have a clear understanding of freedom.

"Freedom" is simply "can do". What you can do is what you have freedom to do. For example, you can play a certain game, you can travel abroad, and you can express your speech. That means you have the freedom to play a certain game, you have the freedom to travel, and you have the freedom of speech.

What can be done? not simple! For society, we must do something legal, otherwise we will be punished by law. For moral conscience, we must do things that are reasonable, and not do things that are wicked. For humans, things that must conform to the human code of conduct can be done. There are many things that are reasonable and legal, and conform to human behavior standards. It can be done, so you must have a lot of freedom. There are many things that are unreasonable, and many things that do not conform to the norms of human behavior. So there are many things you cannot do, so you must have many lacks of freedom.

The above is about the objective conditions of freedom. It can be done, but freedom needs ability to be realized. The ancients had the freedom to fly, but people are not as good as birds, and the ancients could not fly. I have the freedom to travel to Europe. I have no money and cannot go. Some of the freedom is because I am old, I have the heart, but I cannot achieve it. But I still have a lot of freedom that I can still achieve. There are things I can do and have the ability to do, but I don't want to do it. This is also my freedom.

There are things, no matter good or bad, I don't want to do but have to do it, then I'm not free. It is painful to be forced to do bad things. Some things used to be legal, such as drug use, are now banned. Drug use is harmful to the body, and bad freedom should be prohibited. People used to have the freedom to hold guns for self-defense, but they don't need it anymore. It is prone to accidental casualties and tragedies, and should be strictly prohibited.

In the past, under the autocratic rule of the emperor, people's freedom of speech, of migration, communication, assembly, and association were forbidden, but the ban has now been lifted. With the development of technology and society, there are many things that were not available before, and now they have become people's freedom. For example, TVs, airplanes, computers, and mobile phones were not available in the past. Now people have the freedom to watch TV, fly on airplanes, surf the internet on computers, and talk on mobile phones.

Freedom is very important, especially freedom of speech. Everyone must pay attention to learning about freedom, especially about freedom of speech. We must look for reference books and materials to learn. The more knowledge we have, the more freedom and happiness we get. Freedom can be used to do good, especially freedom of speech.

Freedom is very important. But it must be understood that some things are more important than freedom. For example, life is more important than freedom, love is more important than freedom, security is more important than freedom, happiness is more important than freedom, protection of the environment is more important than freedom, and anti-terrorism and the prohibition of war are more important than freedom. Human sustainable development is more important than freedom.

Note! : There used to be a few so-called famous sayings: "Life is precious, love is more valuable, if you die for freedom, both can be discarded". The meaning is that love is more important than life, and freedom is more important than love plus life. Comparing the three, freedom is the most valuable, life is the least valuable. People have been misled by these famous sayings for a long time, and many tragedies have occurred!

Obviously, one cannot cultivate and develop love after death, and there is no freedom of love then. If you are dead you can no longer move, no freedom at all. And you will never have the ability to be free again. To be free, to live, to endure hardships and stand hard work, to live resolutely. Only by living can you cultivate and develop love. Only by living can we maintain and develop and create more and better freedom. Education requires everyone to understand: "Life is the most important thing. Everyone must be confident, do good and not do evil, and live a happier life as a consequence."

23 Establishing a world government

This article has three contents: What is the world government, why is it necessary to establish a world government, and how to establish a world government.

The world government is the only government above the national governments that can rule the world. The world government has the responsibility to indirectly or directly care for and protect every person in the world, no matter who he is.

The world government is made up of about 20,000 people. They are not selected through brutal wars or through intrigues. They are elected and cultivated by everyone in the world in an indirect or direct way.

World government officials are not lifelong appointees. For example, the accumulated term of an official must not exceed ten years.

The world government has a presidential team of 100 people, and the president is drawn randomly from these 100 people. The remaining 99 people are vice-presidents. A vice president is the president's avatar.

He is always authorized by the president to manage the world's events on behalf of the president. The world government also has: the Legislative branch, the Justice department, the Procuratorate, and the Executive branch.

The Legislative branch has a team of 300 deans, a dean is chosen randomly from this team, and the rest are the vice-deans. The responsibility of the Legislative branch is to enact a world constitution and various laws that regulate everything in the world.

And the law must keep pace with the times, because society is evolving and the situation changes. Some laws have been applied before, and now they are inadequate, problematic, or even dangerous.

Therefore, the Legislative branch must not only legislate, but also check all the laws at any time and promptly amend the law in question so that a legal provision is reasonable at the time. The Legislative branch also has to guide the legal work of various countries.

The justice department has a dean team of 300 people, a dean is drawn randomly from them, and the rest are vice-deans. The responsibility of the justice department is to enforce world law, as well as to manage law enforcement in countries around the world. Its law enforcement agency is the World Court, which is responsible for handling disputes between countries and dealing with the personnel of the world government, including the world president.

The procuratorate has a dean team of 300 people, a dean is drawn randomly from them, and the rest are the vice-deans. The role of the procuratorate is to observe people and things in all sectors of the world government, including the world president. It also supervises the personnel operations of governments. The prosecutor has the responsibility to provide evidence to the courts, and the court of the supervisory department handles matters in accordance with the law. For example, after a rigorous and fair trial, any official, including the president of the world, can be removed.

The Executive branch has a dean team of 500 people, a dean is randomly selected among them, and the rest are vice-deans.

There are many departments under the Executive branch: Ministry of Economic Affairs, Industry, Agriculture, Commerce, Communications, Resources, Energy, Engineering, Aerospace, Military, Public Security, Anti-Terrorism, Nuclear, Biochemical, Ministry of Environmental Protection, Ministry of Health, Population Department, Ministry of Education. Every department manages the world and has a great responsibility. Some departments can be merged later, and some departments can be added later. The powers and responsibilities of the ministries are determined by the Executive branch.

Once the world government is created, there are no troops remaining in any country. Therefore, countries can save a lot of money. Young and strong soldiers are transitioned to industrial workers or university students. Military officers and high-tech elites in military can retire with honor or transfer to universities or research institutions. This is all very good. There is only one army in the world called the world army. The world army has the ability to stop all wars, including wars between nations and civil wars in any country. It is indeed able to defend the world's permanent peace. Every country has a world army station. The world army can reach any place on earth in a fast and unimpeded manner, including for counter-terrorism. It can also go to disaster relief and support engineering constructions.

The Ministry of Military Affairs is responsible for the establishment of the world army. The soldiers are volunteers recruited from various countries. After a physical and passing an entrance exam, they enter the military academy to study. After strict training, they become soldiers of the world army and perform military tasks.

In three years, you can transfer to the industry or stay in the military to continue your studies. There are many military positions in the military. Those who qualify can take the lottery for appointment to these posts.

All weapons in the world are produced by arsenals directly under the Ministry of Military Affairs. The Ministry of Military Affairs is also responsible for collecting all the murderous weapons in the world. The world army usually uses an anesthetic gun that can immediately render the opponents unconscious. Lethal weapons are used as little as possible.

Private weapons are not allowed, and private production of weapons is not allowed. All countries have police to maintain law and order, and the Ministry of Military Affairs also helps countries train police, and also helps the anti-terrorism department to train secret agents and undercover people.

Anti-Terrorism Department: After the establishment of the world government, anti-terrorism propaganda teams, undercover people, secret agents, and anti-terrorist armed personnel can reach all the places in the world without any obstacles. This way anti-terrorism is very effective.

The terrorists do not have access to the supply of weapons and materials. This is the most important thing that can be done only by the establishment of the world government. Counter-terrorism should be forever, because individual murder and arson and poisoning incidents are also very horrible. Individual killings of the wife or the child, individual bombings, and individual destructions are also terrorism acts, you have to be ready. People have misunderstandings, people have bad judgments, people have mental illness, and how to prevent it is also a major problem.

There are also tens of thousands of things more terrifying than the terrorists. In fact, there are already many nuclear weapons over our heads. The current international situation is more complicated than in any past period! More complicated! The nuclear bomb over our heads may explode at any time. How to do it! You can't fly away from the earth, and you can't go back 200 years. The only way is to actively establish a world government as soon as possible, and it will certainly be able to dismantle the nuclear bombs over our heads. Who will dismantle them? The technical staff of the Nuclear Energy Department will dismantle them.

Department of Nuclear Energy: This department is very large, and there is a nuclear science and technology teaching and research department, which specializes in training nuclear science and technology talents.

The Nuclear Personnel Department is responsible for the unified deployment of talents in the nuclear energy department and global nuclear affairs.

The Nuclear Weapons Dismantling Department is responsible for the collection and dismantling of nuclear weapons worldwide.

The Nuclear Security Department is responsible for supervising the entire process of nuclear operations. It is also responsible for preserving the global ecological environment and the human living environment, ensuring that the radioactive material environment is safe and that the radiation environment is safe. The Department of Nuclear Materials is responsible for radioactive minerals: mining, refining, storage, and distribution. It is also responsible for the collection, treatment, and storage of radioactive waste.

The Department of Radioactive Material Transportation is responsible for transporting and ensuring the safety of the entire process, without being stolen or leaked. There are also sectors for the peaceful use of radiation. All nuclear businesses must be run by the public.

Compared with the present, the ecological environment and human life of the whole world are now in the dire situation of nuclear threats. Anytime people may die! Only the establishment of the world government can we be saved.

There are also biochemical weapons who are as sinister as nuclear weapons. They can be spread by air or water or other substances. They are invisible. They can cause long-term pollution in vast areas, causing a large number of human, animals and plant deaths.

Biochemical weapons now can be made in the laboratory and it is difficult to detect. There are many countries that manufacture biochemical weapons, which is very dangerous. The world government must be established as soon as possible in order to effectively prohibit them. This responsibility is taken up by the Ministry of Biochemistry.

Natural disasters on Earth are caused by the enormous energy of nature, which is not expected and timely regulated. The world government can smoothly make a scientific, holistic and reasonable planning around the world, and has the ability to successfully construct large-scale projects around the world. For example, building in the desert large scale solar power generators and wind power generators, and undertaking large-scale desert greening. Giant water conservancy projects around the world will be undertaken. Large, heat producing factories from the vicinity of the equator will be moved to a suitable place in the cold zone. Many people are encouraged to migrate from the tropics to working in the temperate or cold zone. Therefore, the energy of nature is well regulated and utilized. This will eliminate natural disasters and increase agricultural production and industrial production.

Today's wind energy, hydro energy and bio energy are derived from solar energy. After the establishment of the world government, it is sufficient to make efficient use of existing solar energy for the supply of agricultural production and daily life. It is not necessary to rely on coal, oil and natural gas, and the environment of the earth will be greatly improved.

The grand plan above must be managed by a public organization to be successful.

The world government attaches great importance to and can do 100% waste recycling, saving a lot of earth resources, being environmentally friendly.

The goal of the industry and agriculture of the world government is to meet the needs of all mankind. It emphasizes sustainability, it is based on resource conservation, efficiency and absence of squandering.

Only if it is run by a public organization, doing a comprehensive overall precision planning, can it be achieved. Large-scale projects around the world must also be directly constructed by the engineering department in order to be environmentally-friendly and efficient. Private operations are produced for the profit of the Group. Groups compete with each other, production fluctuates with the market, and there is sometimes overproduction and sometimes scarcity. Economic crisis are miserable.

Private businesses have low production efficiency. Waste of the earth's resources is widespread. The living environment of mankind becomes seriously polluted, and the greenhouse effect is serious. Both mankind and the earth can't stand. Public management must be implemented. How to transition from a privately run market economy to a publicly managed planned economy?

Start with a country that is willing to set up a world government. First, buy all private companies and all private property at reasonable prices. Deposit the money into the bank account of the corresponding national. From now on all the business will be public owned. Everyone works for the public. Everyone's wages must be higher than before, and the living environment is necessarily better than before. Everyone is happy. All the land belonging to the state, the state-owned industry and agriculture, all the property belonging to the state, add up to a total.

It is then divided equally among all citizens, and the state deposits it into the bank account of each citizen. Note! How are the reasonable prices determined? It is up to the state officials, parties, surveyors, and appraisers to refer to the market price at the same time, and jointly negotiate and get a consensus.

The whole process is open and transparent. The national conditions of each country are different and there should be an international standard, so there must be a special commissioner from the United Nations World Government Preparatory Committee.

After important things are done, the state's political power and assets and nationals can be handed over to the world government by heads of state and government officials. After completing this glorious mission, the heads of state and officials can serve in the world government or change career or retire.

After joining the world government, the original rich capitalist landlords are very rich. They can work, can retire, and are free. They can enjoy the money themselves, give it to their own children or give it to others or give it to the community. Everyone works for the public, and wages are determined by the value created by the position and labor. Income is tax free. People may also have income from royalties, copyright, and invention patent. Many people are very rich, and no one's bank accounts is empty.

All health care systems are public. Each medical operation process is handled by an expert, and there are experts to monitor and have an electronic record. Each patient has a medical staff who serves the patient throughout the process.

The retirement age is 65. The nursing home is fully equipped and the life of the elderly is rich and varied.

All men, women, children and elderly's health coverage is publicly funded. Nobody needs to buy medical insurance, and accidents receive timely relief subsidies. Everyone is healthy and live long.

Everyday life is colorful. Cloth factories and clothes factories are all public, people's clothes are very comfortable, beautiful, durable and cheap. The catering industry is publicly owned, and people usually have meals in the nearby Datun Hall, which is delicious and affordable, balanced and clean. Most people are renting a house, convenient and comfortable. Some people buy houses, or buy lands to build houses.

Most people use public transportation. Most of the roads and tracks are built under the ground, and most of the roads on the ground are covered. Land vehicles are almost entirely electric, energy-saving and environmentally friendly. Water transportation is very safe, and the boats are unsinkable and unflippable.

Aviation consumes a lot of fuel, is noisy, is not environmentally friendly, is dangerous, and is used as little as possible. The transportation network built by global overall planning is very convenient. People have many holidays and like to travel. Population issues are important. The number of the global population is determined by the current quantity. It should not increase or decrease sharply. It must be controlled. Childbearing is the right and responsibility of every adult. It must be reasonable to be fair.

Every adult can only produce a maximum of two children, and there are punishments for those who have more.

People with special disabilities gets a reward for not procreating. People who are particularly smart and fit must also have more children, and they will be punished if they don't. People who have contributed a lot to society can have more children.

Encourage intermarriage among people of different origins, aliens, paganism, foreign countries, and different regions.

In the future, people will live well, medical science is advanced, infertile people can procreate, older people can procreate, there is no survival crisis, people are willing to implement family planning. The global population will be well controlled to ensure sustainable human development and sustainable improvement of the living environment.

In ancient times, people used to raise children to protect against old age, and hoped that many children would bring more blessings. They will not or are not used to or willing to use birth planning. The infant mortality rate is high, and there are racial disharmonities, wars, and plagues. People have a great sense of survival crisis and intend to procreate more, hoping that they are fortunate enough to have a few who survive. In fact, there are many examples of giving birth to ten and only two survive, it is very cruel and very tragic.

With the advancement of medicine, in the underdeveloped countries and regions, there are many couples who have ten children who all survived, and the population is increasing rapidly, which may cause many social problems. In some developed countries, the pension system is very good, people have abundance, but many couples do not want to have children, and the population decline is very problematic. The Ministry of Population of the World Government can control the global population. The world government pays great attention to education, creates the best teaching environment, and uses the most advanced teaching equipment to create the best teaching methods. To train a large number of high-quality teachers, each teacher must have good expression and teaching skills, as well as a wealth of professional knowledge, especially kindergarten teachers. Parents also need to be educated to teach their children, and parents have a great responsibility to teach their children.

The purpose of education is to cultivate everyone into a physically healthy, mentally healthy, charitable, loving, diligent, frugal and environment friendly person. Everyone must love himself, love home, be a patriot, love the world, and love all mankind. When solving issues, we must try to benefit all human beings around the world. Be a world citizen who benefits the whole world and benefits all mankind. Be responsible and trustworthy.

Education begins at birth, infant, kindergarten, primary school, secondary school, and university. Each stage has its own characteristics. The world needs a lot of people to study and work in education. The Ministry of Education is also responsible for creating a world language that is universally available. Education from kindergarten to university is free.

There are many museums, exhibition halls, libraries, art studios, and science and technology laboratories in society, all of which are guided by professionals. Everyone has the opportunity to study and do research. Many people have a lot of professional diplomas, and people's morality, intellect and physique are all high-level.

The fiscal revenue of the world government. The world's annual output value is very large, the world government has a lot of income, and banks have a lot of money. Government spending is good for all human beings around the world. The Ministry of Economic Affairs manages global financial and economic affairs.

World Province: The world government has an important task that must be implemented. It is to divide the land of the world into about 100,000 to 200,000 square kilometers of residential areas, referred to as the world provinces. It is directly under the jurisdiction of the world government.

Now that some countries have such a large area, they can become a world province. Every big country, such as Russia, China, the United States, India, and Brazil, is divided into several world provinces. Some small countries or small islands can be merged into the nearby world provinces. Some small countries or small islands can be merged into one world province.

Every province in the world has its own province number. For example, there is a South Africa 3 in Africa. There is a Western Europe 7 in the United Kingdom. There is a Central America 3 in Mexico. There is a North-West Asia 12 in Japan, There is an Australia 9 in Australia.

The original inhabitants of the world province are the people of this province. Each person's world citizenship certificate indicates the world's provincial citizenship. They can immigrate to other world provinces according to law and change the provincial membership. The newborn's provincial citizenship does not depend on the birthplace but is the same as the mother's.

The world citizenship ID has the functions of credit card, driver's license, passport, and various formality functions. Very convenient.

The province is jointly negotiated by the world government and relevant national governments and relevant local governments and relevant professional and technical personnel. The province is planned for shortening of borders, concentration of land, and easy management.

The governors and principal officials of the world are authorized by the world government, and the establishment of the world government is a huge project for all mankind. It is necessary to mobilize all human beings to participate together, from the government to the people, from the people to the government. From bottom to top, from top to bottom. Communicate with each other well.

It is necessary to set up a world government preparatory committee at all levels. The World Government Preparatory Committees of various localities, provinces, central governments, and the United Nations. They are responsible for collecting relevant information, collecting opinions, suggestions, and various blueprints and methods for establishing a world government.

At the same time, it is responsible for publicizing and explaining the work to the public through multimedia, so that everyone understands that it is urgently necessary to establish a world government, and that the modern world situation gives a glorious task to everyone. All the people are required to mobilize, offer ideas, and donate money.

The so-called deliberation is to utilize the wisdom and ability of each individual and to design and build the world government better. The so-called donations are to donate your own money. In fact, it is more than enough for each person to be willing to donate a fourth of their total assets. If you donate $25 for every $100 you own, you can build a world government. What you get is peace and prosperity, peaceful living and working environments, public medical care, good welfare, good environment, health and happiness. If you have 1 million dollars, donate $250,000, and you still have $750,000 to be safely kept and enjoyed, and will not become ash. You get a world of harmony, high wage income, and a rich and colorful life. The so-called donating power, everyone has the right to choose, this is political power, the choice is to give up the power. Do you agree to establish a world government?

I believe that most people in most countries in the world, such as most people in Russia, most people in China, and most people in the United States, are willing to establish a world government. Let the heads of the three powerful countries, Putin, Xi Jinping and Trump sit down to discuss. If they reach a consensus, all human beings around the world would be saved. Then, further, the heads of state of the world will jointly open the conference and work together to succeed. The wars that are still going on in the world, the things that are harmful to humanity, and the various unresolved disputes are immediately stopped. Once the world government is established, conflicts can be solved smoothly and properly. Putin, Xi Jinping, and Trump become the saviors of mankind. The head of each country has made great contributions and won amnesty.

The retired leaders of all countries receive rich pensions. It is stipulated in the text that all current and past leaders will not be pursued for the mistakes and crimes they have committed, and will never settle accounts after the agreement. All big criminals can schedule negotiations, if they stop doing evil in the near future, they can get effective personal safety protection instantly and get instant rewards. All prisoners receive amnesty, give them a good life, and give them freedom of speech. The world government has confidence and must fulfill its commitments.

The plan is to start the nationalization procedure by the countries of the world, such as each of the three powers of Russia, China and the United States, under the leadership of the central government and with the participation of the United Nations ad hoc World Government Preparatory Committee. First, the state acquires the assets of industrial and commercial groups and privately owned assets with reasonable and peaceful means, and converts them into state-owned industrial production and state-owned commercial companies.

The land and agricultural assets from landlords are converted into state-owned agricultural production. The government deposits the money into the bank accounts of the corresponding capitalists and landlords, giving them spending freedom. They can work or switch jobs or retire in the corresponding state-owned enterprises, they are free to choose. The original private workers or individual industrial and commercial workers may voluntarily become employees of state-owned enterprises. The wages must be much higher than before, and the environment and life must be much better than before.

Foreign delegations or tour groups are welcome to visit, give advice, exchange experiences and learn. In the near future, other countries will be nationalized, and the heads of the countries will hand over their national land, resources, and nationals to the world government. The heads of state have completed a huge task and made a great achievement, a peaceful and prosper world. Everyone is the master of the world, contributing to the world's improvement, living a happy and long life.

24 Covid-19 Pandemic

This time we must transform the terrible pandemic disaster into a good thing! How?

The covid-19 pandemic is terrifying. Some died quickly. Many people feel miserable, sad, painful, and shaken. It affects everyone on the planet. This disaster can be avoided and there should be long term planning! There should be long term planning! We need prevention, preparation, material, medical equipment and mass production of health care items. To ensure sufficient supply, quality and performance must be improved, and we must focus on training a large number of medical personnel, and the professional level needs to improve. Experts studying bacterial viruses must be very careful, and must not accidentally leak them. If a pandemic situation is discovered, an alarm should be sounded immediately, the message should be comprehensive and quick, and we must immediately join forces to eliminate it.

Starting from Wuhan, the covid-19 has caused intensive mobilization by the Chinese government through in-depth research by Chinese experts, and has invested heavily in all aspects of financial and material resources. Many medical staff work day and night, the people follow the government's instructions, wear masks, wash hands frequently, disinfect strictly, go out less, isolate themselves at home, stay patient, and strictly abide by the rules. It took about three months for the pandemic to be brought under control and gradually calmed down. Don't relax yet!

If the governments and people of all countries in the world basically learn the measures taken by China to do so, the pandemic will soon be brought under control and recovered peacefully. Unfortunately, it is slow!

The United States is very rich and powerful, science and technology are advanced, and they are very democratic and free. However, because they are very democratic, they are not very effective in issuing orders very quickly. Some people even think that they are not democratic enough. Freedom is good, but when in dangerous situations, there are people who don't wear masks and go out wandering. Due to insufficient attention to the pandemic, some things were not learned from China in time. The pandemic has not yet been brought under control, with heavy casualties. This pandemic is not only a problem for any country, but a problem for the whole world. The whole world has fallen into the most dangerous situation. All countries in the world should turn their enemies into friends, work together to fight against the pandemic, and save all mankind.

In the era of globalization, the world is inhabited by people of all ethnic groups. We are friends, neighbors, classmates, colleagues, husbands and wives. We must promote mutual assistance and cooperation, harmony and happiness. In fact, most people love peace, are very friendly and caring. It is good to turn an enemy into a friend. Turning friends into enemies is not good. In fact, turning friends into enemies is very embarrassing and cruel. Caution! In this pandemic, extremely serious problems have surfaced. For decades, China and the United States have been hostile to each other. There are still many missiles in the United States aimed at China carrying atomic bombs. China also has many missiles aimed at the United States carrying atomic bombs. It would be miserable if it was launched unintentionally or intentionally, and the vast majority of Chinese and the vast majority of Americans opposed this extremely dangerous situation. It would be nice if both China and the United States dismantle nuclear weapons. But what about Russia, Britain, France, India, Pakistan and other countries? If all are removed, how many may be left? Moreover, nuclear weapons are now easy to assemble and manufacture, and small countries also have nuclear weapons! What about other weapons? All in all, modern wars are very miserable, and the survivors can still become cancerous and disabled, which is very painful. In addition, there are bacterial virus weapons. What about chemical weapons? It is possible for small countries to study manufacturing and dissemination. All are major problems, how to solve them?

It is necessary to establish a world government as soon as possible to solve these many major problems. Regarding the world government, many people have proposed to discuss and study it a long time ago. It used to be, and it could remain, just talk. Now we must actively speak, actively research, actively design, and actively act. Global catastrophes may break out any day. People live day to day, and every country in the world consumes a lot of the earth's resources every day, so that the environment of the earth is getting worse. In the near future, it will be difficult for humanity to survive on earth. The world government must be established as soon as possible in order to solve these many major problems. In order to establish a world government, if most people are willing to give up 1% of their money and spend 2% of their spare time to think and do it, the governments of all countries will lead their people to work together to achieve success.

Americans are very kind to the Chinese. When we came to the United States, many Americans took the initiative to help us and actively cared for us. Many Chinese students came to the United States to study and learned a lot of high-tech knowledge. US imperialism also did not occupy the land of China. A long time ago, the US used the Gengzi compensation treaty to recruit Chinese students to study in the United States to train talents for China at that time. China is very prosperous and strong, and some aspects have greatly surpassed that of the United States. The Chinese are smart and hardworking. With the long-term help of the United States, we see what became of China today. To the United States, China should be grateful. When the United States have difficulties, China needs to help them wholeheartedly. China has many advantages. The United States should learn more about China. The United States has not only helped China, but has also greatly helped the world. China should also vigorously help the world to make it better. Inhabitants of all ethnic groups on a globalized planet live in harmony and help each other. After the establishment of the world government, there will be no war, no natural disasters or human disasters, and people would have a good mood. Therefore, at work, it is easy to find many useful and interesting inventions. Work is a kind of enjoyment, work is the source of happiness. Science and technologies and develop them quickly. There will be planning and order. Ideal and beautiful things will appear one after another in the development process. The earth will be a paradise for humans, plants and animals. The world will be better.

25 Prohibit abortions, promote marriage and happy families

Human sperm and egg combine to form an embryo, which develops and grows in the mother's body. Born from the mother's body at full term, the newborn comes to the world and is protected and nurtured by society, especially by the care and love of the newborn's parents. Abortion is the deliberate killing of a fetus in the mother's womb, it is in effect a homicide. Homicide is a serious crime and should be dealt with according to law. Especially killing one's own child is a crime against the heavens! Then if the law doesn't get you, you still will never find peace! Killing one's own child will haunt you all your life, it is extremely terrifying! Eternal pain! Never be free! I advise the world not to have an abortion. During the process of abortion, pregnant women are physically and mentally traumatized. Some become infertile because of this, many gynecological diseases are caused by abortion, and the odds of gynecological cancers will increase. By the way, a very important fact is that the chance of a certain sperm and a certain egg combining to form an embryo is very very small; less than one in 100 million, it is very unlikely. It is less likely than winning the lottery 100 million times in a row. Here I would like to remind you: everyone is extremely lucky to be born in this world. Everyone should cherish their own life, love all things in the world, be charitable and be grateful!

To ban abortion we must prevent unwanted pregnancies. Every couple should earnestly study non-abortion contraceptive methods and strictly practice contraception. The government should legislate to strictly prohibit abortion, and at the same time explain why abortion is illegal in the legal text. Every medical worker would not perform abortions, and would rather resign than do them. (Past mistakes should be forgiven.) Every fetus has a father, and the father also has the responsibility to protect the fetus. In case of abortion the father should be held accountable.

Everyone, from teenagers to young adults, must receive and pass sex education and marriage education. Everyone must have this certificate before they are allowed to register for marriage, and legislation should be required to make it illegal for unmarried people to live together. Marriage is every adult's responsibility to society, and it is also every adult's right. Some people say: human beings have evolved into the most evolved beings on earth because of monogamy, and human beings must adhere to monogamy in the future. Facts have proved that chickens are polygamous and incestuous, and chickens cannot fly. The monkey king monopolizes the female monkeys, and the monkeys are small and ugly. Scholars and experts are invited to study the disadvantages of incest. Incest was banned in ancient China, and homosexuality was banned in ancient China, and both men and women should be married. The government can use scientific, reasonable, benevolent, and environmentally friendly methods beneficial to the development of human beings to control the population.

The government and society must promptly discover underage pregnant girls, protect them immediately, keep them in a good environment until the baby is born, and then hand it over to society or relatives for upbringing. The girl must also be educated to realize that it is illegal to have underage sex and get pregnant. Adults have to take due responsibilities and hold the baby's father accountable.

Divorce should be prohibited: Once you are a couple, you have a good reason to never separate, so that you can become a good couple and good companions.

If parents are at odds, children have no sense of security, and divorce is very harmful to children. When you get married, you must abide by the code of conduct of the husband and wife.

Be rational before getting married. When choosing a spouse, you should emphasize choosing the one that suits you the most, not the one that is the best. There are many things that need to be considered in advance.

Be rational after marriage, discuss and resolve issues with your partner more, and try to make your partner feel comfortable and happy as much as possible. Having a loving family, growing up in a loving family with their parents, and having a happy childhood have a great influence on a person. If you have a happy childhood, you will also give your children a happy childhood in the future. This good family tradition, passed down from generation to generation, is conducive to social development. There must be good interaction between the government and the people in order to build a harmonious society.

Husband and wife should never be independent from each other, but emphasize mutual dependence, mutual help and cooperation, learn from each other's strengths and make up for each other's weaknesses, each doing his best and getting what one needs.

It was prevalent in ancient China: Husband deals with outside matters, wife dominates the home, they cooperate by dividing responsibilities. The husband works outside the home to earn money to support the family, while the wife is a housewife who takes care of her husband and raises her children. She is a good wife and loving mother. Young couples form and stay together for a hundred years, protecting and guiding future generations to a better world.

We should advocate early marriage and early childbearing: Young parents have strong abilities, and the children they give birth to are stronger, which is more conducive to raising children. Children grow up, parents are still in their prime, mutual help and cooperation foster good mood and favorable work conditions which are more conducive to better social development.

The government should care about unmarried adults, especially the middle age people who are not married, and should guide and help them pair up and get married in a timely manner. This will lead to civil peace and the harmonious development of society.

This chapter is about the prohibition of abortion, which is related to marriage. Marriage is a major event for everyone, and it is also a major event related to the development of the human society, so we should have more discussion about the subject. Some people suggest that it is wise for male high achievers to find a young woman who is willing to be a good wife and mother at home. He would be able to work hard for his career during the day, return to the warm comfort of home after work. Those conditions make the whole family happy, lead to career development and to the growth and education of the children. It is best for female high achievers to marry someone who will become her male protector, so that she can concentrate on her own career. It is smart to entrust yourself, your family and your children to your "bodyguard" husband.

Society needs to cultivate some family harmony experts, such as lawyers, but who are more knowledgeable than lawyers, and who specialize in counseling happiness in marriage and families. They cooperate with the government and can take initiative to help solve various problems. People can also ask these mentors to be their family's long-term counselor.

26 Datong

Datong is an ideal society designed by some Chinese people in ancient times for social development. According to the blueprint of his predecessors and his own ideals, Confucius described Datong as follows:

In the journey of the Dao, the world is shared by all people, and people with high moral character and ability are selected, honesty is emphasized, and harmony is cultivated. Therefore, people not only support their parents, not only raise their children, but also enable the elderly to live their lives, the middle-aged to serve society, the young to grow up smoothly. People enable the widows, widowers, children who lost their father when they were young, people who are old and childless, and disabled people to be able to be helped. Men have jobs, women have homes. As for goods, people hate the act of throwing them on the ground, but they don't necessarily want to keep them private; people are willing to do their best for public affairs, not necessarily for their own personal gain. Therefore, treacherous plots will not happen, and theft, rebellion and harm will not happen. So there is no need to close the door. This is called an ideal society.

Dao refers to human society. The world includes all human beings and all things. The world is public, everyone has a share, everyone has rights and responsibilities, everyone protect me, I protect everyone, each person does his best, and each gets what he deserves. The division of labor in society requires people to manage the affairs of the public, they are called government or civil servants. Civil servants are not able to do what they want, and they should choose kind and capable people to take up leadership positions. Who chooses these people? The respected senior citizens.

Trustworthiness and harmony require mutual trust between people and a harmonious society. Therefore, people should not only cherish their own relatives, but also treat others' sons as their own, treat others' elders as their own. People should have empathy towards each other. If someone does good things, we should help him become even better. If someone does a bad thing, you should stop him immediately and make him change his ways.

A harmonious society should pay attention to cultivating and educating young people to become healthy, ethical and professional young people. Adults have the responsibility to protect the world's environment. They are physically strong and must work hard to produce daily necessities and food for the society. The elderly and the widowed, lonely, and disabled are all sustained with public medical care and live worry-free.

The ancient Chinese paid great attention to both men and women getting married and having children to build a happy family. The ancient Chinese rarely divorced. Moreover, ghost marriages are held for those men and women who have died single.

Now we already know that the earth is spherical, and that people live on it. The world is also called the whole world. The more technological innovation and convenient transportations develop, the faster globalization develop. A global village is where the residents come from all over the world, have different ethnicities, cultures and religious beliefs, engage in various occupations, live in harmony and are happy. Let's hope that in the near future there will be global villages all around the world, which will lead to world peace. People in the global village come from different countries. They may be enemy countries. They are modern people. they wouldn't care about past enemies. We should turn enemies into friends, defend world peace, and build a beautiful and ideal society for all mankind. People from different countries and races are encouraged to get married with each other.

Datong is an ideal blueprint for social development invented by the ancients 2250 years ago. This blueprint is alive, moving forward and advancing with the age we live in, and this blueprint provides correct guidance for the peaceful development of the whole mankind. It is the greatest invention of the ancient mankind, and it was invented by the ancients in China. Please note that there are various differences in Datong, and these differences make the world colorful. Datong is not conformity, and there is no society that is all the same.

27 Prohibition of war and fostering harmony in the world

War is a method, a means. It is killing people and setting buildings on fire, aiming at the enemy (the enemy is also human) with swords and guns. Hit the building. People die, buildings were destroyed, soldiers got military achievement, and officers got military achievement.

War is competing. Competing for what? It's fighting for power, dominance, resources, land, minerals, ports, space, etc. It's all about fighting. There are other purposes of war, such as revenge. Some people fan the flames and gloat over others' misfortune. Some people hope that the conflict between two external factions will allow them to take advantage of their weakened state.

The military includes soldiers, non-commissioned officers, officers, generals, commanders, and marshals. There are voluntary and involuntary soldiers. Officers are mostly voluntary. It is not easy to be a general. The general is treated very well by the country, but his success is built on the lost lives of tens of thousands of people.

Where the war is fought: war used to be fought on the battlefield, on the front line. Now it is fought in cities, in crowded places, in important places, in the air, on the sea, and below the sea.

Weapons: In ancient times, knives, swords, spears, arrows, guns, cannons, land mines, sea mines, and bombs were used to fight. Weapons are getting more and more ferocious. Now there are atomic bombs, hypersonic missiles, laser weapons, electromagnetic pulse weapons. A common saying is "be the first to strike first". A hypersonic missile carries an atomic bomb that can explode anywhere on Earth. In fact, everyone has multiple atomic bombs that may explode at any time. Therefore everyone should take action to speak out against war through various media. Once an atomic war breaks out, human beings will not be able to survive on earth. There are also bacterial and virus warfare, biological warfare, and chemical warfare, all of which are catastrophic. We must find ways to prohibit them.

What is globalization? it means advancement in transportation and access to different countries. People from different countries and different races live in the same place and become each other's classmates, colleagues, and husbands and wives. They live and work in peace and harmony. This is the global village. Do you like the global village? There are already many global villages around the world. People in the global village really hope for world peace, but it is hard to preserve it if there is a war. Now the heads of state of the major powers have great power and responsibility. In order to defend their country, they are preparing for war, manufacturing many weapons, and spending a lot of manpower and material resources. Now that the world is in the most dangerous time, we must immediately put down the weapons and become enlightened. Don't mind the past. The heads of state and the people of all countries are human beings, and people all over the world should get along with each other in a friendly way, and there are ways they can find to achieve it. You can get along well and enjoy a good life.

The heads of state of Russia, the United States, and China should negotiate in a friendly manner, step by step, and successfully dismantle dangerous weapons to achieve world peace. The heads of state of the three major countries will become the great saviors of mankind. From now on, any problems can be negotiated, proposed, and discussed to get good results.

②⑧ Talk about important things at any time
